CALL JUSTICE DEPARTMENT A POLITICAL TOOL

Cite Delay in Lobby Fund Inquiry.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29.—Official disclosure today of a grand jury investigation of a $48,000 lobby fund to purchase legislation in which former Democratic Sen. Clyde Herring of Iowa is involved focused attention again on the extent to which the department of justice is dominated by political considerations in the administration of the law.

The securities and exchange commission unearthed the lobby scandal a year and a half ago and reported it to President Roosevelt, who referred it to the department of justice on Aug. 17, 1942, when Herring still was a member of the senate and a candidate for reëlection.

The department of justice did not present the charges to a grand jury until last October, 14 months after receiving them and nine months after Mr. Herring, having been defeated, ceased to be a member of the senate. The charges were submitted to the grand jury only after they became public in the house naval affairs committee's investigation of the Brewster Aeronautical corporation.

A Criminal Offense.

The conduct of the department in this affair recalls its inaction on charges that Rep. Eugene E. Cox [D., Ga.] received $2,500 for legal services to a radio station in connection with a license application to the federal communications commission. It is a criminal offense for a member of congress to practice law before government agencies.

Following this disclosure Cox procured a house investigation of the FCC and became chairman of the investigating committee. The impropriety of this situation became so embarrassing to the Democrats that Cox was persuaded to relinquish the chairmanship of the committee. Cox said that he gave the $2,500 to charity.

On the other hand, at the request of Harry Hopkins, Presidential confidant, Atty. Gen. Francis Biddle instantly sent two FBI agents to C. Nelson Sparks at Akron, O., to obtain the original of the letter Sparks says Hopkins wrote to Dr. Umphrey Lee, president of Southern Methodist university, offering to invoke Wendell Willkie's influence. Hopkins pronounced the letter a forgery. Sparks refused to surrender the letter pending the senate investigation of Willkie's political activities.

Numerous Instances Cited.

There have been numerous instances of the use of the department of justice as the tool to wreak vengeance and promote political objectives of the Roosevelt administration. With the threat of criminal prosecution for violation of the anti-trust laws, the department attempted to intimidate the Associated Press into furnishing its service to Marshall Field's New Deal organ in Chicago. This attempt failed. The department also brought a civil suit against the Associated Press under the anti-trust laws, a case still pending in the courts.

The administration used the department of justice in an attempt to procure the indictment of the managing editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE on charges of violation of navy censorship. The department retained former Atty. Gen. William D. Mitchell to present the charges to the grand jury. The jury refused to indict.

Urges F.D.R. to Reveal His '44 Intentions

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29 (AP).—Asserting that President Roosevelt is obviously "using every strategy at his command to build a fourth and perhaps continual term in the White House," Sen. Edward V. Robertson [R., Wyo.] called on the President today to state his political intentions.

Sen. Robertson.

The Wyoming senator declared in a statement that "candidate Roosevelt and not President Roosevelt" was speaking at a press conference yesterday in which the chief executive emphasized preference for a "win the war" slogan, over the term "New Deal." The President said a reporter was "getting picayune" when he asked if Mr. Roosevelt's comments added up to a fourth term declaration.

Admit Indispensability!

Calling this a "remarkable" conference, Robertson said the question remained why Mr. Roosevelt "does not now take the people into his confidence."

"If he feels he is the one indispensable man, he should admit it and state publicly that the White House political maneuvers that are going on under the direction of Harry Hopkins and others of the palace guard have his full approval," said the Wyoming senator.

Robertson said the strategy of 1940 was to "create the appearance of a draft Roosevelt movement" and asserted it is being used again.

Merely Catching Up.

"The President remains coy," he said. "One group of satellites says 'run,' another group, including Earl Browder, says he must be drafted, and from it all it becomes apparent that the palace guard seeks to create a picture of a reluctant President reluctantly yielding to a draft."

The President's statement that he favored dropping the New Deal label for the win the war slogan prompted Sen. Alexander Wiley [R., Wis.] to observe that Mr. Roosevelt "is merely catching up with the people of the country, who have given up the concepts of the New Deal for several years."

Calls It Smart Politics.

Wiley said he thought the win the war slogan was "smart politics," adding:

"There isn't any question in my mind that a great many people will vote for President Roosevelt if we are at war—because we are at war—who wouldn't vote for him if peace arrives before November, 1944."

Sen. Ralph O. Brewster [R., Me.] said he felt, like others, that the President laid the groundwork for a fourth term race by his recital of the accomplishments of the New Deal and his prediction of an expanded economy after the war.

He added, however, that the Roosevelt plans would "bear watching" and observed that the President might only be preparing the way for some one else to run.

CHICAGO HOPES TO BE HOST FOR 2 CONVENTIONS

Cites City's Hotel Accommodations.

Mayor Kelly and business leaders of the city expressed confidence yesterday that Chicago will be selected as the meeting place of the 1944 Republican national convention, and they said prospects are good that both Republican and Democratic conventions will be held here. The office of defense transportation has asked both parties to choose Chicago as the meeting place in order to minimize the amount of travel involved.

The Republican national committee will meet Jan. 10 and 11 in the Stevens hotel to fix the time and place of holding the convention. Harrison E. Spangler, chairman of the committee, has stated that Chicago undoubtedly will be the convention city.

Democrats Meet Jan. 21.

Political leaders conceded that the Democrats' decision on where to meet would be influenced by the outcome of the Republican convention, but they said strong reasons would have to be advanced by other bidding cities in order to match Chicago's overwhelming advantages.

Mayor Kelly said he expected to get no definite information about Democratic party plans until the party's national committee meets Jan. 21 in Washington, D. C.

A committee of business and industrial leaders of Chicago, sponsored by the convention bureau of the Association of Commerce, is being organized, and will be ready to extend an invitation to the Republican committee at its meeting Jan. 10. The committee also is arranging to post a guarantee of funds to meet convention expenses. Similar action will be taken to bring the Democratic convention to Chicago.

City Has 1,385 Hotels.

Ernest C. Roessler, president of the Greater Chicago Hotel association, said the city's hotels would have little difficulty in handling either or both the national political conventions, especially since both parties have been asked to limit attendance to delegates and officials of the conventions.

Chicago has 1,385 hotels with 135,000 rooms, and each year the city accommodates several gatherings larger than the political conventions, Roessler said. While all the hotels now are filled near capacity, June and July, when the conventions probably will be held, should find space available for all delegates, he added.

Reopening of the huge Stevens hotel has relieved some of the pressure on the downtown hotels recently. The Stevens management reported yesterday that 1,500 rooms are ready for occupancy, and with a little luck in obtaining furniture, nearly 3,000 rooms should be available in June.

Leads in Sleeping Cars.

In addition to hotel rooms, Chicago has thousands of rooms in private homes which could be used for visitors in emergencies. Hotel men said it never has been necessary to make lists of such rooms for convention delegates, not even when the American Legion convention drew 115,000 visitors in 1938.

More important than hotel rooms this year is the number of beds in sleeping cars terminating in Chicago. In this respect, Chicago is far ahead of all other cities, according to H. F. McCarthy, director of the division of traffic movement of the ODT. He listed favorably located cities, with their numbers of sleeping car beds, as follows: Chicago, 11,368; New York, 7,129; St. Louis, 3,240; Detroit, 1,528; Kansas City, 1,279, and Cleveland, 1,235.

Points to Facilities.

David Mayer Jr., president of the State Street council, said both parties could make an important contribution to winning the war by meeting in Chicago, because its railroad and hotel facilities can handle the load without strain on troop movements and other work directly connected with the war.

In addition, he said, Chicago's weather in June and July is much more likely to be pleasant than that of other cities which have served as convention sites.

MEN ON HORSEBACK

All Chickens in Storage to Go to Military

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29.—The war food administration tonight requisitioned for army use the choice chickens that hotel, restaurant, and dining car chefs had expected to offer on their menus in place of rationed meats during the remainder of the winter.

WFA ordered owners of all dressed chicken and fowl [hens] to set aside their freezer stocks for purchase by the army, navy, war shipping administration, and other government agencies. It announced the agencies expected to take approximately 70 million of the 170 million pounds of chicken now in storage.

Chicken Twice Month.

The poultry will be used to give soldiers chicken for Sunday dinner at least twice a month from now thru next June, WFA said. Chicken also is a "vital" part of the diet in military hospitals.

WFA said that "for months" the army and other procurement agencies have been unable to buy more than 20 per cent of the chickens they required from the storage stocks and have experienced a shortage of chicken meat.

Civilians who buy a live hen or roasting chicken for Sunday dinner or who obtain a freshly killed chicken from their neighborhood poultry store probably will be little affected by tonight's action, WFA officials said. The order does not apply to chickens and fowl stored after tomorrow.

Price Formulas Issued.

The "freeze" order becomes effective at 11:01 p. m., Chicago war time tonight, WFA announced.

Concurrent with the issuance of the order halting the sale of frozen dressed chicken, the office of price administration announced the pricing formulas the government agencies would follow in the purchase of the poultry. They follow:

The maximum prices for sales from storage by restaurants, hotels, railroad dining cars, night clubs, and retailers are the sums of the following: [1] cost of acquisition, including cost of transportation to place of purchase by the government, not to exceed the seller's maximum buying price, at the point of purchase by the government; [2] expense of public warehousing, and [3] the wholesale markup provided by the poultry regulation which is either [a] 1½ cents per pound on sales in quantities less than 10,000 pounds, or [b] 1 cent per pound in quantities of 10,000 or more pounds.

No Pay for Storage.

For sales by hotel supply houses to the government, the maximum price is the sum of items [1] and [3] above. No provision is made for reimbursing them for their storage charges paid to public warehouses. This is because the expenses of hotel supply houses involved in the sale to the government will be less than their expenses in special service sales to their usual clientele.

For sales by producers, processors, and wholesalers, the priority or set-aside order does no more than require these sellers to sell their set-aside poultry items in one of their customary methods. The prices already provided in the poultry regulation for such sales are applicable.

JAIL WINS BY HAIR AS WIFE BALANCES SCALES OF JUSTICE

Mrs. Martha Warchol, 45 years old, of 1315 Chicago avenue, went to the Shakespeare avenue Municipal court yesterday with a bald spot on her head and a handful of hair that once grew on the spot.

She was pretty angry as she told Judge Edward P. Luczak that her husband, August, 49, charged with disorderly conduct, had tried to scalp her, handful of hair by handful, Monday.

"Look," she said. "Look at that spot where he jerked out a handful. I've got the hair here in my purse."

"I believe you, madam," said the judge. "What do you want me to do with him?"

Warchol looked as if he feared the worst. Mrs. Warchol first looked triumphant, and then a little uncertain when she realized she was balancing the scales of justice in her own hands.

"Well, I want him back," she said, "but a little touch of jail wouldn't hurt him."

Judge Luczak continued the case to Feb. 18.

BRITISH RELEASE 56 HELD UNDER DEFENSE RULES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 29.—Fifty-six persons, including 20 of Italian origin, were released from detention under Britain's home defense regulations during November, the home office reported today. No new detention orders were issued.

As of Nov. 30, 299 persons were still detained. Of this number were 34 whose cases have not been finally decided. Twenty-eight of these persons were detained "on grounds of their hostile origin or associations."

Among those released last month were Oswald Mosley, leader of the British Union of Fascists, and his wife.

A Woman Isn't Worth Suicide, Judge Tells Man

"No woman is worth killing yourself for," Judge Francis Borrelli told John Jankaskas, 27 years old, in the Stockyards court yesterday, in freeing him on a charge of disorderly conduct. Jankaskas attempted to end his life with gas in his home at 5915 South Wolcott avenue, because his wife had left him. Judge Borrelli added another bit of advice, saying, "If your wife doesn't come back to you find another."

Union Stand Keeps a Ship Off the Ocean

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 29 [Special.]—Union insistence on "featherbed pay"—pay for work that isn't done—today gave the nation its first dry launching in the history of war time shipbuilding. The prow was wet with wine but no water reached the keel.

Bands played, crowds cheered, distinguished visitors spoke, but the only splash came from a champagne bottle swung by Mrs. Morley Mackenzie, of Toronto, Canada, wife of the imperial grand potentate of the Shrine for North America. Thru it all the newly built C-2 cargo ship, the Defiance, remained motionless on the way where she had been built.

"As idle as a painted ship
Upon a painted ocean."

At a late hour tonight, the Defiance was still there, with indications that there she would remain until the maritime commission and union officials got together on the question of whether a launching crew should receive a full day's pay for knocking the blocks from her keel, an operation normally requiring about four hours. Laying of a keel for a new ship was likewise indefinitely delayed.

Union Agent's Edict.

No more launchings in this area until launching crews are assured a full day's pay for their work was the edict of George Sanfacon, business agent for the carpenters' local 1149 [AFL]. A spokesman for the maritime commission said "we will not pay any one for hours other than those worked, and we will not allow any company to do so."

M. G. Bartlett, assistant secretary of the Moore Drydock company, which built the ship, said there has been an understanding for years that launching crews should draw a day's pay, but that this is not in the contract. "We can't do a thing," he said. "It's up to the union to straighten it out with the maritime commission."

Ultimatum Delivered.

The commission order went out Dec. 6, it was said, and altho intervening launchings have occurred, the scheduled launching of the Defiance was the first since men had received pay checks based on actual time.

A union ultimatum was delivered this morning and after delaying ceremonies for several hours, the company decided to proceed on a "dry" basis.

Thieves Steal Honor Roll of Boy Scouts in Service

Ottawa, Ill., Dec. 29 (AP).—Police today were investigating a crime they described as "the most contemptible in Ottawa's history"—the theft of an honor roll of Boy Scouts in service. The plaque, 4 by 6 feet, was stolen from a park where it was dedicated at ceremonies last Memorial day.

Russians Gain on 110 Mile Ukraine Line

LONDON, Dec. 30 [Thursday]—(AP).—The Red army has surged to within 48 miles of the pre-war Polish border west of Kiev in a breakthru along a 110 mile arc, Moscow announced today.

The soviet power drive took 250 Ukrainian communities in 24 hours, in addition to the major rail hub and fortress of Korosten, as powerful German defenses suddenly were shattered, Moscow said.

Capture of a town 12 miles beyond Korosten, to the southwest, placed the Russians well beyond the Zhitomir-Korosten high water mark of their earlier offensive toward Poland.

13 Miles from Another Rail Hub.

Additional details of the Moscow war report, recorded here by the soviet radio monitor, also put the swift moving Red army 13 miles southeast of the important rail junction of Berdichev after a 10 mile push. Berdichev is 100 miles southwest of Kiev.

Advances in the last 24 hours gave the Russians control of a 35 mile sector of the trunk railway line from Leningrad to Odessa as they captured Chernyakhov, 12 miles north of threatened Zhitomir, and other rail stations south of Korosten.

In an important thrust southwest at the lower end of this advancing Russian arc the 2d Ukrainian army captured Skvira, 50 miles southwest of Kiev, terminus of a short feeder railway to a Kiev line.

Reds Recoup Losses.

With yesterday's gain the Russians have recaptured in one week almost all of the big Kiev bulge which the Germans had won in five weeks of bloody counter-assault.

The Russians once more, as they had in late November, were threatening to smash thru to the old Polish and Rumanian borders and perhaps even cut off the vast German forces in the Dnieper bend of the southern Ukraine.

The powerful Nazi defense belt appeared to be crumbling fast under the soviet offensive, which was sparked by an appeal to the Red army in its official newspaper Red Star not to let the enemy reform his lines again on Russian territory.

Knock at Vitebsk Gates.

Other outstanding developments of a victory-packed day for Russian arms were:

VITEBSK—Russians of the Baltic army converging on this German White Russian stronghold captured several populated places and killed 1,700 Nazis. The German controled Vichy radio reported Russians "hammering at the city's outer defenses."

DNIEPER BEND—A new soviet offensive in the south Ukraine began as troops west of Zaporozhe went over to the offensive and captured more than 30 populated places, including an island in the Dnieper opposite Zaporozhe and a suburb of the city. This drive was heading toward Nikopol, a great manganese ore center, 35 miles southwest.

Seize 30 Large Towns.

KIROVOGRAD AREA — On this Dnieper bend front, where the Germans were counter-attacking, the Russians held back the Nazi thrusts and inflicted heavy losses on the Germans, who lost 45 tanks.

More than 30 large towns and eight railway stations fell to the Russians in the Kiev bulge as the Red army swept into Russia's westernmost salient on the long front.

RUSSIAN ADVISER IN ITALY AMAZED THAT FASCISTS STILL LIVE

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ALLIED HDQ., Algiers, Dec. 29.—Andrei J. Vishinsky, Russian representative to the allied advisory council for Italy, has expressed great surprise that there has been no "liquidation" of Fascists by the allies, it was learned today. Liquidation used in the Russian sense means execution.

One of Vishinsky's first questions after a two day study of the allied military government was, "How many Fascists in Italy and Sicily have been liquidated?" When told none, and that the trial of important leaders had not yet taken place, Vishinsky said he was amazed.

The soviet representative, who was public prosecutor in the Moscow purge trials, also commented that the accused in AMG courts receive far more opportunity to present a defense than would be granted in Russia.

LONDON, Dec. 29 (AP).—Two Britons were appointed today to stand at the side of Gen. Eisenhower as top officers of the grand army that will support the allied invasion of western Europe: Adm. Bertram Ramsay as commander in chief of the allied navies, and Air Marshal Trafford L. Leigh-Mallory as commander in chief of allied air forces.

These selections, announced at Prime Minister Churchill's official residence at No. 10 Downing street, completed the team of the top command for the assault against Hitler's inner barricades.

American and British plans are being drawn closely together so that Gen. Eisenhower will step into an organization that in many senses is all ready to go now.

Ramsay is 60 Years Old.

Both Adm. Ramsay, who is 60 years old, and Marshal Leigh-Mallory, who is 51, are improvisers and both represent the most aggressive traditions of the British military forces. From the beginning of the war thru the allied operations in North Africa and Italy Adm. Ramsay, nicknamed "Dynamo," has fought his ships to the utmost and laid his plans with calculated daring.

It was he who brought the British home from the tragedy of Flanders and Dunkirk, somehow assembling a fleet of nondescript ships that took 335,000 exhausted British troops off beaches shaking under the fury of the German attack. He also helped plan and command the naval operations that landed the allied armies in Tunisia and then carried forward thru Sicily and Italy.

Heads Fighter Command.

Marshal Leigh-Mallory is the sort of commander known in his profession as a "brains officer." He fought in the R. A. F. during the battle of Britain. He had been the head of Britain's school of army coöperation and now heads the R. A. F. fighter command. His direct interest will be almost solely in the tactical operations—those by fighters and medium and light bombers that go in and hit the enemy at the point of the ground force attack.

Here is the line-up for the second front command:

Supreme commander—Gen. Eisenhower, whose job will be administrative, his subordinates carrying out the field, air and sea commands.

Deputy supreme commander—Air Chief Marshal Arthur Tedder.

Naval commander in chief—Adm. Bertram Ramsay.

Doolittle Commands 8th Air Force.

Air commander in chief—Air Marshal Trafford L. Leigh-Mallory.

Commander of the United States 8th air force—Maj. Gen. James H. Doolittle.

Commander of the British army group under Gen. Eisenhower—Gen. Montgomery.

Commander of the United States army forces under Gen. Eisenhower—Not yet designated, but Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley, commander of the 2d army corps, and Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark, commander of the 5th army in Italy, have been mentioned as possibilities.

In addition Lt. Gen. Carl Spaatz has been named commander of the United States strategic air forces for both Mediterranean and European theaters.

Nazis Report Invasion Moves.

The Nazis sounded two invasion alarms tonight, and a Wilhelmstrasse official was quoted as saying the big thrust could be expected in 14 days.

A series of British commando stabs on the channel islands within 22 miles of French Normandy in the north, and a big scale massing of allied ships at Gibraltar in the south were reported by the Germans.

The German official's prediction, the basis for which was not disclosed, was reported in a Berlin dispatch to the Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter, Reuters news agency said.

DNB, the German news agency, said British Commandos had stabbed twice at the defenses of Nazi occupied Sark Island within the past three days—presumably in quest of information on German preparations to counter the forthcoming allied invasion.

Nazis Claim Raids "Failed."

The German account of the raids followed an official Nazi announcement Sunday of a combined British and French raid Christmas eve on an undisclosed point on the German held French channel coast.

The Sark assaults, DNB said, "failed like all similar attempts of this kind."

DNB said that "as the enemy approached the beaches heavy detonations could be heard and the glow of fires observed, presumably due to the explosion of mines."

The Vichy radio said a British cruiser and nine torpedo boats have left Gibraltar and that 58 merchant vessels are in the harbor. DNB said a convoy of 77 ships—mostly 10,000 ton vessels—had arrived at Gibraltar from the Atlantic.

To add to the invasion warnings, the Swiss radio said considerable German troop movements took place in France over the Christmas weekend.

Islands Seized in 1940.

The Germans occupied Sark and other channel islands in June, 1940. The islands are strategically valuable stepping stones for an allied invasion of France. From their first class fighter bases planes could give tactical support to allied landings.

Sark, wildest of the island, is six miles from Guernsey. It is three miles long and a mile and a half wide. Its normal population is 570.

Gen. Ike Prepared Plans.

CAIRO, Egypt, Dec. 29 (AP).—A final plan for the allies' invasion of Europe from the west was laid before the Roosevelt-Churchill conference here by Gen. Eisenhower and Air Chief Marshal Arthur Tedder, a British source asserted today.

The plan was approved within a few days and the amassing of vast armies and mountains of equipment for the zero hour was started immediately.

The international conferences were at their height when Eisenhower and Tedder made a secret flight to Cairo from North Africa and produced their plan whereby the air, land and sea experience of the allies in North Africa could be dovetailed into one grand assault. When Churchill and Roosevelt left for Teheran to meet Josef Stalin, Eisenhower and Tedder stayed behind to work out the details of the invasion.

REPORT GERMAN ADM. DOENITZ' RESIGNATION DUE

LONDON, Dec. 30 [Thursday]—(AP).—Adm. Karl Doenitz, supreme commander of the German navy, was variously reported in London today to have resigned his post or to be expected to do so in connection with the loss of the 26,000 ton Nazi battleship Scharnhorst.

Adm. Karl Doenitz.

Reuters [British news agency] said it recorded a Moscow broadcast which reported Doenitz, whose orders sent the Scharnhorst into the Barents sea on a mission which ended in her destruction, already had quit.

The soviet monitor, however, quoted Tass, Russian news agency, as saying simply that it was persistently rumored in German naval circles in Berlin that Doenitz was expected to relinquish his post. The soviet monitor quoted Tass as saying that a message which went thru Stockholm to Moscow related that Hitler had refused to receive Doenitz.

ALL DOCTORS IN NAPLES CALLED TO FIGHT TYPHUS

NAPLES, Italy, Dec. 29 (AP).—AMG Medical officers fighting typhus fever in Naples have called meetings of all civilian physicians to speed identification of cases so the patients can be isolated and measures put into effect swiftly to prevent spread.

Naples doctors will be made familiar with signs of the disease. Once a case is diagnosed and the patient taken to a hospital, AMG opens an anti-louse campaign on his family, all persons living in the same building and all those with whom the patient was in contact.

AMG doctors also have two points in their program—to reduce overcrowding and feed the undernourished population better.

SIZE OF BRITISH ARMY FORCE IN ITALY DISPUTED

Have Only Fair Share, Statisticians Say.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29—The defense of the British, offered by the American high command in its effort to silence reports that the United States will be called upon for 73 per cent of the invasion troops, came under the fire of statisticians today.

Since the American chiefs of staff have proclaimed the proportion of American to British troops for the invasion of Germany a military secret, members of the house and senate were reluctant to comment further on the assertion of Sen. Edwin C. Johnson [D., Colo.] that the British are scheduled to furnish only 27 per cent of the man power.

But members quick at figures challenged the statement of the chiefs of staff that the British, with one-third as large a population as the United States, have more troops in the Mediterranean theater than the Americans.

Claim Wrong Figure Used.

The critics conceded that the British empire may exceed the United States in Mediterranean area fighting men. But the British empire has a population of 504 million to the 135 million of the United States. Excluding the millions of India and other British territories, there are still almost 76 million in the United Kingdom or British Isles, Canada, Australia, South Africa, and New Zealand, the units actually concerned in the war program.

Hence, the statistically inclined argued, the British population total which should have been used is 76 million, or well over half the population of the United States.

Considerable doubt was expressed that the United Kingdom whose 42 million population the American chiefs of staff used yesterday in their defense of Britain, has much more than its proportionate number of fighting forces in the Mediterranean area.

Canada's Force Cited.

The case of Canada was cited as an example. Canada, it was asserted, supplied 50 per cent of the troops listed as British in Italy. Moreover, critics recalled that it was officially stated on Oct. 8 that 25 per cent of the crew members of the British royal air force were actually Canadians, and that the number was rising rapidly. Some estimated that the figure is now 30 to 35 per cent.

Sen. Johnson, mentioning that the proportion of British to American troops has now been termed a military secret, declined to comment further. But the senator, a member of the senate military affairs committee, did not recede from his statement of last Saturday that he obtained the 73 to 27 figures from a source he regards as thoroly reliable.

Deny Disagreement.

The chiefs of staff, in declaring the proportion a military secret, denied that there has been any disagreement between them and the British as to the relative man power demands.

The invasion plans were worked out by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill and not by the high command of this country. Members of the American high command, who, it is understood, were compelled to approve these plans were Adm. William D. Leahy, chief of staff to the President; Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff; Adm. Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the United States fleet, and Gen. Henry H. Arnold, chief of the United States army air forces. These facts disputed reports current here that those who approved the one sided division of invasion troops had been decorated by King George VI. of England.

TWO MANTENO FUGITIVES CAPTURED.

Frank Imperial, 23 years old, and Edward Sterba, 29, who escaped Tuesday from the Manteno State hospital, were captured yesterday by Kensington police and taken to the Psychopathic hospital. Records showed they had escaped on six previous occasions.

YANKS LEAD WAY AS BRITISH SINK 3 NAZI WARSHIPS

U. S. Airmen Find Enemy Force, Set Off Battle.

LONDON, Dec. 29 (AP). — Allied war planes, including United States navy Liberators, and British cruisers have sunk three Nazi destroyers and a speedy 5,000 ton Nazi blockade runner in a two day sea-air battle in the Bay of Biscay this week.

An admiralty report tonight gave details of the engagements, which started Monday when a Sunderland flying boat sighted the blockade runner about 500 miles northwest of Cape Finisterre, Spain.

Allied planes set her aflame and left her listing fatally and abandoned as her crew of about 70 men took to rafts and rubber lifeboats.

Yanks Spot Flotilla.

At dawn yesterday a United States Liberator operating with the R. A. F. sighted a flotilla of 11 Nazi destroyers about 200 miles from the spot where the blockade runner had sunk. The Liberator flashed the position of the flotilla to the British light cruisers Glasgow and Enterprise, which were steaming between the destroyers and their Nazi bases in southern France.

Flaming shellfire from the cruisers sank three of the destroyers and damaged several others in the battle, in which United States naval Liberators and R. A. F. planes took part, it was announced.

Destruction of the destroyers capped the spectacular day-after-Christmas sinking of the 26,000-ton German battleship Scharnhorst off North Cape, Norway, by other British naval units.

Few Allied Casualties.

The allied forces came out of the Biscay battle, the admiralty reported, with only a few casualties on the Glasgow and "minor damage" to the two cruisers. Two British planes were reported missing.

The Germans scattered in running from the royal navy units but the cruisers concentrated on a group of four and sank the three destroyers in the running fight which lasted until dusk yesterday.

Planes spotted about 150 survivors from the sunken destroyers.

The blockade runner was believed carrying rubber, tin, quinine, edible oils, and tungsten from the western Pacific for Germany's war industry.

The German sinkings announced today brought to at least 42 the number of German destroyers and torpedo boats sunk since the start of the war.

'PANIC' ON SCHARNHORST

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Dec. 29.—A panic rush by crewmen marked the last minutes of the German battleship Scharnhorst, according to one survivor's story in today's Stockholm Nya Nagligt Allehanda. Only seven Scharnhorst men have been reported saved. The survivor's story said:

"Unbelievable scenes took place as the heavy shells of the British battleships poured into the doomed Scharnhorst.

"Fire was raging thruout the vessel and there were wild scenes as seamen and stokers fought to reach the upper decks. Several sections of the ship had to be cut off by closing watertight bulkheads, condemning all in those sections to death by drowning.

"Then came the end. A particularly heavy hit caused the great ship to quiver and then she sank, while hundreds of men threw themselves headlong into the water. Almost all were sucked down in the swirl as the Scharnhorst plunged to the bottom."

BERLIN BOMBED THRU CLOUDS IN BIG NIGHT RAID

Incendiaries Dropped, Nazis Say.

LONDON, Dec. 30 [Thursday]—(AP).—Large R. A. F. bombers attacked Berlin last night for the eighth time in a six week period, it was announced today, and indication from the Nazi capital and neutral Stockholm, Sweden, was that the raid was one of the heaviest of the war.

London officially announced the raid on Berlin shortly after the German radio had reported in a broadcast from the Nazi capital that large formations of the big, black R. A. F. night bombers attacked the city.

"The sky was covered with a thick layer of clouds and British planes dropped explosives and incendiary bombs on thickly populated residential districts," the Berlin radio announced.

Nothing More to Bomb.

A dispatch from Stockholm said a Swedish correspondent in the German capital told his home office after telephone service was restored: "We now live in an immense ruin in which there is nothing more to bomb."

Five major raids had been made upon Berlin by the R. A. F. between Nov. 18 and Dec. 2 and hundreds of British bombers loosed explosives upon the Nazi nerve center again the night of Dec. 16. Explosives and fire were estimated then to have destroyed three-fifths of Berlin and left 2,000,000 homeless.

On the night of Dec. 23, the R. A. F. night raiders again subjected the capital to a pounding. That raid brought the total of bombs dropped on Berlin in the seven assaults to 11,000 long tons, about the weight that devastated Hamburg. The long ton used in R. A. F. reckoning is equal to 2,240 pounds.

German General Killed.

MADRID, Spain, Dec. 29 (AP).—The German press today announced that Lt. Gen. Von Heineccius had been killed during an air attack on Hamburg. He was former military governor of that city.

2 Red Cross Ships Take Food, Medicine to Greece

LONDON, Dec. 29 (AP).—Two Swedish ships under Red Cross charter have arrived at Piraeus, Greece, with 1,100 tons of food and medicine, the Vichy radio said today.

CANADIANS PUSH ON AS BATTLE IN ORTONA ENDS

ALLIED HDQ., Algiers, Dec. 29 (AP).—The roar of battle lifted from the ruined streets of Ortona today as Canadian troops who took the town in a savage eight day battle pushed on up the Adriatic coast of Italy toward the port of Pescara in the face of snow, sleet, cold winds, and stubborn Nazi resistance.

Ortona, once a neat town of 9,000, resembled a tomb. Every street was piled high with debris and the dead still lay in the streets and doorways, dispatches said.

While the Canadians drove on, Indian troops of the 8th army wiped out pockets of resistance in Villa Grande, a hotly contested village about three miles inland from Ortona. Farther inland other 8th army units were reported within eight miles of the provincial capital of Chieti.

Nazis Attack 5th Army.

On the extreme opposite end of the Italian line British troops of Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's 5th army fought fiercely to repel a full scale German attack on the town of Ponta Fiume, at the mouth of the Garigliano river. The Nazis struck suddenly yesterday in clear, cold weather, evidently attempting to forestall an allied assault in that area as the rain flooded Garigliano began to subside. No decisive result yet was in sight.

Other vigorous fighting on the 5th army front occurred high in the mountains of central Italy, where French Moroccan infantry seized several peaks of Catenella Degli Mainardi, a 3,000 foot ridge controlling a road to Atina.

The Germans still held the village of San Vittore, six miles from Cassino, in full strength, and American patrols saw every indication that the enemy intended to defend the village.

Bomb Rome Air Fields.

American two engined Mitchell and Marauder bombers of the 15th air force struck hard at three Nazi airdromes on the outskirts of Rome yesterday, tearing up hangars and other installations and destroying at least five parked enemy planes, it was announced today.

Marauders attacked the Guidonia and Centocelle air fields east of Rome, while Mitchells swept over the Ciampino field, south of the capital, in two waves. The Marauders reported five enemy planes destroyed for sure, and Mitchell crewmen said they saw several craft burning. The allied war bulletin said the three fields were "accurately bombed."

Lt. F. G. Haegele of Bloomington, Ill., pilot of a Mitchell, said that "dispersal areas were all covered and I saw two planes burning as we left the target." Sgt. M. L. Robert of L'Anse, Mich., a bombardier, also reported explosions at the field.

Heavy bombers of the 15th air force, after having been held idle by rain for two days, resumed their battering of German communications in northern Italy.

Illinoisan Bags a Plane.

A small force of American Liberators that attacked railway yards at Vicenza, northwest of Padua near the Adriatic coast, ran into a fight with some 50 German interceptors and destroyed at least 19 of the enemy craft. Five others were probably destroyed.

Sgt. Gregg Myers, a waist gunner, of Vandalia, Ill., was credited with downing one of the enemy planes, as was Sgt. Leon L. Carter of Leon, Ia.

Flying Fortresses and Liberators escorted by Lightning fighters attacked rail installations at Rimini on the Adriatic coast, hitting yards and bridges.

"We hit the target right on the nose," said Sgt. Leonard E. Matkey of Stevens Point, Wis., ball turret gunner on a Fortress. "It was some sight to see the stuff [bombs] go down on the railroad yards. There was not a fighter or a flak [anti-aircraft fire] burst in the sky."

Eleven Planes Missing.

The big bombers suffered some losses. Eleven allied planes were missing from the day's operations, tho some of them were thought to have landed safely on remote fields.

Other allied aerial activity included assaults on rail targets near Ferentino, a railway bridge near Castello, the port of Civitavecchia, northwest of Rome, and Anzio and Nettuno, southwest of Rome. American Mitchells and Invaders attacking targets at Ferentino encountered weather 15 degrees below freezing, exceptionally cold for this theater. They reported destroying at least 10 cars in a train.

BRITAIN PUTS 40 CIVILIANS FROM ITALY TO WORK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 29.—Forty Italian civilians, reported to be an advance guard of 250,000 skilled or semi-skilled workers expected to be brought here for war industries, will begin their jobs tomorrow. The first comers are volunteers from Eritrea, who arrived shortly before Christmas.

They will work in a factory under direction of the ministry of works and their pay will be regulated according to the fair wages clause. Union officials stated that if the men meet necessary technical qualifications and receive union wages they will be eligible to join labor organizations.

In addition to these volunteer workers, there are now 76,000 axis prisoners of war at work in Britain on farms, in quarries, and on construction jobs.

GREW CONDEMNS ISOLATION AIM FOR JAP NATION

The "folly" of considering Japan a permanent outcast from the family of nations was denounced by Joseph C. Grew, formerly United States ambassador to Japan, now a special assistant to Secretary of State Hull, in a speech last night at the annual banquet of the Illinois Education association in the Morrison hotel.

Joseph C. Grew.

If the victorious allies place "a fence around Japan and let her stew in her own juice," he said, "they would be creating a festering sore."

Grew asserted that the proper attitude to take in the post-war reeducation of Japan was a "helpful, cooperative, commonsense spirit, devoid of browbeating or vindictiveness, with emphasis laid upon what the Japanese would have to gain by playing the game with the rest of the world."

Probation Period Necessary.

He conceded that there must be a period of probation after the war in which Japan may be purged of her fanatical militarism, but he insisted that the wise policy, after this probation period is over, will be to allow Japan to develop normal commercial and industrial relations.

He came out strongly against the "armchair statesmen" who would condemn the entire Japanese people permanently, and he indicated his belief that, with proper encouragement, elements in Japan would come forward to rebuild their country into a respectable member of the family of nations.

Emphasizing that he was speaking for himself, and not as a government official, Grew suggested that the Japanese institution of emperor worship might become a force for good if the emperor were of a peace seeking disposition and were free from domination by the military clique.

Denies Religion Is Root of Evil.

He said he disagreed with the idea that Shintoism, which involves emperor worship, is the root of all evil in Japan.

At an afternoon session of the association, the following new officers were elected: Dr. Edward H. Stullken, Chicago, president; W. R. McIntosh, Decatur, 1st vice president; Paul Grigsby, Granite City, 2d vice president; E. H. Mellon, Champaign, 3d vice president; J. H. Voshall, Pittsfield, chairman of finance committee.

U. S. CRUISERS SHELL JAP BASE ON BOUGAINVILLE

Attack Kieta on the East Coast First Time.

SOUTH PACIFIC ALLIED HDQ., Dec. 30 [Thursday]—(AP).—American warships, bent on hastening the withdrawal of the Japanese from their last big Solomon base of Bougainville, have ventured into waters where they had not been before to shell the important enemy air and shipping point of Kieta for an hour and a half.

The bombardment, announced today, occurred at a point directly across the island from the American beachhead on Bougainville at Empress Augusta bay. Kieta is midway up the island's east coast, along which Japanese have been reported withdrawing from the southern half to the north.

The warships, including cruisers, fired 3,000 rounds into Kieta village, the Chinatown area, the Arawa barge depot, and Rigu mission sector. The only opposition consisted of weak ground fire.

Fifth Sea Bombardment.

Recently American warships had ventured over on the eastern side of the island, which still is entirely in Japanese hands, to shell the supply staging point at Tinputs harbor on the northeastern shoulder.

In order to hit Kieta, the warships either had to venture past the Japanese-held Shortlands and Choiseul, south of Bougainville, or swing around the northern end and then down the coast.

Both cruisers and destroyers poured shells so effectively that allied spotter planes reported the Japanese bivouac area thoroly covered.

The previous day, Kieta had been blasted at 45 minute intervals from 8 a. m. to 4 p. m. by waves of Mitchell medium bombers.

The Kieta shelling marked the fifth time this month that warships have swung into action against Bougainville. The Japanese have been deprived of all air cover by constant bombing out of the island's air fields. Lately, bombers have been dropping their explosives on supplies as the enemy offers increasing signs of losing the hold on Bougainville.

17 Zeros Downed.

Headquarters also reported today that on Monday 40 fighter planes from the Solomons swept over the Japanese New Britain stronghold of Rabaul, circling the town and daring the Japanese planes to come up.

Sixty Zeros rose to battle. Latest reports from returning pilots placed the number of enemy planes shot down at 17. One Corsair is missing. One Hellcat was damaged slightly by anti-aircraft fire.

The Japanese again resorted to aerial phosphorous bombs, which are intended to set attacking planes afire, but they were ineffective.

Headquarters also reported that 100 Dauntless dive bombers, Avenger torpedo bombers and lightnings blew up anti-aircraft positions at Buka, dropping 45 tons of explosives.

Japs Withdraw Troops.

MUNDA, New Georgia, Dec. 26 [Delayed].—Indication that the Japanese are trying to withdraw some troops from Bougainville was given today in reports of marine corps pilots. They told of spotting barges off the north coast and attacking them.

Lt. P. L. McGann of Galesburg, Ill., caught four Japanese barges off North Bougainville harbor. He strafed them heavily with his light bomber's guns and set one afire.

On the southern end of the island Lt. Joe Giard of North Webster, Ind., bombed five beached Japanese ships which were being used as evacuation piers and possibly as submarine bases.

YANKS PRESS ON ½ MILE IN BATTLE FOR NEW BRITAIN

ALLIED HDQ., New Guinea, Dec. 30 [Thursday]—(AP).—An outnumbered American marine force is holding its positions on the eastern flank of the Cape Gloucester, New Britain, invasion beachhead while other marines on the western flank have overcome stiffening Japanese resistence to advance half a mile in the direction of the vital airdrome.

Gen. MacArthur's bulletin today reported that the marines drove ahead under artillery and aerial support and used flame throwers to eliminate pillboxes and strong pockets of resistance about a mile from the airstrip.

The fighting took place Tuesday. The information came in brief reports from the field headquarters of Maj. Gen. William H. Rupertus, marine corps commander of the action.

200 Japs are Killed.

At least 200 Japanese were killed in a hot action on the banks of a river, Rupertus reported. The river was not named.

Attacks against the marines' eastern line running inland from the shores of Borgen bay, on the east flank of the invasion, were delivered by at least one regiment of Japanese, a headquarters spokesman said.

The enemy's growing opposition and increasing number of troops apparently involved indicated that the fight for possession of the airdrome would be a bitter one.

Allied bombardment before the marines' landing Sunday forced the Japanese to abandon defense positions along the coast between Cape Gloucester and Borgen Bay, but all reports from the front indicated that the enemy was able to assemble a formidable attacking force along the marines' eastern holding flank, while other enemy troops dug in around the airdrome.

Aussies Gain in Guinea.

They thus placed themselves in the path of the Leathernecks' main thrust, fighting back with machine guns, heavy mortars, and probably light artillery.

The only enemy air activity over the cape Tuesday was the appearance of two reconnaissance planes. But the American air force continued to give the Devil-Dogs strong support. Mitchell medium bombers and Boston attack planes bombed and strafed the airdrome area and the trails connecting the enemy's defenses.

The Australians have made good progress in their offensive northward on the Huon peninsula coast, New Guinea, reaching Blucher point, 30 miles north of the allied base at Finschhafen, after smashing stubborn enemy resistance. Blucher point was occupied Tuesday.

Ground attacks against United States 6th army invasion troops at Arawe, 60 miles southeast of Cape Gloucester, have slackened, but the Japanese air raids continue.

Bomb Nauru Island.

PEARL HARBOR, T. H., Dec. 29 (AP).—An ammunition dump was destroyed and fires started at the Japanese base on Nauru Island, 400 miles west of the Gilbert Islands, by navy medium bombers which attacked there Tuesday, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced today.

The bombers were from fleet air wing No. 2. Their number was not given, but the navy said several suffered minor damage.

The Japanese have a long air field at Nauru, capable of handling bombers, as well as various installations in connection with the big phosphate plant there. It had been bombed Christmas eve.

BAG 35 PLANES—TOKIO.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

The Japanese imperial command yesterday claimed that 35 allied planes were shot down by interceptors and ground defenses during allied raids Tuesday on Rabaul, New Britain, Buin on Bougainville Island, and Shortland Island. A Tokio broadcast added that Japanese naval air units attacked an allied air field at Finnschafen, New Guinea, starting fires on two points. The Japanese raiders suffered no losses, Domei said.

The agency added that three Japanese planes did not return from the aerial action over Rabaul.

LIQUID FIRE AND BOMBS WIN HILL IN 10 DAY BATTLE

BY VERN HAUGLAND.

HELLZAPOPPIN' RIDGE, Bougainville, Dec. 22 [Delayed]—(AP).—Climaxing 10 days of fighting with a flame throwing attack last night at dusk, marines swarmed up the gaunt back of this ridge to overcome the last of 265 Japanese who had put up the most savage resistance on this island since the landing, Nov. 1.

The Nipponese, entrenched in foxholes and pillboxes, had withstood repeated rifle, machine gun, mortar, bazooka, artillery, and grenade attacks, and their resistance cost the Leathernecks 46 dead, 7 missing, and 105 wounded.

Dive bombers and torpedo bombers finally broke the Japs, smashing their ring of machine gun emplacements with accurately placed bombs only 150 yards from marine positions.

Hellzapoppin' ridge, named by a marine who posted a sign at its base, is at the northeast corner of the American perimeter, north of the Torokina river and four miles east of the Empress Augusta bay beachhead.

Marines Driven Back.

Marine paratroopers established positions on the ridge Dec. 9, and food and supplies were dropped to them. The Japanese attacked, driving the marines back about 200 yards and seizing their original positions, as another marine outfit dug in farther down.

In the action 20 marines were killed, 7 missing, and 48 wounded. From their new lines the marines staved off repeated attacks until Dec. 15. Lt. Col. E. W. Frye, Prosser, Wash., who directed the operation, said:

"At first we thought there were only 15 or 20 Nips there, but soon we found we were up against a reenforced rifle company of about 265 men. The Japs were difficult to attack in their positions along the top of the ridge. Several times we were driven off when they rolled grenades down the steep slopes at us."

Meet as Shelling Stops.

First Lt. William G. Shoemaker, Lynn, Mass., led one patrol which destroyed a machine gun nest before being driven off. Finally artillery fire was brought to bear on the enemy.

"The Japs would withdraw as the shells began to fall," said Maj. E. H. Strayhorn, Nashville, Tenn. "Then when the shelling ceased, our marines and the Japs would rush for the positions the Japs had left. We got a lot of them that way, but when they withdrew they set up their machine guns and snipers and our advances were costly."

Air strikes under the direction of 1st Lt. William Geftman, Chicago liaison officer, were called for. After preliminary attacks, planes raked the ridge with 100 pound bombs.

"The eggs landed right along the Jap line, and we were so damned glad we called the pilots on the radio and thanked them," said Geftman.

Flamethrowers Work.

On the final afternoon the marines unloosed heavy weapons and mortars on the enemy lines, and moved in with flamethrowers.

"We closed to within 30 yards of the Jap bunkers and foxholes to squirt the jets of flame," said Maj. Strayhorn. "We could hear them squeal when the fire hit them. We moved up, slowly. We gained 100 yards, then more.

"We kept on. Within an hour we had moved farther than we had in the previous seven days. The Japs went back over a small tributary of the Torokina. We had our position.

"When the Japs made a counter-attack, one marine gunnery sergeant stood in his shallow foxhole, grinning and hollering 'Praise the Lord and pass the hand grenades.' He kept throwing grenades, and when he left the foxhole the bottom of it was covered with grenade pins.

"He died later from wounds. Our advance line is on the spot where he made his stand, and it's named for him."

VETERAN OF RAF PAYS TRIBUTE TO YANKEE GUNNERS

John Wickins.

Flying Officer John Wickins, R. A. F., in Chicago yesterday on leave from a flight training base in Canada, paid a high compliment to gunners of the American 8th air force in England—every gun of a Flying Fortress squadron he inspected, he said, was perfectly cared for, and even the 50 caliber bullets appeared to have been hand-polished one by one.

Wickins flew as a gunner in Lancaster heavy bombers of the R. A. F. on 33 missions, raids on Berlin, Hamburg, Le Creusot, Cologne, and Milan being among them. He was a gunner on one special raid to Danzig, aimed at disabling the German aircraft carrier Graf Zeppelin, docked at the time with the Scharnhorst and the Gneisenau. The carrier was cleverly camouflaged, he said, but his group found and damaged it.

HOW MAYWOOD FIGHTING PARSON OUTWITTED JAPS

Helps Win Changteh with Secret Radio.

CHANGTEH, China, Dec. 22—[Delayed]—(AP).—How two Americans helped drive the Japanese out of Changteh by doing radio liaison work in a reenforced concrete building while the fighting raged about them was related today. Changteh, strategic city of 160,000, in China's "rice bowl" area, was recaptured from the Japanese a week ago after 20 days of the fiercest fighting of the entire Chinese-Japanese war.

Lt. Paul W. Frillman.

Concealed in a big vault of the Central bank of China in the heart of the city, Lt. Paul W. Frillman, known as the Fighting Parson, of Maywood, Ill., and Corp. S. H. Liljestrand Jr., born in Chengtu, China, to missionary parents, kept radio contact with the United States 14th air force, of which they are members.

Watched Enemy Moves.

They became the hub of information between their headquarters and Chinese troops, enabling the Chinese to keep tab on enemy movements and helping to coördinate ground operations of the Chinese with air attacks by the 14th air force.

For days during the swaying battle, the Americans stayed at their radio transmitter and receiver while a criss-cross lacework of four-inch bamboo on the roof of the two-story building protected them from bomb detonations. This bomb-proofing was supplemented by layers of bricks inside the grilled windows.

Before the battle ended, a shell ripped into the stone work at the entrance, but otherwise the building was undamaged.

Toward the end of the first stage of the fighting, the two were permitted to leave their post. En route, they met some Japanese and a shooting match flared, but the Americans were not injured.

FETED BY CHINATOWN.

Lt. Frillman, 32 years old, is the son of Julius Frillman who makes his home with another son, Walter, at 601 North 9th avenue, Maywood. Lt. Frillman became known as the "fighting parson" when he served as chaplain, interpreter, and liaison officer with the Flying Tigers [American volunteer group] in China.

On returning to Chicago last July, he was feted by 900 residents of Maywood and Melrose Park and by residents of Chicago's Chinatown. Later he returned to China and became interpreter, intelligence, and liaison officer for Brig. Gen. Claire Chennault's new 14th air force. Before entering the army, Lt. Frillman had been a missionary at Hankow, China, for the Evangelical Lutheran Missouri synod since 1936.

Lt. Frillman's engagement to Miss Louise Kluender, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. P. L. Kluender of Melrose Park was announced last February. Miss Kluender, who is employed in a real estate office at 3180 Sheridan road, said yesterday she had just received a letter from her fiance dated Nov. 15 saying that he "had just been thru quite an experience." Before Christmas Miss Kluender received a star sapphire which Lt. Frillman had sent from China.

CHURCHILL PENS OWN STORY OF HIS ILLNESS; PRAISES SULFA DRUGS

LONDON, Dec. 30 [Thursday]—(AP).—Prime Minister Churchill, in a buoyant and jocular "personal note" issued thru No. 10 Downing street early today, announced to the allied nations that he has recovered from his bout with pneumonia and that all along he has been able to discharge fully his official duties.

Churchill said he now felt better than at any time since leaving England, altho he would need a few weeks in sunshine to restore his strength, and joshed censorship by saying, "I now am leaving the place where I have been staying for 'an unknown destination.'"

Churchill said he had not felt so ill this time as during his siege of pneumonia last February, and enthusiastically praised the type of sulfa drug which he had been administered, saying, "There is no doubt that pneumonia is a very different illness from what it was before this marvelous drug was discovered."

ARMY CONQUERS MAGNETIC RADIO DISTURBANCES

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29 [Special].—Army signal corps experts, aided by the army air forces, have defeated the Aurora Borealis and other magnetic disturbances, greatly expediting the ferrying of aircraft across the North Atlantic, it was announced today.

Installation of six long wave radio communications stations, linking the United States with Newfoundland, Labrador, Greenland, Iceland, and Great Britain, solved the problem. These new long wave stations, working under the AAF army airways communications system, may be used 24 hours daily, whereas short wave stations were often momentarily blacked out by the Aurora Borealis and troubled by similar interferences.

As a result, the war department stated, radio telegraph and radio teletype will not be interrupted by atmospheric disturbances and magnetic storms, as was the case with the short wave apparatus. Thru the new system, the announcement said, constant radio communication can be maintained between the army command and Great Britain as well as to outposts in the Arctic circle.

TELLS OF FLYING 1,000 WOUNDED YANKS TO BASES

Thousands of lives have been saved by evacuating the wounded from the front lines to base hospitals via air transports, Lt. Col. Henry C. Lane, marine corps, 35 years old, of 3249 Barry avenue, said yesterday upon arriving home on leave from the South Pacific.

Lt. Col. H. C. Lane.

Sgt. F. E. Shepard.

Col. Lane, who piloted a C-47 cargo and troop plane, said only one marine died in his ship during the 500 hours of air transport in which he flew 1,000 men from Guadalcanal and other islands, often under fire.

Col. Lane was awarded the distinguished flying cross last May for landing his heavily loaded transport, bearing gasoline, bombs, and oxygen, on Henderson field on Guadacanal in the teeth of a Japanese artillery barrage.

Yesterday in the marines' Chicago headquarters he unexpectedly met Master Sgt. Francis E. Shepard, 30 years old, whom he had not seen since the latter acted as his navigator on many hazardous missions over the Pacific. Shepard, also a Chicagoan here on furlough, is staying at the Belmont hotel.

BRITISH SELLING MACHINE TOOLS FOR CASH IN U. S.

Deny Equipment Came from Lend-Lease.

BY ROY GIBBONS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 29.—The British government is selling for cash in the United States about half of the enormous multi-million dollar stockpile of American made machine tools it purchased in this country during 1939-'41, it was disclosed here today.

For almost a year now, the British ministry of supply mission has been conducting a quiet but intensive campaign to convert the huge mountain of machinery into American dollars.

So far as can be ascertained, no official offer has as yet been made to surrender the equipment without remuneration to the United States government as a token payment to apply on account toward wiping out the debt represented by the lend-lease billions this country has been pouring into the British empire.

Use Telephone and Mails.

The British agency selling the equipment depends principally on the long distance telephone and use of the mails to put its sales message across. Its telephone sales talk is rated as "snappy" by prospective buyers who have been solicited. It also employs printed lists to describe its offerings among the trade.

The lists are sent from headquarters which occupy most of a skyscraper and parts of an adjoining building in the heart of the Wall street financial district. The department in charge of machinery sales is headed by J. W. Lerew, an American citizen. It takes up part of one of the numerous floors devoted to the agency's operation.

The machine tools now being sold represent part of what was an original 200 million dollar investment the British made in acquiring land, buildings, and equipment to launch American firms in the munitions business before America's entry into the war.

Certified Checks Needed.

According to Lerew, they consisted originally of approximately 125 million dollars worth of lathes, drill presses, reamers, milling machines, and similar equipment, and 18 million dollars worth of jigs and dies. The jigs and dies now are mostly without sales value, he said.

American purchasers are required to put up certified checks before they can obtain delivery. The equipment is sold on an "as is" basis which means that no guarantee goes with it.

Lerew was emphatic in his denial that any of the machinery being offered for sale is of lend-lease origin. He said that so far as he knew there were no lend-lease machine tools in this country at the present time.

The equipment being sold has become available, Lerew said, because it no longer is needed by the various contractors to whom it originally was assigned by the British.

Jobs Are Completed.

Many of these contractors, Lerew said, have completed their jobs and have asked to have the machinery removed from their plants. Lerew said the principal idea back of the sales campaign is to keep all machine tools in war production wherever possible.

In cases where the United States government has taken over a plant where some of the machinery is in use, the equipment is permitted to remain on lease at a dollar a year to the army or navy but with the British retaining title, he revealed.

Approximately 50 million dollars' worth of the machine tools have been disposed of to date at prices which were either at OPA levels or below, Lerew said.

Some American plants to which the machinery was assigned have options to purchase the equipment contained in their contracts, negotiated in 1939 when England was anxious to provide incentives to get American firms started on ordnance production, Lerew said.

Option Is Exercised.

One such firm recently exercised its option and for approximately $40,000 acquired machinery worth $700,000, Lerew said.

Whenever a piece of equipment becomes available from the stockpile, Lerew said, it is first offered to England, but is frequently diverted to an American firm even before London can pass on the offering if the American firm's need is sufficiently urgent, Lerew explained.

Some machine tool men who have been watching progress of the sale have expressed the opinion that England is seeking to unload her purchases "before the bottom drops out of the market."

Lerew himself acknowledged that the previous machine tool scarcity which prevailed in 1940 no longer exists. For most manufacturers of such equipment, he said, "the war is over." He predicted sales of new machine tool equipment would drop off at least 25 per cent during 1944 from the billion dollar plus total achieved in the machine tool field this year.

Gets Purple Heart

As officers and men stood at attenion, Robert Manley, quartermaster 1st class in the coast guard, received the Purple Heart from Capt. T. A. Shanley, district coast guard officer, in a formal ceremony at coast guard headquarters here yesterday.

Manley, who has been in the coast guard for five years, was wounded on the deck of his ship by bullets from a Nazi plane during a heavy aerial assault in the Sicilian campaign. A 20 mm. shell struck his shoulder as he dived for safety.

Assigned to the patrol base here, Manley is still undergoing treatment at the marine hospital. He is married and has one child. His home is at 4100 Kenmore avenue.

VENGEANCE ROLE OF DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE TOLD

Political Aims Placed Ahead of Law.

by Eugene Meyer's Washington Post to smear pre-Pearl Harbor anti-interventionist members of congress, the department procured the indictment for sedition of more than a score of obscure anti-war propagandists and crackpot anti-Semites, who had circulated congressional anti-interventionist speeches.

Third Indictment Sought.

The department did not seek the indictment of the senators and representatives who made the speeches outside of congress. After a year and a half, during which two successive indictments have been invalidated to a crucial extent by the courts, the defendants are yet to be brought to trial, and a third indictment is being sought.

The department has obtained a three months' extension of the life of the grand jury investigating the $48,000 "kitty" raised by the Brewster Aeronautical corporation to obtain an amendment to the 1940 tax bill favoring that and other aircraft companies. The amendment sought would permit the companies to save money by utilizing large cash advances from foreign governments in the computation of excess profits.

The department revealed that the persons involved in the investigation are Mr. Herring; Frank J. Comfort, Democratic national committeeman for Iowa, and William D. Jamieson, a Washington attorney who formerly was Iowa's Democratic national committeeman.

Full Amount Not Realized.

To put over the amendment, a pool of $65,000 was projected, but the full amount was not realized, on account of the refusal of Consolidated Aircraft to participate. But $48,000 was contributed by the Brewster, Curtiss-Wright, and Lockheed companies. Jamieson, Brewster representative in Washington, failed at first to interest Herring, a majority member of the senate finance committee framing the tax bill. At Jamieson's suggestion, Comfort was retained.

Comfort, manager of Herring's 1936 candidacy for the senate, came to Washington and quickly procured Herring's consent to sponsor the amendment. Herring got the amendment accepted without debate in the senate, and it became a part of the revenue act of 1940.

A week after the President signed the bill Comfort received $15,000, deposited it in the Iowa-Des Moines National Bank and Trust company, and a week later withdrew $10,000. Comfort, says the house naval affairs committee report, "was unable to account for his disposition of this money."

Gets a Second $15,000.

On Dec. 21, 1940, Comfort received a second $15,000 from the "kitty," deposited it, and withdrew $3,900 for himself and $7,500 for his brother, George P. Comfort. Neither of the Comforts, says the committee, "was able to account for his disposition of these funds." Jamieson received $10,000, and Olvany, Elsner & Donnelly, New York tax experts, $8,750.

"Even more disturbing than the lobbying scheme itself," said the investigating committee, "was the failure of the department of justice to take prompt action when first in possession of the securities and exchange commission's report. On Aug. 17, 1942, after receiving the report of the commission, the President addressed a letter to the attorney general, enclosing a copy of the report and calling for a full investigation of the situation.

"It was not until the evidence contained in the report was made public by this committee, more than 15 months later, that the attorney general acted upon the President's letter."

WE'LL HAVE HUGE MERCHANT NAVY, BRITISH TELL U. S.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 29.—The necessity for Britain to recover its shipping supremacy after the war was emphasized in a statement made by the general council of British shipping and published in Lloyd's annual review.

The article, written by Philip Runciman, chairman, particularly directed the council's recommendation to America, saying: "This country [Britain] must not be afraid to say to its allies that a strong British mercantile marine is just as necessary to this country as its navy, army, and air force. We have been afraid to say and repeat as determinedly and boldly as we should the essential truth of that pronouncement."

Reference was made to "our American friends," who, Runciman said, "have been telling the world what they intend to do when the war is over to maintain the merchant fleet they have built up during the war. We have taken it for granted that our friends and allies must know that, however desirable and however praiseworthy their ambition for a strong merchant navy may be for them, for Great Britain is is a vital necessity. Without it we are sunk."

Demand New Attitude.

Saying it will require at least 18,000,000 gross tons to bring Britain the things necessary for its existence and maintain and expand export trade, "without which we must sink to the level of a 10th rate power," Runciman emphasized that "Britain is determined to remain a great maritime nation."

British shipowners, he asserted, "do not fear competition, but will thrive on it, and are entitled to demand from our own government a new attitude towards British shipping and a determined defense of vital British interests."

He particularly appealed to America, saying: "Never can we be grateful enough to America for what she has done, but Britain held the bridge. We fought for a year alone when every other country attacked by Hitler crumpled up.

"Gave the World Time."

"We sold virtually all our overseas investments to carry on. We gave up our profitable overseas market. We rationed ourselves ruthlessly. We saw our merchant fleet—our life line on which those slender rations depended—dwindle under unrelenting attack. We saw our cities and towns come down in ruins. We gave the world time to save itself, and have a right to demand that an account be taken of the sacrifices we have made."

He mentioned that Britain has still a big job to handle if she is to redeem "those promises made to Poland, Czecho-Slovakia, France, and other countries now overrun by Germany," adding, "We shall have to play a prominent—who knows whether it may not be predominant—part in the post-war world."

British shipowners, he said, do not want a subsidy, which means government control, but will insist on government support "against unfair competition and discriminatory measures."

BRITON DESIGNS 8 ENGINE PLANE TO FLY 425 M. P. H.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—Plans for an eight-engine air liner designed for performance higher than any aircraft now in use have been submitted to the ministry of aircraft production by F. G. Miles, British designer.

The machine, known as the Miles "X," will have a range of 3,450 miles and will carry 50 passengers and a crew of five at a cruising speed of 350 miles an hour against a 50 mile head wind. Its engines would give an estimated total output of 14,000 horsepower at 425 miles an hour at 16,000 feet altitude.

Such an aircraft could fly from Britain to Montreal, Quebec, in 9½ hours, to New York in 10 hours. It could reach Johannesburg, South Africa, in 17½ to 18 hours' flying time; Karachi, India, in 13 hours, Hongkong, China, in 21¾ hours, and New Zealand in 39½ hours.

JEWISH GROUP DENOUNCES N. Y. CHURCH VANDALS

New York, Dec. 29 [Special].—A series of affidavits, charging numerous acts of anti-Semitism and desecration of both Protestant and Jewish churches in the northern part of Manhattan, was issued today by the regional office of the Anti-Defamation league of the B'nai B'rith.

The league called upon public officials to take "immediate and adequate steps to eliminate this deplorable situation," at the same time conceding that the police department had initiated certain movements to cope with the problem.

While acts such as those described have been reported over a period of years, they have become more widespread during the last three months, particularly in Washington Heights, the league said. Most of the blame was placed on boys from 10 to 14.

CONGRESS ASKED TO FORGET OPA'S PAST MISTAKES

Bowles Seeks a Clean Slate for Agency.

BY LLOYD NORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29.—Chester Bowles, recently named chief of the office of price administration, today asked congress for a clean slate, pleading that its past mistakes be forgotten.

Chester Bowles.

In a 20,000 word statement, the OPA denied the charges of the Smith committee on Nov. 15 that it invaded the public's freedom and rights by delegating to itself illegal authority and abusing its powers. The committe headed by Rep. Howard W. Smith [D., Va.] has been investigating excessive uses of authority by executive agencies.

"The second intermediate report [issued by the committee on OPA] deals largely with the past," Bowles said in a letter to Rep. Smith accompanying the statement. "But I believe that it is important that misconceptions with respect to the past be cleared up and a common ground of understanding established for the future."

Answers 26 Charges.

Answering each of the 26 charges leveled against the agency by the committee, the OPA marshaled legal arguments and records in its effort to demonstrate it had not denied any business man or consumer the constitutional rights to a fair hearing and that it did not clamp down regulations which caused unnecessary hardship.

The OPA emphasized that the courts have upheld it in 94 per cent of the cases involving its authority.

Countering the committee's accusation that the OPA illegally withheld rationed goods from alleged violators of rationing rules, the agency asserted its action was legal and authorized by the second war powers act.

Defends Appeal Provision.

The OPA defended the provision in the price control law for appeals from its orders only to an emergency court of appeals. The Smith committee had objected that the law unduly restricts the right to judicial review. The OPA said price control must be administered on a national basis and could not be subject to varying interpretations by federal district judges.

"If a federal District court had power to set aside a price regulation, the commodities covered by it would be uncontroled in that district the moment the power was exercised," the OPA said. "This would mean buyers there would be free to bid any price they chose to get the commodity."

Denies Excessive Rules.

The OPA denied it had issued an excessive number of regulations, noting that the 454 maximum price regulations on Sept. 1, 1943, covered 7,000 different types of commodities handled by more than 3 million dealers in more than 700 trades and industries.

Admitting that its regulations may be complicated and involved, the OPA denied, however, that they are unreasonable, illegal, absurd, useless, and conflicting as the committee had charged. It asserted American business and pricing practices are intricate and complex and cannot be governed by a few simple rules.

AWAIT RETURN OF INDICTMENTS IN SEDITION QUIZ

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29.—New federal indictments charging probably 30 or more persons with disseminating literature urging insubordination and mutiny in the army and navy are expected to be returned by or before next Monday, justice department officials reported today.

A special grand jury, investigating administration charges that the persons to be named in the new indictments have been violating the war time sedition laws, has been sitting in the District of Columbia since Oct. 26. Its entire time has been devoted to the sedition cases.

The special jury was called by the justice department after two previous indictments charging 33 persons and one corporation with attempting to undermine the morale of the army and navy were partly invalidated in pre-trial preliminaries in federal court.

O. John Rogge, special assistant to the attorney general, said he is seeking "airtight" indictments this time.

FIRE BELL TOLLS 40TH IROQUOIS REQUIEM TODAY

Fire Commissioner Michael J. Corrigan today will pull the box which gave the first alarm of the Iroquois theater fire. The ceremony will mark the 40th annual memorial service for the 605 victims of the tragedy.

As is customary, the memorial will be held in the city council chambers at 3:32 p. m., the hour the alarm was sounded on Dec. 30, 1903.

Corrigan said yesterday he was the first person informed of the fire. Then an ordinary fireman, he was standing at the window of the station of Engine company 13 at Lake and Dearborn streets when a stage hand brought the tragic news from the theater, which was about 200 feet from the firehouse.

20 PHYSICIANS REPORTED SLAIN IN ACTION IN '43

There have been 20 recorded deaths in action of American doctors during 1943, the Journal of the American Medical association announced yesterday. Five of the deaths were in the Pacific, nine in the North African area, one in Sicily, and one in a torpedoing off Cape May, N. J. In addition, 105 doctors died while in military service from causes other than enemy action. The Journal said that it believes that there have been many more military deaths which have not yet been released for publication.

BARRETT WARNS OF CRIME WAVE TO FOLLOW WAR

Atty. Gen. George F. Barrett yesterday predicted "one of the worst crime waves in history," surpassing even that of the Al Capone prohibition era, will sweep the nation immediately after the war unless steps are taken now to forestall it.

Citing national authorities on crime as a basis for his prediction, Barrett proposed a nation-wide "crime prevention week," to educate citizens to "the necessity for closer coöperation with the law enforcement agencies." He spoke at the 47th annual convention of the Illinois State's Attorneys association in the Morrison hotel.

"History reveals that war always is followed by an increase in crime," Barrett said. "The brutality of war tends to blind men to the value of human life and property."

Hoodlums Increase Activities.

Reminding the prosecutors that crime already is on the increase, Barrett said that "gangland killings of the type known during the prohibition era once more are becoming frequent, underworld hoodlums are engaged in hijacking activities, and infamous criminal characters are found in black market operations."

Barrett said the plan should:

1. Appeal especially to youths, in an attempt to reduce the number of law haters among juveniles.
2. Familiarize citizens with court procedure, in order to erase the fear many have about courts and other law enforcement agencies.
3. Advise citizens to inspect their home protection devices against burglary, and to replace them if defective.
4. Institute programs of talks on crime prevention by criminologists, to students and adults.

Looks to Good Old Days.

"If we can educate the youth of the nation to rely on law enforcement officers as their friends and protectors," Barrett concluded, "we again may see the day when the policeman on the beat is called upon to umpire a few innings of sandlot baseball. In the old days the police officer was the pal of the neighborhood boys and girls, and crime was at a minimum."

The convention, which opened Monday, will close late Thursday with the adoption of resolutions and election of officers.

Greetings:

We are approaching the close of a difficult and trying year. Looking ahead are even greater difficulties, sacrifices and pain.

On behalf of the Kleinert organization, both from the factory and the selling field, I wish to take this occasion to thank you for your forebearance and understanding and your willingness to wait for what we know are inadequate supplies of our merchandise; dress shields, baby items, girdles, shoes, sanitary goods and hospital sheeting and the other merchandise which we are still permitted to manufacture in limited quantities.

At the same time we are proud to report that the amount of work which we are doing for the armed forces continues to increase.

We have not and we do not intend to compromise in quality. As long as ingredients are available with which to manufacture merchandise that will give a high degree of service, nothing less will leave our doors.

You will be pleased to know that Kleinert's have been steadily experimenting with synthetics and that now we know and have on exhibit in our showrooms merchandise made from synthetics that will be available to you as soon as Government permission is granted and the supply of labor and other factors make production possible.

With gratitude for your support and with our very best wishes for your continued well-being and with our prayer that the Great Cause in which we are all engaged will be brought to a speedy and completely victorious conclusion and the basis for a firm and lasting peace established, we greet you for the coming year.

'NO TREATY' IDEA STIRS MOVE FOR SENATE ACTION

White Wants Definition of Executive Powers.

Sen. White.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29 (AP).—A proposal that the senate act speedily to draw a line between executive agreements and treaties was made today by Sen. Wallace H. White [R., Me.] as a result of a Belgian leader's suggestion that peace be declared without a treaty.

The idea that warring countries might well declare the end of hostilities and delay the signing of a treaty was advanced by Gen. Marcel de Baer, Belgian member of the London allied commission to investigate war crimes, who laid it before the state department.

De Baer argued that the Hague convention and other rules of international law would prevent the junking of Germany's Nazi legal system during an armistice, giving German courts the right to try criminals not held by other countries. He advocated speedy reorganization of Germany and the signing of a treaty only after that country develops into a nation acceptable to the family of peace loving states.

Definition Is Sought.

White, member of the foreign relations committee and acting minority leader, said this was not the first time that members of congress had heard reports that there would be no peace treaty at the conclusion of this war.

"I think it would be a good thing for the senate to proceed at once to define by a resolution the grounds that can be covered in an executive agreement and what falls within the confines of a treaty," White said.

De Baer's plan apparently would point toward executive action to end the war, possibly to be submitted for approval by a majority vote of congress instead of the two-thirds senate vote required to ratify a treaty.

Gillette Objects to Plan.

A foreign relations member, Sen. Guy Gillette [D., Ia.], said he thought no agency of the government has any right to commit this country to such a plan as De Baer proposed.

"The American people, thru their congress and under constitutional authority, have declared war," Gillette said. "It is the American people, also thru their congress and under constitutional authority, who will make the peace.

"I am unalterably opposed to the conception of a twilight zone between war and peace under which an agency not set up under our Constitution can commit us to plans and actions which would be inextricably bound up with the peace and welfare of our people. Certainly every activity requiring international concerted action to achieve and secure the peace can be formulated and forwarded thru constitutional American processes."

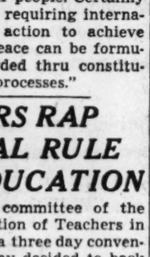
TEACHERS RAP FEDERAL RULE OF EDUCATION

The executive committee of the American Federation of Teachers in the second day of a three day convention here yesterday decided to back extensive federal aid for post-war education and rehabilitation of men in military service, but took the stand that such education should be controled by educators rather than military men or burocrats.

Irvin R. Kuenzli of Chicago, secretary- treasurer, speaking for the committee, said the teachers union, which is affiliated with the AFL, will urge that legislation provide adequate representation for business and labor in determining how money shall be spent. The federation will oppose allocation of funds to any favored colleges or universities, and will demand that funds be spent according to the desires and needs of men and communities to be affected.

Kuenzli asserted that a national teacher shortage can be corrected easily if a minimum salary of $1,500 a year, as recommended by the AFL, is adopted. He said half the nation's teachers receive less than this.

LT. J. B. PHILLIPS OF MARINES DIES IN PACIFIC FIGHT



Lt. J. B. Phillips

Mrs. John B. Phillips, 803 Greenleaf avenue, Glencoe, was notified by the marine corps yesterday that her husband, a first lieutenant, had been killed in action in the South Pacific. He was 27 years old. Prior to his enlistment in 1942, Lt. Phillips was an attorney, associated with the legal firm of Eckert & Peterson.

In addition to his widow he is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Phillips, 300 Fairview avenue, Winnetka; and a brother, Carter Phillips, 1006 Hinman avenue, Evanston.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

H. G. asks: "What, if any, difference is there between a dishonorable discharge and a discharge without honor? Can the blemish be removed?"

ANSWER: A dishonorable discharge results almost entirely from a court martial trial and findings and involves the loss of citizenship rights such as voting and holding of public office, etc. A discharge without honor might result from conviction by a civil court or by the serviceman rendering himself unfit for military service. Only by an act of congress can the rights, privileges, and benefits conferred by law upon honorably discharged servicemen be granted to a person who has been dishonorably discharged, but this is rarely done. Conviction of desertion in war time may be pardoned by the President.

J. W. writes: "My husband has been in the army a year and a half. Last May, while riding in an ambulance which was used for transportation, he was hurt in a train accident. He spent four months in a hospital and is not well yet. Is it possible for him to sue the railroad for damages or does he have to wait until the war is over?"

ANSWER. Your husband may see the legal assistance officer wherever he is stationed, and the officer will help him file suit and prosecute the case. If no legal assistance officer is available, he should visit the nearest state, county, or city bar association committee on war work office, where he will be given help. He doesn't have to wait until the war is over!

S. M. asks: "How long are construction battalions of the army held on overseas duty before being returned to the states for furlough?"

ANSWER: The navy announced as a general policy. "After 18 months of hazardous sea duty, navy men will be returned to the United States as far as transportation facilities and assignments permit." This policy is most rigidly adhered to in the case of the Seabees.

G. S. C. asks: "Isn't there somewhere in the army where soldiers can register if they are foreign language specialists?"

ANSWER: The army maintains a roster in the adjutant general's office of enlisted men and women who speak and write one or more foreign languages. The list is available to commanding generals who may request assignment or transfer of such numbers of personnel as required.

L. T. D. asks: "Can a mortgagor foreclose on the home of a discharged man who isn't able to make payments immediately upon being discharged?"

ANSWER: It would be discretionary with the court. In a New York case decided this month, the judge ruled that if the man can demonstrate his inability to meet the obligation, "the ex-serviceman can not be foreclosed and that an arrangement of payments over a period of years, consistent with the debtor's financial situation, may be made by the court and must be accepted by the creditor."

THIRD OF NATION RECONQUERED BY TITO, SAY REDS

LONDON, Dec. 29 (AP).—The army of Marshal Josip Broz [Tito] has reconquered 41,000 square miles of Jugo-Slavia—approximately one-third of the area of that country—the Moscow radio reported today. It added that in the first six months of 1943 the army killed more than 35,000 enemy soldiers and imprisoned 16,000 while capturing 34 tanks, 16,000 rifles, more than 1,000 machine guns, 409 mortars, and vast quantities of ammunition.

Jugo-Slav sources in London described the Moscow broadcast as "fairly accurate."

Tito's bulletin today said fighting was particularly bitter in Dalmatia, with the Germans repulsed in repeated attempts to break thru to Glamoc in the Livno-Duvno sector. However, the Jugo-Slavs were forced to evacuate the Island of Korcula off the Dalmatian coast.

Grayslake Couple Receive Award for Their Dead Son

Mr. and Mrs. George B. Jacobson of Seymour street, Grayslake, yesterday received the Purple heart and citation which were awarded posthumously to their son, Herbert, 21, a fireman 3d class, who was killed aboard the U. S. CHICAGO FIRE HERO WINS TWO NAVY CITATIONS

Robert J. Quinn, who as a Chicago fireman won THE TRIBUNE'S hero award in March, 1934, for saving an aged woman from a burning house and received the Lambert Tree medal for that and another act of heroism, has been cited twice for work "well done" in fighting fires since he joined the navy, Fire Commissioner Michael J. Corrigan was informed yesterday.

Quinn was a fire department lieutenant when he was commissioned a navy lieutenant in November, 1942, and assigned to Norfolk, Va. He lived at 648 West 57th street.

One commendation, from Rear Adm. Alexander Sharp, commanding officer of the service forces of the Atlantic fleet, was for volunteering to accompany a fire fighting party that went 150 miles to sea in a gale Nov. 20 to aid a merchantman that was afire after a collision. The other was from the commandant at Hampton Roads, Va., for excellent work in fighting a fire aboard another ship.

LAST 3 UNIONS WITHDRAW RAIL STRIKE ORDERS

Quick Return of Lines to Owners Expected.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29 (AP).—Leaders of the railroad firemen, conductors and switchmen, last of the union holdouts, officially canceled strike orders tonight in telegrams to regional chairmen in the field.

The cancellation order went out without any mention of the wage controversy, which is still unsettled as far as those three groups are concerned.

There were signs that efforts are under way to wind up the whole wage dispute and let the roads return to private management.

Confer with Byrnes.

During the day there were these other developments:

1. The heads of the last unions to drop strike plans conferred at the White House with War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes.

2. The 15 nonoperating unions, together with representatives of railroad management, conferred at the war department with Lt. Gen. Brehon B. Somervell, appointed to operate the roads when the government seized them Monday night because of the strike threat.

3. The trainmen and engineers, who agreed when the President first proposed arbitration, signed a contract with the railroads embodying his awards—4 cents an hour general wage increase and 5 cents in lieu of overtime and away from home expenses.

Conferees are Silent.

All the conferees were close-mouthed about their talks. The war department disclosed that wage matters were involved.

The general belief that the government will turn the railroads back to private management without long delay stemmed from President Roosevelt's expressed views. He told a press-radio conference yesterday that the administration wanted to turn them back as soon as it could.

The pattern for settlement so far as the firemen, conductors, and switchmen are concerned apparently was cut in the President's arbitration decision in the case of the engineers and trainmen. He approved a mediation board's award of 4 cents an hour general increase plus 5 cents in lieu of overtime and expenses when away from home.

Still to be settled is the question of just what is to be arbitrated on the wage and overtime question in the case of the 15 nonoperating unions—the shopmen, telegraphers, and others who do not operate trains.

SOCIALIZATION SEEN

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29 (AP).—Rep. Marion T. Bennett [R., Mo.] today termed government seizure of the railroads "a diabolically clever step toward national socialization."

"It's a moot question whether they'll ever be turned back to industry," Bennett said in an interview.

He asserted the move "appears to fit into the picture drawn recently by President Roosevelt's uncle, Mr. Frederic A. Delano."

Bennett explained he referred to a report of the national resources planning board, of which Delano is chairman, which "proposed government ownership and regulation of the transportation industry."

Clever Maneuver.

The Missourian acknowledged that the seizure "was the only thing to do at this stage of the game, because naturally no one wanted a strike."

"But it was certainly clever the way the administration maneuvered things around so the step was necessary," he declared. "If Mr. Roosevelt had let the railway act be enforced the roads would still be in private hands."

Bennett predicted that "everybody will lose because of the seizure before it's over with," and added "it's a shame because both railway labor and management have done a marvelous job in the war effort."

Fears All Will Lose.

He said "The railroads would be denied justified profits, labor would not get its due wage increase and the administration would lose good will on all sides.

"Right now the action meets with general approval," Bennett said. "It meets with my approval. But in the long run everybody will be cussing the government as much as labor and management are at present."

The Missourian urged citizens and congressmen to "watch for similar situations in other industries in the future and see if they can be prevented before they reach this seizure stage."

Rep. Gore Gives Up Seat in Congress, Joins Army

Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., Dec. 29 (AP).—Swapping a seat in congress for a private's rank, Albert Gore, representative from the 4th district of Tennessee, was sworn into the army today as a volunteer. Gore, 36 years old, took the oath at the Fort Oglethorpe induction station and was granted a 21 day furlough during which he indicated he would visit Washington for the reconvening of congress after the Christmas holidays. He will report for duty Jan. 19.

TREASURE HUNT FOLLOWS DRAKE JEWEL ROBBERY

Park police early yesterday engaged in a glorified Easter egg hunt in a pile of broken glass outside the jewelry store of Spaulding & Co. at 959 North Michigan avenue, in the Drake hotel, where a large plate glass window had been smashed by jewel thieves.

The hunt, with costly jewels as its object, developed unexpectedly when Policemen Robert Oman and George Blair arrived to investigate the robbery. It was Oman who spied a shard of glass that sparkled more brilliantly than its fellows.

Finds Wedding Ring.

Oman picked up a platinum wedding ring, with two baguettes and four small diamonds, valued at $242.

From then on every sliver of glass resembled a gem, and the two policemen pawed thru the debris for two hours. Then they were joined by Policemen Thomas Smith and George Swaine.

Smith was the next to strike pay dirt. His hand darted into the mass of glass fragments and emerged with a platinum and diamond ring worth $1,540.

A crowd of spectators had gathered, and one of the policemen was assigned to discourage their attempts to join in the hunt. The onlookers helped, however, by pointing to various hunks of glass and crying: "There's one!"

$14,000 Worth Missing.

Most of the sharp edges of the broken glass had been worn off when the final item in the trove was discovered by Smith. It was a platinum ring, set with an emerald cut diamond, and bearing a price tag of $1,650.

The treasure hunt had resulted in the recovery of a total of $3,432 worth of jewelry. More than $14,000 worth, however, was still missing, according to Virgil Baurhyte, manager of the store.

THE QUESTION.

What has been your biggest thrill in winning a contest?

WHERE ASKED.

Chicago Contest club, La Salle hotel.

THE ANSWERS.

Al Walker, yeoman 3d class, Great Lakes Naval Training Station—One week I won three contests. The prizes weren't so big but I was thrilled. One prize, heat controls for the furnace, made me happy because it meant less ashes to haul. The others were a crate of oranges and a portable radio.

Mrs. Anna Propson, housewife, 2128 Montrose avenue—It was a big surprise to win $250 for writing the best 50 word reason "Why I'd like to see the New York World's Fair." I don't remember any of it except the last word, "Amen." My husband always says that was the $250 word.

Mrs. G. E. Kratt, housewife, 5440 North Campbell avenue—A few years ago my last line to a soap company limerick won first prize—a brand new car and 1,000 gallons of gasoline. You can well imagine what a thrill that was. We took our first trip to the west coast in our prize car.

Helen Horrigan, personal shopper, 542 Rush street—A month ago I sent a question to a radio quiz program. If it stumped the audience I'd get $50; if it were answered the prize would be $25. It was fun to listen and hope for the best, but all I received was the $25.

Allene E. Gates, Hyde Park hotel—The most wonderful prize I ever won was a two weeks trip to California with all expenses paid. It was a limerick or jingle contest for a candy company and all during the trip I kept singing to myself the line that had won the trip for me.

Mrs. John A. Shanahan, housewife, 10608 Wallace street—I've won prizes that had more cash value than the last one, but never any that pleased me as much. The company offered a cocker spaniel puppy to the person who submitted the prize winning name. I entered the name Tinkle Bell and won.

NEW YEAR PLEA: DON'T CALL UP FRIENDS AT 12!

New Year's eve celebrators should refrain from making "Happy New Year" telephone calls to friends either in or out of town, the Illinois Bell Telephone company said yesterday.

"It is a nice pleasantry to call friends during the first few minutes of the new year," a company official said, "but even at night and during the holidays the lines are busy with important war calls."

If the telephone lines are heavily loaded during the late hours New Year's eve, the official said, it will require extensive reassignments.

FEPC HEAD'S RED LEANING BARED IN HOUSE PROBE

Ross Is Blamed for Racial Unrest.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29.—Communist sympathies of Malcolm H. Ross, chairman of President Roosevelt's fair employment practices committee, which has been denounced in congress as a promoter of disunity and racial unrest, were disclosed today by investigators for the house committee on un-American activities.

Malcolm H. Ross.

Another house committee, authorized to investigate excesses of authority by government agencies, has seized files of the FEPC and is compiling evidence on the legality of its status, functions, and orders. Open hearings will be held.

The FEPC, which has caused an uproar in the south by ordering 14 railroads and seven unions to cease alleged unfair labor practices, was created by Mr. Roosevelt to report on employment conditions in general. From the first, however, it has centered its attention on Negro employment practices.

Communist Line Followed.

This is in line, investigators noted, with the Communist party practice of inciting Negroes to unrest and an examination of the record of Chairman Ross gives the answer, they said, to the FEPC's attitude.

Ross is a protege of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, the President's wife, according to reports, and of Atty. Gen. Francis Biddle. A Wall street messenger and bond peddler in the '20s after his graduation from Yale, Ross later worked on southern newspapers. He came to Washington with the New Deal in 1933 and was press agent for the national labor relations board. He joined the FEPC last July and was appointed chairman in October.

Book Called Pro-Red.

In 1939 Ross wrote a book, "Death of a Yale Man," which is studded with expressions of sympathy for the Communist cause, investigators reported. In its comment on labor disputes, in particular, this work reflects a pro-Communist tone, they declared. A typical paragraph was cited:

"The impact of Russian communism lent direction to west coast thinking. All thru our history the idea of communism has been associated with groups of idealists who saw America as a new scene for the coöperative life of superior human beings."

On the NLRB, Ross was closely associated with Edwin S. Smith, board member who was later dropped because of his pro-Communist ideas, according to the investigators' report. Smith is now executive secretary of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship.

Rep. Vito Marcantonio [A. L., N. Y.], the Communist party's unofficial representative in congress, introduced a bill to make the FEPC a permanent organization.

Upheld by Roosevelt.

The FEPC's order to the southern railroads and unions came Nov. 18 shortly after President Roosevelt had met a threat to the agency's authority which came from Controler General Lindsay C. Warren. Warren had ruled that the committee's orders were permissive only, but the President immediately clarified his original executive order, holding the group's decrees were mandatory.

The railroads and unions were given until Dec. 30 to cease their alleged discriminations against Negro labor. When the railroads pleaded that any attempt to promote Negroes to the positions of conductor and engineer on southern railroads would disrupt relations with unions and employes and create disorder in war time, the FEPC certified the cases to the President for enforcement.

Under this procedure the President might use any of several enforcement methods, including abolition of union privileges, seizure of property, or withholding of government contracts. Subsequent government seizure of the railroads, because of strike threats, makes it possible for immediate enforcement of the order, but officials have refused thus far to reveal what action they may take.

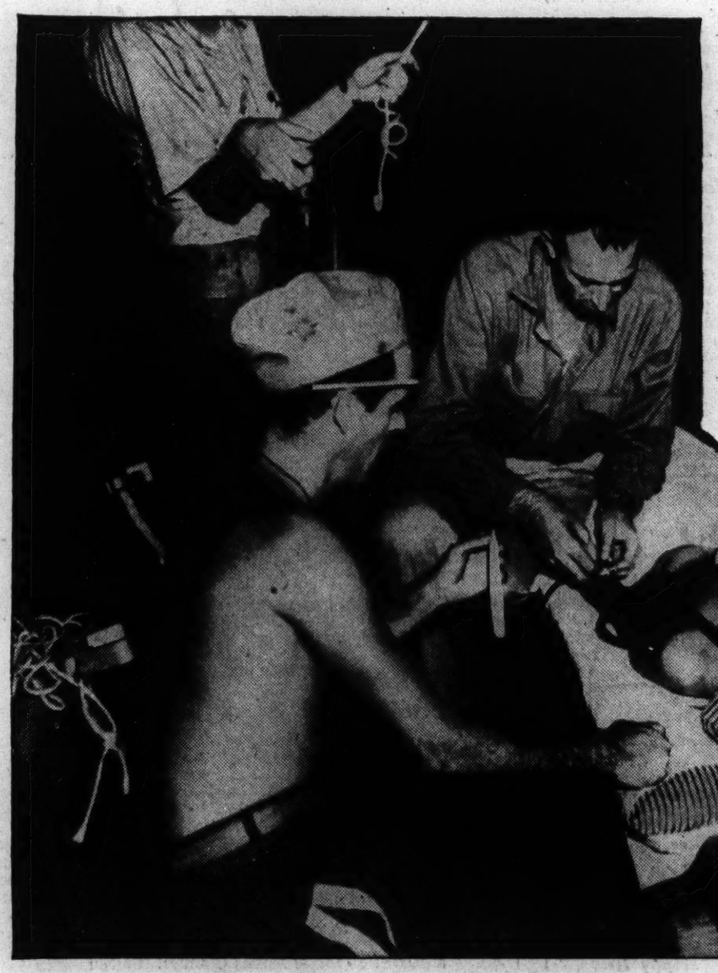
the finest New Year Resolution you can make for 1944



An actual blood transfusion administered under fire on Guadalcanal. Someone's generous contribution gave this fighting man a chance for life.

Our wounded fighting men have one great chance for life that is yours to give them. In the field hospitals close to the fighting fronts, Medical Corps men call this one great chance Resuscitation.

Every badly wounded man at the hospitals is rushed to Resuscitation. On the shell-torn beaches, on the battlefields, Medical Corps men administer it under fire.

Resuscitation is the transmission of the precious blood plasma. Every drop that trickles down the long tubes from bottles suspended above hospital cots or slung from a comrade's rifle stock is a priceless home-front gift of life to the battle-torn American soldier.

On the home front we must face 1944 realistically. The number of American men in combat will be increased many fold. The fury of the war will surge upward in climactic offensives in many parts of the world.

Thus far America has suffered relatively few casualties, but already the medical officers have raised the worried cry in the field hospitals, as row on row of badly wounded men are brought in: "Will there be enough blood?"

American casualty lists, inevitably, will be multiplied in fateful 1944.

*Will there be enough blood for the wounded—*THEN?

That is the question that faces each of us in 1944. It will be a life or death question for thousands of men. The biggest offensives are coming in 1944. Then will come the need for more and more blood plasma. If the blood is not there when they need it, men will die.

If you have not already done so, register with your Red Cross Blood Donor service today. Resolve to become a regular donor in 1944, when your blood will be most needed. It is the finest New Year resolution you can make.

STRIKES GROW UNDER LAW TO PREVENT THEM

Measure Needs Teeth, Says Sponsor.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29 (AP).—The anti-strike law went into effect last July 1 as a strike stopper but now strikes are averaging 10 a day thruout the country compared with about four a day this time last year.

Federal officials, unwilling to be quoted by name for fear of being mixed in a controversy, say:

It is very possible the anti-strike law is being used by some workers as a stick to beat the boss in obtaining their demands thru strike threats which never materialize.

Rep. Howard W. Smith [D., Va.]—who authored the anti-strike law with Sen. Tom Connally [D., Tex.]—says the measure needs to be revised to put "teeth" in it.

There were 300 strikes last November but only 144 in November a year ago, according to the government's bureau of labor statistics which compiles the strike figures.

Miners Partly to Blame.

Some of last month's shutdowns were due to the coal mine strikes. But only a few.

Looking at December's still incomplete figures, federal officials say strikes this month will be about the same as November's.

Here is the background of the anti-strike law, what it is supposed to do, and what is happening.

John L. Lewis last June 23 called off his coal miners' third strike of the year until Oct. 31 to permit settlement of his wage demands.

Two days later, June 25, congress, furious at the mine shutdowns which were to cost the nation 40 million tons of coal in 1943, passed the anti-strike law over the President's veto.

Two Main Provisions.

The law had two main provisions, both of which have been severely mauled:

1. It provides that whenever a labor dispute threatens in a war plant, representatives of the workers shall file a notice with three government agencies, the national labor relations board, the war labor board, and the department of labor. For the 30 days after such notice is filed workers and bosses are to continue uninterrupted war production. On the 30th day the NLRB conducts a secret vote to determine whether the workers wish to strike.

Those 30 days—between filing of intention to strike and the strike vote—are supposed to be a "cooling off" period, a time in which bosses and workers may be able to iron out their problems.

Government Seizure.

2. The law empowers the President to order government seizure of war plants threatened with a shutdown and at the same time provide fines and imprisonment for persons instigating or aiding strikes in such seized plants.

On Oct. 31, when no wage agreement had been reached with Lewis' men, the miners struck again. They contended they were not striking, only staying away from the mines where they no longer had a working contract.

On Nov. 1, in keeping with the anti-strike law, the President ordered Interior Secretary Ickes to seize the mines for the government. But the miners did not go back to work until two days later when told to by Lewis, who by then had reached a wage agreement with Ickes.

Meanwhile, work stoppages and strikes in other war industries were occurring altho they had not been seized by the government. In such cases the only penalty for violation of the law's required 30 day notice before striking in a war plant not seized by the government is a civil suit for damages.

The Way It Works.

The government or a war contractor may sue employes or their representatives if damages can be shown. The department of justice says it has no record of any such suit filed.

During the first three months after the law went into effect at least 97 of 100 war plant strikes apparently ignored the 30 day cooling off period prescribed by the anti-strike measure. This information is based on NLRB records and government information.

WLB ATTORNEY UPHOLDS UNION DUES CHECKOFF

Illinois firms are empowered under a 1913 statute to withhold employes' wages for union dues, Miss Margaret Worringer, acting regional attorney for the war labor board, said yesterday. Her announcement answered the Illinois Manufacturers' association in questioning the legality of the checkoff in this state. She quoted sections of the act purporting to sanction deductions for hospitalization and other plans, as well as union dues, and said that inclusion of the checkoff in labor contracts is "absolutely necessary to the successful prosecution of the war to prevent work interruptions."

On School Board

Two Negro attorneys and a leader in Swedish affairs were named yesterday by Mayor Edward J. Kelly to fill two board of education vacancies and one seat on the library board. The city council deferred action until its next meeting.

Irvin C. Mollison, now a member of the library board, was named to the school board post formerly held by James B. Cashin, who resigned a few months ago to became a member of the city civil service commission. Both are Negroes. Joseph D. Bibb, Negro, was chosen for Mollison's place on the library board.

Erik Thulin, for 24 years grand secretary of a Swedish fraternal-insurance organization, was named to take the school board post of the late Nels H. Olson.

Mollison's school board term will continue until next April 30. Thulin's term will run to April 30, 1947. Regular board terms are five years.

BUILDING TRADE WINS STAY FROM 48 HOUR ORDER

Building construction firms with contracts based on a 40 hour work week yesterday were granted an extension of 60 days, to March 16, in which to adopt the 48 hour week, R. D. Barry, secretary of the Building Construction Employers' association said. The Chicago area is scheduled to go on the longer work week Jan. 16.

Lester Brown, area director of the war man power commission, said the extension is to apply only to work already started, and not destined for government use, because only a comparatively few workers are involved. Brown said that all government construction work is being done on a 48 hour week or longer, adding that there is nothing to keep a man employed five days on a private project from working the sixth day on a government job, if he is needed.

Brown said he had started analyzing applications for exemptions filed by "several thousand" firms which come under provisions of the 48 hour week order.

The commission extended until Feb. 1 the deadline for compliance with a compulsory 48 hour week order issued Dec. 1, to be effective in 23 Indiana counties, including La Porte, Pulaski, Benton, White, and Tippecanoe. William H. Spencer, regional WMC director, said his Indiana office was unable to obtain sufficient forms until this week.

4,000 MORE GO OUT AS BRITISH STRIKES SPREAD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 29.—Strikes of British dockers and factory workers spread today. At Middlesborough 1,000 dockers employed on river side wharves ceased work. At the same time 3,000 men employed at a west Scotland factory, where 2,000 women already were striking for increased pay, decided at a mass meeting to come out in a sympathy strike.

The ministry of labor announced that labor disputes for 11 months ending Nov. 30 totaled 1,638, involved 527,700 workers, and caused a loss of 1,676,000 working days. In the corresponding period last year there were 1,196 disputes involving 429,700 workers and costing 1,437,000 days.

COUNCIL URGES SPECIAL SESSION ON SOLDIER VOTE

Also Asks Repeal of Poor Relief Tax.

The city council yesterday adopted a resolution calling on Gov. Dwight Green to summon a special session of the legislature to enact laws enabling men and women in military service to vote in the 1944 elections. The resolution was introduced two weeks ago by Ald. George D. Kells [28th].

"If those in our fighting forces are not permitted to cast their vote and have it counted for the public officials they prefer in office, it will be a negation of the entire philosophy of democracy," the resolution stated.

Ask End of Relief Tax.

Another resolution, asking that the poor relief tax be repealed at the special session, was offered by Ald. Frank Keenan [49th]. It was referred to the committee on taxation, which he heads.

Keenan declared the tax was voted during the depression, when 182,000 persons were on relief, and was an emergency measure.

"Today only 20,000 persons are on relief, and the emergency has passed," Keenan said. "This tax on real estate can be repealed because funds from the utilities tax, the sales tax, and cigaret taxes are ample to care for the indigent. Elimination of the relief tax will reduce the assessment rate on real estate in Chicago by 30 cents."

Clark's Plan Approved.

County Assessor John S. Clark's plan for 100 per cent valuation was approved, 32 to 8, with Republican members furnishing the opposition.

Keenan, who introduced the resolution of approval at a previous meeting, and other Democratic spokesmen asserted the full valuation would ease the tax burden on small home owners and place a greater tax load on the railroads, utilities, and corporations. Republicans argued that the reverse is true.

Mayor Edward J. Kelly's appointment of Aubrey H. Mellinger, president of the Illinois Bell Telephone company, as head of the Chicago Plan commission for a four year term starting Jan. 11 was approved. He will succeed George T. Horton.

Improvement of 103d street between Halsted street and Vincennes avenue at a cost of $150,000, with funds from the motor fuel tax fund, was authorized.

2 ARMY NURSES GIVEN RELATIVE RANK OF MAJOR

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29 (AP).—The war department announced today the relative rank of major had been conferred upon Edna B. Groppe of Wheeling W. Va., and Mary C. Walker of Toulon, Ill., both of the army nurse corps.

Before entering army service, Maj. Groppe was connected with the Cook County hospital, while Maj. Walker was associated with the Denver, Colo., General hospital.

Maj. Groppe is on duty in Washington in the office of the superintendent of the army nurse corps, and is in charge of nurses' assignments overseas. Maj. Walker, named recently to take charge of the army senior nurse cadet program, was formerly assistant director of the Colorado state board of nurse examiners.

SMOKE BLANKET BLACKS OUT CITY IN MID-MORNING

A prank of the weather gave most of Chicago a virtual black-out yesterday forenoon, but compensated by holding off frigid temperatures. About two-thirds of the city was affected.

The unexpected darkness was especially noticeable in the loop. Store and office buildings were lighted up as at nighttime. Lights also were required on street cars, elevated trains, and automobiles, and in homes, offices, and factories. The darkness continued until nearly noon when the sun struggled thru the general overcast. The Commonwealth Edison company reported that its electrical output rose 6 per cent from 9 to 11:30 a. m., the peak period of the darkness, but that the extra demand was taken without any strain on facilities.

H. L. Jacobson, forecaster, said that the darkness was caused by low clouds, too little wind, and too much smoke. The wind was too light to blow away the smoke and dust, and the cloud ceiling was too low to permit their natural upward dispersal. The compensating effect, however, Jacobson said, was to keep colder temperatures out. Instead of 26 above we might have had 15 or lower, he said, adding it was zero in Springfield, Ill.; 9 above in Rockford, and 14 above in South Bend, Ind.

PREPARE CHANGE IN IOWA LAW SO YANKS CAN VOTE

Des Moines, Ia., Dec. 29 [Special].—Atty. Gen. John Rankin's staff today started preparing data on the changes in the Iowa voting law that will be necessary to permit members of the military services overseas to vote in the 1944 elections.

It is expected this legal advice will be presented in Gov. B. B. Hickenlooper's message to the special session of the legislature he yesterday called to meet Jan. 26 to pass legislation permitting servicemen from Iowa to vote.

The legislation is necessary because the Iowa absent voter law does not allow sufficient time for soldiers and sailors overseas to get their ballots and return them in time to be counted. The governor expressed the opinion the corrections should permit servicemen to vote in the 1944 primary as well as the general election.

WALKER EXPECTS COMPROMISE ON YANK VOTE BILL

Democrat Head Gives Views to Hillman.

Green Waits on U. S.

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 29 (AP).—Gov. Green said today he would wait and see what action congress takes on soldiers' voting before deciding on a special legislative session. "I believe our present law is adequate, but we might have to make changes to conform with a federal law."

BY LAURENCE BURD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29.—Democratic National Chairman Frank C. Walker today predicted congress will adopt a "compromise" service men's voting bill to meet widespread congressional protests against giving the federal government complete supervision over soldiers' balloting in the 1944 elections.

Walker's prediction was made in a telegram replying to a wire from Sidney Hillman, chairman of the CIO political action committee, who urged Walker to throw his support behind a measure similar to the Green-Lucas bill, which was killed in the senate last month.

Lucas Changes Bill.

The latter bill provided for supervision of service balloting by a federal ballot commission to be appointed by President Roosevelt. It was defeated in the senate by a bipartisan bloc of senators who argued it transgressed state rights to administer absentee voting and placed the ultimate supervisory power in the President, who will presumably be a candidate himself for reëlection.

The senate voted instead to leave service balloting in state hands and urged the states to take "appropriate action" to assure military personnel a chance to vote. Since then, Sen. Scott Lucas [D., Ill.] and Rep. Eugene Worley [D., Tex.], have offered what they call "compromise" bills which would retain a federal commission, to be named by the President, to handle the printing, distribution, and collection of ballots but would give the states, instead of the proposed commission, the power to determine the validity of ballots cast.

Indorsement Seen.

Meanwhile, Worley, who is chairman of the house elections committee, promised hearings on the soldiers' vote question, will be reopened within a few days after congress reconvenes Jan. 10.

He predicted his new proposal will receive committee approval, but other committee members said the group is more likely to report favorably to the house a bill offered by Rep. Charles Vursell [R., Ill.]. The Vursell proposal would retain state control over the voting, but would give definite instructions to the army and navy on ballot distribution.

ASKS PRIMARY SHIFT

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 29 [Special].—Gov. Harry F. Kelly today proposed to the state elections study commission that Michigan's 1944 primary election be held July 11 rather than Sept. 12 in order to make it possible for men and women in service to vote in the Nov. 7 general election.

"I can see no way service men can exercise their right to vote unless the time of the primary is changed," he said in advancing the proposal. He said the change would allow 118 days for distribution and collection of ballots in the theaters of war, and the 55 day period provided now would be inadequate.

The governor indicated he would insist that the legislature act on the soldier vote problem at the special session called for Jan. 31, and advised the election study commission to prepare a definite program for presentation as soon as it assembles.

FIRM PRESIDENT SLUGGED BY SIX AT CLUB'S DOOR

Evergreen Park police and private investigators sought last night to solve circumstances surrounding the slugging late Tuesday night of Wirt D. Walker, 44 years old, president of Arcady Farms Milling company, at the doors of the Evergreen Golf club, 91st street and Western avenue.

Walker, who is in Presbyterian hospital with a broken nose, a possible jaw fracture, and possible internal injuries, was set upon by six men as he left the club after a testimonial dinner attended by several political leaders. The dinner was held in honor of Lt. James Killackey of the Morgan Park police, who retired Dec. 23 at the age of 63 after 37 years on the police force. Municipal Judge Gibson E. Gorman was toastmaster.

Accounts of the slugging were obtained from Frank Adams, member of a law firm that represents the milling company, after physicians had refused interviews with Walker.

Wife Also Knocked Down.

Adams said Walker was knocked down and kicked by the six men as he left the club. His wife, Mildred, also was knocked down in the struggle. Before Walker left the club, Adams said, a sailor had taken a drink from his table and Walker had claimed it, angering the sailor.

The Walkers were accompanied from the dinner by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred J. Dreyfuss, 2052 Lincoln Park West. Dreyfuss is president of Atlas Box Makers, Inc., 2555 Diversey parkway.

Mrs. Dreyfuss said she and her husband were thrust aside by the men. Walker tried to fight back, she said, but his arms were pinned by one of the men.

Lt. Killackey came from the building and ordered the attack stopped, it was said, and one assailant answered, "You're not my lieutenant; you can't order me to stop."

Motive Undetermined, Lawyer Says.

No motive for the attack has been determined, Adams said. "Walker doesn't move in circles where he would meet men such as these," the lawyer added.

Mrs. Walker, who was bruised when knocked to the pavement, refused to discuss the slugging in her home at 3300 Lake Shore drive, referring all inquiries to Adams.

Warren avenue police obtained an accident report at the hospital in their district, but Evergreen Park police are investigating the incident. At the village hall it was said no clews to the identity of the sluggers had been found.

Others attending the banquet were Judge John R. McSweeney, former State Sen. George M. Maypole, James J. McDermott, member of the board of tax appeals, and Ben Samuels, president of the Yellow Cab company. Most of the guests had left at the time of the assault.

VICE PRESIDENT? NOT CANDIDATE, SAYS IOWA CHIEF

Des Moines, Ia., Dec. 29 [Special]. Gov. B. B. Hickenlooper today said he is not a candidate for the Republican Vice Presidential nomination. His statement was issued in reply to a suggestion from Iowa G. O. P. headquarters yesterday that he would be an admirable choice for the nomination.

"I am not a candidate for Vice President," Hickenlooper said. "I appreciate the compliment, but I entertain no thoughts of being a candidate."

State Republican headquarters had said the Iowa governor had been getting "unusual calls for speeches in other states," and attributed it to a desire of Republican leaders to "look over Iowa's governor and see him in action."

Hickenlooper is expected to announce next month as a candidate for United States senator.

Mrs. Kelly to Be Honored for Service Center Work

Mrs. Edward J. Kelly will be cited as "the woman who has done the outstanding war job for the year 1943" during a Supper Interlude radio program at 6:30 p. m. Friday over station WMAQ. Chairman of canteens at the Chicago service men centers, Mrs. Kelly has played an active part in creating and maintaining the centers which represent Chicago's hospitality to service men and women.

SPARKS LASHES FBI ENTRY INTO LETTER FURORE

Withdraws Offer to Let Biddle See Note.

BY JOHNSON KANADY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29.—C. Nelson Sparks, author of "One Man—Wendell Willkie," today branded the entrance of the FBI into the political whirlpool created by his book a "glaring example" of what can take place under a "highly personalized form of government."

Harry Hopkins, Presidential adviser, called the FBI into the case after charging that a letter, which the book quotes as having been written by Hopkins to Dr. Umphrey Lee, president of Southern Methodist university, Dallas, was a forgery. Two FBI agents called on Sparks at his Akron, O., home and asked Sparks to "loan" the letter to Atty. Gen. Francis Biddle. Sparks refused, but offered to bring the letter to Washington and show it to Biddle personally.

Called a Forgery.

Today, in a letter to Biddle, Sparks withdrew the offer to present the letter voluntarily and told Biddle that if he wants the letter he must get it legally. Sparks said the decision to withdraw the offer he had made to Biddle was occasioned by Hopkins' direct charge that the letter, which is in Sparks' possession, is a forgery.

The letter has been reproduced in newspapers of the nation, complete with a signature said to be that of Hopkins. In the book Sparks uses the letter in presenting his case that President Roosevelt, working thru Hopkins and others, is attempting to influence the Republican choice of a Presidential candidate. The letter predicts the nomination of Willkie by the G. O. P. Sparks has repeatedly said the letter is genuine, and that he can prove it.

Produces Photostatic Copy.

Hopkins first denied he had written the letter last week, and Lee denied he had received it. Sparks then produced a photostatic copy of the document, resulting in Hopkins' charge that it was a forgery and the calling out of the FBI to prove Hopkins' case.

Sparks' letter to Biddle, mailed today in Washington, related that when the FBI men in Akron called on him, on Biddle's orders, Sparks said he would be willing to show the alleged Hopkins letter to Biddle personally. Sparks' letter to Biddle continues:

"I had not then read Mr. Hopkins' public statement in regard to the authenticity of the letter.

"Since reading the direct charge made by Mr. Hopkins that the letter I hold is a forgery, and later learning of the method that he used to publicize the federal bureau of investigation into a national political campaign, I have concluded that the method used by you to secure the letter is wholly un-American and a glaring example of what can happen to the rights of any or all American citizens under a highly personalized form of government, call it what you may, communism, fascism or new dealism.

Proceed Thru Laws.

"I, therefore, wish to advise you that, if you desire to see the original letter written by Mr. Hopkins to Dr. Lee, which I hold, and which came to me in a perfectly legal manner, you should proceed thru those channels made available to you thru laws enacted by congress."

A congressional investigation of the charges made by Sparks in the book is in the offing. Sen. William Langer [R., N. D.] has a resolution calling for such an investigation pending before a senate privileges and elections subcommittee. Hearings are expected to open soon after the senate returns Jan. 10.

REFUSE TO DROP M'CORMICK FOR PRESIDENT MOVE

'Draft' Is Pressed Tho Publisher Declines.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Petitions to draft Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, as a candidate for President in the Illinois preferential primary will continue to be circulated despite Col. McCormick's statement that he does not wish his name to be used in this way, according to a statement issued yesterday by William J. Grace, secretary of the Republican Nationalist Revival committee.

Chairman Ben Berve of the Republican state central committee had asked Col. McCormick for "an expression from you on this all-important subject." Col. McCormick replied that he had joined in the fight to keep America free as editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, and if he allowed his name to be used in the primary he would have to give up this activity.

This would be tantamount to forsaking an activity of proved value for one of uncertain value to his country, Col. McCormick wrote to Berve.

Paraphrases Adm. Farragut.

The statement of Secretary Grace said in part:

"Paraphrasing Adm. Farragut, we say, 'Damn the politician torpedoes! Full speed ahead for the people.' The 'Draft McCormick' movement didn't ask Col. McCormick to allow the use of his name, and it will not be stopped by the exchange of letters.

"The petition signing will go on. The McCormick for President petition will be filed in time.

Aim: Save Our Republic.

"The Berve letter speaks about being 'flooded with communications from citizens, officials, and Republican leaders thruout the state urging Col. McCormick as a Presidential candidate.' The only official action that Berve can take as an American citizen is to offer some leadership to these people who he says are flooding him with communications. But the New Deal idea is [and it's in the Republican party, too] to veto the people.

"This is not a fake like the 1940 'Draft Roosevelt' movement. This is a real, people's movement to draft a man into leadership to save our Republic."

Secretary Grace said a meeting of his executive committee will be held tonight at 82 West Washington street to discuss the matter.

LAKE COUNTY, IND., INSTALLS OFFICIALS JAN. 1

Four Lake county [Ind.] public officials will be sworn in at 2 p. m. Saturday by Judge W. J. Murray of Criminal court in Lake county's courthouse at Crown Point, Ind. All the four, elected in 1942, are Democrats, two of them incumbents: Walter Mybeck, Crown Point, who will start a second four year term as clerk of Lake County Circuit court; Frank R. Martin, Hammond, who will begin a second two year term as county treasurer; Dr. J. Robert Doty, Gary, now deputy coroner, who will become coroner for a two year term, and Joseph Klen, Munster, chosen county commissioner for 3 years.

Employers' Aid Ends Graft of 12,072 Reliefers

Coöperation of approximately 3,800 employers in the last seven years enabled the Chicago welfare administration to shut off relief to 12,072 persons who were revealed to be working while on aid rolls. George J. Klupar, welfare commissioner, reported yesterday. Relief for this number of persons for one month would have cost $362,160, Klupar estimated.

MOVE TO ENTER MACARTHUR IN STATE PRIMARY

The first formal step to enter the name of Gen. Douglas MacArthur in the Illinois Presidential preference primary was taken yesterday by the Gen. Douglas MacArthur for President club.

Announcement was made that petitions to have MacArthur's name printed on the Republican ballot for the primary next April 11 were being mailed to Republican county chairmen and officials, precinct committeemen, and others for circulation among Republican voters thruout the state. When sufficient signatures have been gathered, Joseph P. Savage, president of the club, said the petitions will be filed with the secretary of state.

Propose to Draft Him.

Gen. MacArthur's home address is given in the petition as the Plankinton hotel, Milwaukee, Wis., the address from which the club says the general is registered.

In a letter transmitting the petitions to Republican party officials, Savage said:

"We have not consulted with Gen. MacArthur, either directly or indirectly, nor do we propose to do so. The club is founded on the principle that it is the inalienable right of the American people to draft any citizen for service to his country, and particularly in a time of peril. The first President, Gen. George Washington, was drafted. We propose to draft Gen. Douglas MacArthur as a candidate in the primaries for President of the United States."

Consent Isn't Required.

Under the Illinois law, the letter declared, petitions may be filed in the preferential primary for President without the consent of the candidate.

The "draft MacArthur" movement, the letter said, has now been organized in Missouri, Massachusetts, Ohio, West Virginia, Montana, Wisconsin, Minnesota, California, and Indiana. Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.], a leader in the MacArthur movement, was recently quoted as saying he believed the general would not refuse the Republican nomination.

SURE, VICTORY'S IN BAG! YOUR OLD PAPER ONES

Every Scrap Is Needed to Win the War.

BY RITA FITZPATRICK.

Chicago must take the waste out of waste paper!

With the new year, the city opens one of its most important war salvage campaigns, the collection of thousands of tons of waste paper urgently needed for the production of war and civilian material and for the shipment of ammunition and food to the fighting fronts.

This was announced yesterday by John R. Robinson, salvage campaign director for the Chicago Newspaper Publishers' association, which is spearheading the drive thruout the Chicago metropolitan area with the coöperation of the office of civilian defense and the public and parochial schools.

He Means Every Scrap!

Waste paper means every scrap of paper not in use, Robinson explained. It means newspapers, magazines, cardboard boxes, correspondence, house organs, and advertisments. Waste paper that is contributed eventually means containers for ammunition, army rations, and blood plasma; important parts of bomb fins, parachute flares, cartridge paper, fuses, gas mask canisters, helmets, and targets.

This Chicago campaign is part of a nation-wide drive to salvage 2 million additional tons of waste paper necessary to meet the demand of paper mills thruout the country. "Save a Bundle a Week and Save Some Boy's Life" is the national slogan.

Housewives, school children, fraternal and civic organizations are asked to coöperate as an important contribution to the war. Altho Chicago is the waste paper center of the nation, producing 1,500 tons of waste paper daily, its task is to increase the output by 800 to 1,000 tons per day.

Paper mills thruout the country must run at full production 24 hours a day, seven days a week, to meet war time demands. At present 25 mills are shut down and 100 are working on a part time basis.

Here's What Waste Makes.

The salvaging of scrap paper takes on significance when it is realized that 100 pounds can fill any one of the following orders: 200 containers for blood plasma to be shipped overseas, 650 cartons for army ration K, 1,470 emergency boxes for lifeboat rations, 50 containers for 75 millimeter shells, or 2,128 cartons each made to hold 15 50-millimeter bullets.

One hundred pounds of waste paper is a bundle as high as a housewife's broom.

The Chicago campaign will be divided into three parts, Robinson said. The first operation will be a curb side pickup Jan. 15 of waste paper thruout the city's 50 wards by 1,500 city, army, and private trucks. Housewives will not be paid for their scrap in the curb side pickup, because proceeds will be given to the city's service men's centers.

School Collection Next.

On Jan. 17, a collection will be made from 569 public and parochial schools thruout the city. Each school will conduct its own drive and funds from the sale of the scrap will go into each school's coffers. It is expected that the curb side collections will be monthly and the school collections every two weeks.

The third division of the drive will concentrate on large apartment and business buildings under the direction of the Flat Janitors' union. Because of the large quantities of paper expected to be salvaged, the janitors will sell directly to dealers.

Plans for the drive will be outlined to six divisional office of civilian defense chairmen and 14 of their assistants this afternoon at a meeting called by William L. McFetridge, salvage director for the Chicago metropolitan area; Walter Roy, assistant director of the OCD, and Robinson. The meeting will be held in OCD headquarters at 23 North Wacker drive.

A house to house canvas by 16,784 block captains thruout the city will be planned.

HERE'S HOW TO PACK WASTE PAPER JAN. 15 FOR PICKUP AT CURB

In preparation for Chicago's first curb-side collection of waste paper on Jan. 15, housewives are requested to divide all scrap paper into separate bundles of newspapers and paper sacks, magazines, cardboard boxes, and wastebasket paper. Each bundle should be 12 inches high and tied securely in criss-cross fashion. Cardboard boxes should be flattened and wastbasket paper may be packed in boxes or sacks. Magazines and book bundles may be 18 inches high.

The same instructions apply to bundles of paper to be carried to public and parochial schools by pupils for collection on Jan. 17.

SUIT TO COLLECT $782,000 TUNNEL TAXES PLANNED

County Treasurer Victor L. Schlaeger announced yesterday that he would soon file a Skarda receivership suit to collect back taxes of $782,000 levied against the Chicago Tunnel company. The years involved are 1929 to 1942.

The tunnel system, which is mainly under the loop, carries a considerable amount of coal and other freight to large buildings. It has been in operation for many years and cost millions of dollars, on which the owners have had little or no return.

Under the Skarda law the treasurer establishes a receiver to collect receipts from the property and retain for taxes all except necessary operating expense.

NEWSPRINT CUT BY WPB DESPITE BIGGER SUPPLY

Government Needs to Get Priority.

New York, Dec. 29 (AP).—Newspapers all over the United States will be slimmer after this week as a result of a war production board decision today to withhold from them part of the newsprint paper which Canada has offered to supply for the printing of vital war and domestic news.

Canadian paper mills supplied 210,000 tons of newsprint monthly during 1943. In early fall they figured prospects were for 182,000 tons monthly in 1944, but last week reported an improved wood supply and offered to furnish 200,000 tons. The WPB, however, issued a curtailment order holding to the 182,000 ton figure.

Harold Boeschenstein, WPB forest products bureau chief, asserted in Washington today the new restrictions on newsprint use must go into effect Jan. 1.

Order "Definite and Final."

"There is no possibility that the graduated scale restrictions on the use of newsprint in the first quarter of 1944 can be relaxed or the effective date of the first quarter order postponed," Boeschenstein said.

"That is definite and final."

His statement was in answer to an inquiry as to the possibility WPB might decide now whether the changed Canadian situation affected its position.

"Recent additional, unexpected, and very large strategic requirements for nonnewsprint paper by the army and navy dictate the absolute necessity for maintaining the restrictions on newsprint," Boeschenstein explained. "Vital paper for use in military operations must be made available. It cannot be furnished by easing newsprint restrictions."

Different Type Required.

In Montreal, Canadians said last week that war requirements are for paper made of chemical pulp, while newsprint is made of groundwood pulp. Canada's paper industry, chiefly a producer of the newsprint type pulp, contends its chemical pulp facilities are incapable of furnishing the quantities of chemical pulp asked.

Canadians also hold that part of the reason back of the WPB decision to enforce a 23.6 per cent curtailment is the fact that chemical pulp is a necessary material in the manufacture of magazine paper and that since magazines thus would have to be curtailed, newspapers must share an equal burden, even tho the newsprint situation is different.

"Our over-all pulp and paper situation is desperate," Boeschenstein's statement today said.

"For example, Canada furnished us 1,600,000 cords of pulpwood for nonnewsprint paper manufacturers in 1943. Canada's commitments for 1944 called for furnishing us 1,250,000 cords of pulpwood. Now we are informed that it may be impossible to supply even that reduced total, altho Canadian newsprint exports of 182,000 tons monthly may be increased.

Outlook Held Dark.

"The Canadian newsprint export commitment was based on an estimated Canadian pulpwood cut of 6,500,000 tons of pulp [pulpwood] for conversion by Canadian plants.

"Our most recent advices indicate that the pulp available may not exceed 6,200,000 tons. These figures permit no optimism about the paper outlook.

"Let me reiterate that any relaxation of the restrictions on the use of newsprint in the first quarter of 1944 is impossible, in view of our known military requirements and the probable reduction in the pulpwood Canada will export to us."

Ethiopia Buys a House for Washington Legation

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29 (AP).—Ethiopia, first invaded nation wrested from the axis, has bought a legation in Washington for its minister, Blatta Ephrem Tewelde Medhen, who presented his credentials Nov. 9. Located at 2134 Kalorama road, near the former embassy of France and the legation of Thailand, it belonged to Frederick Sterling, former United States minister to Sweden. Fifty-three nations now have accredited representatives to the United States.

G. O. P. ASPIRANTS PRESENT CLAIMS TO COUNTY JOBS

DempseyHeadsGroup Scanning Prospects.

Twelve Republican Cook county central committee members yesterday began to interview aspirants for county offices, with the promise that all of next week at least will be devoted to this preliminary to making up a slate for indorsement by the regular organization.

Chairman John T. Dempsey of the subcommittee on candidates said that the hearings on qualifications and backers will be thoro. This group will call in some potential candidates on its own initiative, he said.

Aspirants Seek Various Offices.

Those who appeared yesterday, their wards, and the offices sought were: Arnold L. Lund of Riverside, state's attorney; Dr. Harry E. L. Timm, 10th ward committeeman, coroner; Alfred O'Connor, 10th ward, Superior court clerk; Michael Rudnik, 41st ward, sanitary district trustee; Henry Perlman, 41st ward, Municipal court judge.

Also Arthur B. Dehmlow, 46th ward, sanitary district trustee; John Filpi, 46th ward, Municipal court judge; George M. Schatz, 5th ward, Municipal court judge; W. J. Roehler, 17th ward, recorder of deeds; Anthony Olis, 7th ward, sanitary district trustee.

The subcommittee to sift aspirants is made up of two committeemen from each area: North, northwest, south, southwest, west, and country townships.

Just before Monday's meeting, Chairman Dempsey and downstate county leaders will receive from State Treasurer William G. Stratton his decision on their request that he pull out of the race for secretary of state and run for Supreme court clerk.

Slate 1944 Delegate Candidates.

Republicans are moving swiftly to slate candidates for delegates to the 1944 national convention.

At a 3d congressional district meeting, the organization spokesmen agreed upon William H. Reid, 16th ward committeeman, and County Commissioner John Mackler of Chicago Heights.

Petitions have been printed for the candidacies of James S. Kemper and Henry Pope Jr., both business men, in the 10th district. Edward L. Ryerson, steel manufacturer, is almost certain to be a candidate in the 9th district, where the question of whether State Auditor Arthur C. Lueder will be a delegate at large is holding up decisions; a meeting of ward leaders will be held Tuesday night. The 2d district will meet Jan. 9 to discuss delegates.

ONLY TWO DAYS REMAIN TO USE 'BONUS' POINTS

Only two days remain in which consumers may utilize the five point pork "bonus" authorized by the OPA, Alex Elson, acting regional administrator, said. Spare stamp 1 in book 4 will be honored until midnight tomorrow for any cut of fresh or cured pork.

Retail dealers must file their applications for ration tokens by Jan. 8. The tokens will be put into use Feb. 27 as change for both meat and processed food coupons.

Held Under $5,000 Bond on White Slave Charge

Accused by federal bureau of investigation agents of illegally transporting young women from Gary, Ind., to Benton Harbor, Mich., and from Benton Harbor to South Bend, Ind., Eugene Sullivan, 33 years old, was held in Hammond last night under $5,000 bond, pending a hearing on a Mann act charge. A 27 year old Gary woman was held as a material witness.

MR. ROOSEVELT TRIES TO BURY HIS PAST.

Mr. Roosevelt used a lot of words and an allegory or two to explain to the Washington reporters why his administration no longer desires to be known as the New Deal. He didn't give the real reason, but he didn't have to. It was known to all those present, including, of course, Mr. Roosevelt himself.

The truth, revealed in all the recent elections, is that Mr. Roosevelt has lost his hold on the American people. He has read the returns and they tell him that the people want no more of him in the White House. Mr. Roosevelt knows there is no more magic in his slogans; on the contrary, they have become liabilities and accordingly he is tossing them into the alley and hoping to get some new ones that may serve him as well.

Mr. Roosevelt is a talented rabble rouser, but the following he has lost appears to be lost for keeps. The turn was clearly marked in 1940 and the tide against him has been rising steadily and rapidly ever since. Today he is a minority President, seeking solace in the society of his royal and dictatorial friends and angling for international political office with billions of lend-lease money and millions of American lives as bait. He was twice reelected to the Presidency with the money of the American taxpayers; he is now using the same technique on a world-wide scale.

That won't win back the American voters who have turned against him by millions. Citizens who have new money to fold in their pocketbooks do not receive it as a part of the social gains. Citizens who are not getting their share object to the dictates of the New Deal. Many of its proteges and favorites complain that it is cheating them out of what they might get if they were free to operate in a system of private enterprise and freely cash in their goods and services. These are new conditions for the political prestidigitator with his hat and rabbits.

Mr. Roosevelt knows a dead horse when he sees one. The New Deal is that nag. If the third termer is to try for a fourth term he must have a new mount. He switches to the war horse. He endeavors to make out that the New Deal had an honorable and useful career, saving the country from its internal ills until war economy came along to boost the national income and restore prosperity. In fact, Mr. Roosevelt's economic planning is something to remember with a shudder. He introduced executive order as a substitute for law. He substituted deficit financing and national debt for private investment and expansion.

Class antagonisms in the Marxist fashion were stimulated to discourage private enterprise and oppressive measures were introduced to intimidate private management and adventure capital. Special groups in agriculture and labor were subsidized or favored. The depression was fixed upon the country as a national institution and natural powers of recovery were strangled by repression. It is a habit of arbitrary and dictatorial government to seek foreign distractions and complications when internal affairs are mismanaged to the great injury of the people. Mr. Roosevelt went abroad.

Private industry converted to war uses and the drafting of ten million men for service restored the pay rolls and employment. Mr. Roosevelt now says that the New Deal is no longer needed and was not designed to meet the new requirements. He can't drop the record in that fashion. He cannot give an honorable discharge to a swindling fraud which served only the purposes of personal ambition and a willful nature. The New Deal remains as the measure of Mr. Roosevelt's purposes, intelligence, good faith, and administrative integrity. If he were not afraid of the New Deal and of his record there was no need to bury his past at the end of 1943 in order to enter 1944 as another character.

The things that glitter on the world horizon for a fourth termer are passionately desired by the man who has the third term. A forced retirement to private life would be agonizing. Mr. Churchill and Mr. Stalin seem to be assured of their places in the great acts to come. Mr. Roosevelt fears that he may be left out. To avoid that he would use any device.

The Democrats no doubt would like to find another candidate, but they are so confused and corrupted that they cannot think of anybody else. They may have hoped for a time that the effort to maneuver the Republicans into adopting the same plank on foreign relations that the Democrats will adopt at their convention would save the day, but the Republicans have shown no disposition to fall into the trap.

Mr. Roosevelt is thru and he knows it. There the matter stands. The Republicans have victory in their grasp. All they need do is to make sure that their party at its forthcoming convention does not again fall victim to the manipulations of Wall street and British imperial interests.

HICKENLOOPER SHOWS THE WAY.

Gov. Bourke B. Hickenlooper has called a special session of the Iowa legislature for Jan. 26 to pass legislation which will permit Iowa soldiers to vote. The promptness with which he acted is a tribute to his ability as an executive, and the voters of his state, as well as the Republican party which chose him as its leader, have a right to be proud of him.

Iowa has an absent voter law. The principal problems of the assembly will be to advance the deadline for candidacies and make a few other adjustments which will make it possible to have the ballots for the 1944 Presidential election printed, distributed to soldiers overseas and in domestic camps, marked, and collected in time to be tallied with the regular vote.

The problem is equally simple in a good many other states, but they, as well as the states where more extensive legislative action is necessary, would do well to follow Gov. Hickenlooper's lead and get the work done right now.

Iowa soldiers are going to be able to vote in 1944, and they are not likely to forget that Gov. Hickenlooper and the Republican party extended that privilege to them. They will be fighting and living alongside men from other states, and if those men are not so fortunate they are going to ask a lot of embarrassing questions when they return home.

CITY HALL PAY INCREASES.

The city council finance committee has voted pay increases totaling $2,795,988 for some 15,000 city employes. The increases, a maximum of $200 a year, will be given to employes getting less than $3,000 a year, except for the aldermen themselves, who are cutting a $32,340 cake in the form of allowances for running their automobiles.

Taxpayers will begrudge the pay increases less than they will the fact that the money to meet them is being raised by increasing the city's spending. Many of the city offices are so overstaffed, for political reasons, that adequate increases could be paid from salvage, merely by allowing war time vacancies to go unfilled. That would satisfy the employes, but not the Democratic ward committeemen.

To meet the pay roll increases—and their own gasoline bills—the aldermen plan to place more than $2,000,000 in new imposts on the taxpayers of the city. The fact that the increase does not appear in the general property tax bills does not alter the fact that it is an additional burden on every citizen of Chicago.

The new revenue comes in the form of new and increased fees and licenses on business. The hoary fiction that business licenses are paid by the businesses from which they are collected, rather than by the customers of those businesses, has no more weight than the theory that a tenant pays no real estate taxes because the tax bill goes to his landlord. The more the owner of an enterprise has to pay the city for the right to sell his merchandise or service the more he has to charge.

Except for a few special instances, principally saloons and places of entertainment which require special police and fire protection, there is no more justice in requiring a man to pay a license to do business in Chicago than there is in requiring every citizen to buy a license to live in Chicago. His business gets no general municipal services that he does not pay for in general property taxes. He is subject to various health, fire, and building inspections, but the cost of those inspections is easily determined and the inspection fees should be held to that cost and not treated as a source of general revenue, as they now are.

The city operates under a pegged tax levy, but it is less dependent upon general property taxes than any other local government. The city administration pretends that it is holding down taxes because its pegged levy is not increased. That is untrue. It is constantly adding to the cost of government by its increases in fees and licenses.

TEACHING THE ARMY COMMUNISM.

Cornell university fired a Communist propagandist who was revealed to be teaching Russian history to a group of soldiers in its army special training unit, and promptly hired for the job another Communist whose propaganda activities are said to overshadow those of his predecessor.

This could have been expected. Communist agents have a way of popping up to succeed each other in public jobs where they can serve the party front. Also, under the New Deal, they seldom stay fired. They leave one government pay roll to appear promptly on another.

Anyway, why is our army giving some of its men training in Russian history? Certainly, our high command doesn't expect to have an American army occupying Russia. If these soldiers are being schooled to take part in a purported joint occupation of Germany they would be better occupied in studying the history of that country, with perhaps a course in conversational Russian to help them talk things over with their Russian colleagues.

Russian history, taught by a Communist, probably means an indoctrination in Communist dogma. If our soldiers are required to submit to it under army discipline it is time that congress took a look at the curriculum of the army's specialized training program.

THE GIRL SCOUTS' DOLL SHOW FIASCO.

[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

An annual event eagerly awaited by the 9,000 Girl Scouts of this area is the doll show. It is the custom of the members to buy dolls each year, make clothes for them, then hold a mass exhibition before turning them over to agencies for distribution among underprivileged children. But, unless certain grown-ups have a change of heart, there will be no doll show this year.

It was to have been a bigger and better occasion than ever before this time—so big that only the convention hall at Kiel auditorium could hold it. Auditorium authorities agreed to waive the rent. But then the musicians' union stepped in. Under the terms of its contract with the auditorium, providing for the presence of 20 union members at every musical event held there, it vetoed the plan for music by a high school band. The Girl Scouts' treasury can't afford an outlay for 20 professional musicians.

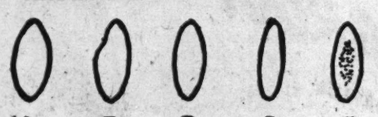
For the union to try to make jobs for its members at commercial events is one thing, but to insist on the letter of its grasping regulations where a charitable, educational, recreational event for children is concerned is quite another. It is, in fact, petty, mean, contemptible, and a new low even for J. Caesar Petrillo's rough shod policies.

Test Your Horse Sense

By Dr. George W. Crane

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 11.

1. Which state touches only one other state in the United States of America?
   Florida Delaware Maine Rhode Island
2. A "squeeze play" should make one think of which sport?
   Baseball Football Tennis Golf
3. The mastoid bone is in which part of the human body?
   Leg Pelvis Head Spinal Column
4. Which one of the following birds is the largest? Quail Crow Dove Robin
5. Which one of these organs of the body will float in water?
   Liver Heart Kidney Lung
6. Emerson called the eye the window of the soul, but the lens can grow milky and thus becloud vision or fail to focus images properly on the retina. You deserve one point for each correct identification of the lenses pictured herewith.



— Astigmatism; —Normal lens; —Cataract; —Nearsighted; — Farsighted.

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

FORTY YEARS AGO.

Today marks the 40th anniversary of the Iroquois theater fire, a civic catastrophe of the first magnitude whose horrors the editor of this column witnessed and helped to report. What was Chicago doing before the doom of fiery vapor swept across a matinee audience of holiday-makers? The theater's program provides many sidelights in its advertising matter.

Winter vacations in California must have been in the public mind, for two railroad systems were ringing bells about this form of recreation in full-page displays. The Santa Fe spoke of the luxuries in its buffet-smoking cars; the Rock Island had a drawing of a plump young fisherwoman in a boat, with the slogan: "Any one can catch fish in California." Not a word, of course, about unborn Hollywood.

The Kaiserhof [now the Atlantic] announced the merits of its new German restaurant, and Becker and Jackson thought well of their Ceylon café, at Lake street and Wabash avenue. The College inn, then in its early childhood, waved the flag for 30 seats of learning, with the University of Chicago and Cornell, alma maters of Gene and Ernest Byfield, sons of the management, in places of honor.

Samuel Eberly Gross, realtor and author of "The Merchant Prince of Cornville," offered to sell two-and-a-half story houses on Ellis and Greenwood avenues, between 52d and 53d streets, for $7,000-$8,500. [Small cash payment; $50 a month thereafter.] He printed two tempting pictures of these domiciles, which are probably still in use.

* * *

Overcoats of almost ankle length were worn with iron hats, according to information from Mossler & Co., who sold them for $15-$35. They were in three styles: The Du Barry or skirt coat, the Maxim or swagger coat, and the Surtout or flare coat.

* * *

The Iroquois theater boasted that it was "absolutely fireproof." The scale of ticket prices was from $1.50 to 50 cents. . . . The Illinois theater was giving "Ulysses," a drama in blank verse by Stephen Phillips; Powers' had W. H. Crane in a comedy called "The Spenders."

HOLIDAY VISIT TO GRANDSON.

(M'Tavish III.; born Nov. 19, 1943.)

The season's compliments, wee tad!
Richt frae the heart I greet ye.
Ye are a braw, a bonny lad—
Mon, am I glad tae meet ye!
I thought tae see in mither's lap
A baby like a doll;
But here I find a lusty chap
Wi' oodles on the ball.
The future, be it fair or dark,
Whatever fate may make it,
Wi' what's behind its question mark—
Ye look like ye can take it.
"I think that a more wondrous child
Ne'er graced a parent's knee,"
Opines yer sweet young mither, Jean—
And I agree. M'Tavish.

Trans-Atlantic English.

Letters from American soldiers in England may require translation at home, so here is a glossary of the common talk they are hearing over there:

A streetcar is a tram; a truck is a lorry; a radio is a wireless set; the top of an auto is a hood; our hood is the bonnet; fenders are wings; a wrench is a spanner, gasoline is petrol, garters are sock suspenders, suspenders are braces.

You queue up to stand in line; you book a theater seat; you go to the cinema to see the movies; you buy drugs at the chemist's, hardware from the ironmonger, dry goods from the draper, a newspaper at the kiosk; you mail a letter at the pillar box. A dime store is a bazaar; chain stores are multiple shops; checks are drafts; conductors are guards, and a legal holiday is a bank holiday. Arthur W. O'Neill.

HOLIDAY TROUBLE.

I'm dizzy of dome,
A taxi I call,
We step on the gas,
And homeward I'm swirled;
I enter my home,
I stumble and fall,
And waken my lass;
All's wrong with the world!
W. L. Hudson.

Farewell to Frank.

[Lt. Frank Handy Ward, marine corps.]

And now you are one with that stout host of winged men in God's great Ready Room, one with fearless souls who rode into the infinite and whose brothers will ride on and on until the rampant hordes of evil are smashed into gloryless oblivion.

How rich you were with the stuff of which all men are proud!

"Did I serve my mandate well?" you ask.

You gave to the last measure, did you not? You knew the odds and you took them; high in the heavens, a dot in the universe, tipping wings with eagles, calmly, coolly, you rode with the Dark Angel, unafraid.

"It's a job that's got to be done, Pop," you said.

You did it to the hilt. You lived quickly, fully; a lad in years, yet a man in every throb of your great, leonine heart.

Behind you a wealth of sacred memories, wealth for all who knew and loved you, wealth ever to be cherished.

Vale, Frank! Jake Irmiter.

PAINFUL FEET.

WALKING is our best form of exercise. It employs numerous muscles and—when unhurried—places no strain upon the heart. But we cannot stroll at ease unless we have feet that are symptomless. While there are very few perfect "tootsies" they will perform without pain if they have not been punished unduly with badly fitting shoes or overstrain.

Some of our difficulties arise because we tread upon hard concrete pavements, and the rubber heel has proved a boon to many. Bare feet offer a natural condition for travel along "dirt" pathways. Moccasins which merely protect the soles from rough ground are preferred by our Indian tribes.

Instead, we rely upon expert manufacturers to preserve one of our most important functions—the ability to get about. Trouble comes, however, because of our slavish adherence to style. In women particularly, the sharp angle created by stiltlike spikes forces a strong thrust upon the metatarsal arch. This is wholly unnatural and may derange posture.

If you want to check your extremities, stand barefooted and observe the parts critically. Are the toes in the same position as when you are seated? Is there spreading? When the structure is at rest we can inspect for corns, calluses, deviation of the toes to the right, or depression of the little toe. All such abnormalities are signs of pressure. In addition, the tendon which is attached to the heel may be swollen and thickened. In fact, the bone in this region may be unusually wide. Finally, we can investigate the circulation. Can the beat of the artery near the ankle be felt?

Much information can be gained by checking a shoe that has been used for some time. Is it scuffed at the tip? Does the heel show wear on the inner side? Has the leather over the great toe become thin? When the metatarsal bones are too low, the middle region will soon wear thru. If the toes are bent upward the front end of the shoe will follow suit.

Our job is to make certain first of all that the foot covering gives no sense of constriction. Sometimes the services of a skilled orthopedic expert will be required to arrange the necessary adjustments. Arch supports are valuable. So are leather, felt, and sponge rubber pads. But these must be placed in exactly the correct position if they are to relieve strain. Remember that the "dogs" are individual and no universal device will do. It may make a bad matter worse.

Only after comfort has been secured can we consider exercise. The following procedure is helpful: With the toes flexed, bend the extremity downward as far as possible. Then tilt it backward at the ankle and turn it inward. Hold this position for a moment, relax, and repeat. If this can be practiced several times morning and evening, it will do more to restore balance than a score of complicated maneuvers.

The hose should absorb moisture readily and, during cold weather, wool may be worn over thin cotton socks. Those who are obliged to stand much of the time should utilize every opportunity for short rest periods. Furthermore, their footgear should be substantial. A cork or composition floor has many advantages.

EYE RESPONSE.

J. C. writes: What makes a person's eyes watery when his heart starts to beat fast?

REPLY.

A sympathetic nervous reaction which contracts the tear sac. Nothing to cry about.

SAGGING CHIN.

W. T. writes: Is there any remedy for a double chin?

REPLY.

Diet, exercise, massage, or a strap. Sagging muscles are responsible.

CHEMICAL REACTION.

Mrs. S. writes: What causes the odor of ammonia in the diapers?

REPLY.

Decomposition of the urine. The chemical — urea — undergoes fermentation.

TYPE OF NERVE.

F. R. writes: What are peripheral nerves?

REPLY.

Those which connect with, but are outside the central nervous system. They include the cranial and spinal nerves. For example, their fibers may respond to inflammation—neuritis.

STERILIZING NEEDLE.

Mrs. J. B. writes: I burned the tip of a needle over the flame before using it to remove a splinter. My husband tells me this is all wrong—that I should boil it. Who is right?

REPLY.

Boil it for 20 minutes and be sure.

Post-War Planning.

A neat cravat, with butterflies
All golden under summer skies,
I'll buy [when happy peace returns]
With money that my money earns—
[Invested in free enterprise.]

A lot of other merchandise
I'll purchase, too, but, I surmise,
The first will be — my fancy yearns!—
A neat cravat.

Let Jap and German realize
Their destiny is otherwise.
For them our prophecy discerns

The Faith That Moves Mountains.

[From Illinois Sunflower:]

"I have a little cleaning woman, Cecilia, who has a large and beautiful faith in her Lord. One day we were discussing one of our home town boys who won't be home again. Suddenly she spoke up, 'Well, if only the boys' mothers would pray for them, they would all be back safe and sound.' Startled, I asked her if she thought that prayer was really all it would take. 'Why, of course it is,' she said. 'Didn't your boy get home safe and isn't my boy safe and didn't the Lord bring back our minister's son when he was shipwrecked, and didn't we all pray they would get back?' And she went on to name several others who had come safely home from combat zones. Well, I got to thinking about it. They did get home, and their mothers had prayed for them. And who was I to shake her faith that prayer was all it takes? Anyway, who knows, maybe she is right, and we are wrong. Maybe a little less of this 'We can take it' cheerfulness and a little more confidence in the Above just might do the work. . . ."

Our Kittens.

Pinky came to our house one day
Dad said yes she could stay.
And our hired man named Fred
Found four kittens in the shed.
Tabby, Rastus, Tom, and Jerry,
Three little boy cats and one little lady.
Two are yellow, two are gray.
You should watch them romp and play.
One slap here and one slap there.
I stand by to give them a cheer.
They catch mice and drink milk,
And their coats are soft as silk.
O, how I wish those kittens would stay;
But I know they will be big cats some day.

Permanent Impression.

From Conal Moriarity, an able bodied merchant seaman on an east coast tanker, who in his time at sea has seen many strange things, comes his tale of "the queerest of them all." A young Evanston sailor recently came aboard the tanker. He was obviously intelligent and of good family, and he has the current song favorite "Paper Doll" tattooed in Chinese across his chest with the title tattooed on his right forearm. Not only that, but he sings it fluently in Hawaiian. He says he grew to like it very much down in Honolulu a year ago. Mr. Moriarity agrees that it made a permanent impression.

More on Man Power.

The department stores are having a lot of trouble getting competent elevator operators right now. The other day a friend of Master in Chancery William J. Mannion got into an elevator operated by a new man who with the greatest difficulty could stop the car at all. When the fifth floor was reached, the car stopped several feet above it, as it had been stopping at all floors. The operator helped the passengers off and closed the gates. Then he paused, as if in deep thought, and asked, "Was I going up or down?"

WELL TREATED ORPHAN.

Urbana, Ill., Dec. 23.—"Orphan's" letter concerning the A. S. T. P. is neither fair to the army nor the University of Illinois, which has given everything it has to make the program successful.

Consultation with the military staff stationed at the university will determine the following facts:

1. Canteens for A. S. T. P. units are forbidden by war department order. This is no hardship. Canteens are provided for men at regular army posts because they have no other place to buy things as do the men here.
2. The Illinois A. S. T. P. men have been paid on time without exception and special pay rolls, not required by regulations, have frequently been made so that the men would get their pay.
3. They have available for their services several doctors on the university's health service staff provided normally for civilian student care.
4. While there is no special A. S. T. P. dentist, A. S. T. P. men may go to a general service hospital during the week between semesters for dental treatment.
5. Soldiers in line outfits do guard duty, kitchen police, and undergo many hardships with which an A. S. T. P. trainee is not even familiar. The government is spending a huge sum on their education which is certainly as much for the benefit of the trainee as for the government. Jos. F. WRIGHT.

UNION DEFERMENTS.

Corpus Christi, Tex., Dec. 21.—Our nation has been notified that 1 million fathers will be drafted within the next year. This means the sacrifice of disrupting and breaking up of just that many homes and families. American fathers will not falter and are eager to enter battle to preserve democracy and our freedoms, if necessary.

In the near past we witnessed the administration's deferment of one Joseph Curran, head of the National Maritime union. His numerous deferments have carried him past his 38th year, thereby making it impossible for him to be drafted. Now, the same proceedings are being instituted to free the vice president, Jack Lawrensen, from serving his nation. He undoubtedly will be accommodated!

One would wonder which is the most important to the future of our nation, the increasing powers of labor unions, or the American family.

E. DANIEL WILLIAMS.

MR. CHURCHILL'S "ESCAPADES."

Chicago, Dec. 21.—You deserve praise for today's editorial on Winston Churchill. A lot of us are thinking along the same lines but our expressions are not so effective. One cannot fail to admire the statesmanship and loyalty of Mr. Churchill. Some of his escapades with Mr. Roosevelt may seem incongruous with his great character, but any one knowing what has to be done in order to obtain Mr. Roosevelt's support can understand and condone those escapades. A. S. BARKER.

THE POLL HOAX.

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 24.—Some of Doc Gallup's alleged findings, with particular reference to the sentiment of the people of the south, are preposterous. Speaking of investigations, it seems to me that in the interest of straight thinking, an investigation of the Gallup poll is in order. R. L. O'CONNEL.

MURDER AND SAFETY STICKERS.

Chicago, Dec. 15.—Chicago—the place where you can murder and get off scot free, but heaven help you if you do not have a safety sticker. The fact that you are too busy to take time to go thru the safety lane does not make any difference. With the gas rationing you should drive to some remote spot and wait in line to get a sticker and take time away from a war job to do it. Suburbanites who use our streets do not have to contend with this silly law, but the poor taxpayer of Chicago is so simple that he allows the same bunch that frees murderers without even a reprimand to force him to go to court because he has not paid some safety lane employe for a sticker.

WEBSTER.

50-50.

Chicago, Dec. 26.—Let's wake up and demand that the invasion force be 50-50. If England must be guarded, all right; 25 per cent of our boys will be glad to stand by and guard it. If 75 per cent of the killed or wounded in that invasion are Americans, while our boys in the Pacific are being killed or returned broken in health, we are laying ourselves wide open to another war in which we will be the weak nation, a nation with its youth killed, injured, or sick.

MARGUERITE HUGHES WEIDNER.

WE HELPED, ANYWAY.

Rimouski, Que., Canada, Dec. 21.—A son of mine who is in the employ of the Ontario Paper company at Comeau Bay sent me, as a birthday present, a copy of the book, "The Chicago Tribune," by Philip Kinsley. Being a newspaper man and a student of American history, the book interested me immensely and I wish to tell you about it.

I learned that it was THE TRIBUNE that made known Abraham Lincoln and that was chiefly instrumental in having him elected. It is a great deed to the credit of a paper.

Had THE TRIBUNE done nothing else than bring out from obscurity the finest, the noblest, and the greatest figure of American history, it would be sufficient to endear it in the heart of the nation. J. B. COTE.

CORNELL TO KEEP RED PROFESSOR TEACHING YANKS

We Will Watch Kunitz, Says Dr. Day.

New York, Dec. 29 [Special].—Cornell university will keep Dr. Joshua Kunitz, former New Masses editor, who has been active in American Communist party movements for more than a decade, as the Russian history instructor of its army's special training program, Dr. Edmund Ezra Day, president of the university, said today.

Dr. Day made this statement after an army spokesman in Washington declared the war department placed full responsibility on Cornell for the hiring of Dr. Kunitz.

At the same time, he said the army has had its Russian program "under continuous inspection" and the university is likewise keeping Dr. Kunitz's teaching "under continuous inspection."

Advanced Material.

"We got Dr. Kunitz to put all the material in his courses in writing," Dr. Day added, "and that is open to inspection."

Dr. Kunitz replaced Vladimir D. Kazakevich, who was dropped early this month after the disclosure that he, too, had been an active American Communist propagandist for years and had been accused of injecting propaganda in his Cornell army lectures.

"In our opinion," Dr. Day said, "Mr. Kazakevich occasionally slipped over the line, and in one lecture he went over the limits without question."

Dr. Day, however, defended Mr. Kazakevich as an ASTP lecturer, stating he "was always in the company of people who checked back on him." Cornell would have continued Mr. Kazakevich on its staff had the latter agreed to give up outside activities, according to Dr. Day, who added that Kazakevich has since signed up for the same service on the Harvard army program. Altho this was announced originally at Cornell, both Harvard university and Mr. Kazakevich have denied it.

Cornell Dilemma.

"The university is in a very serious dilemma," the Cornell president explained. "We have scoured the country for men equipped to train these army men to move around effectively in Russia, if they ever get there.

"That means the teacher must have a pretty broad understanding of what the soviet regime is. Very few Americans know anything about the subject. The others fall in two groups: White Russians and Red Russians. The latter are those who have exhibited some sympathy to the soviet regime.

"Some of the commotion here," he added, "arose over the fact we've got a couple of White Russians on the staff who were driven out of Russia before the revolution and are bitter about it."

No In-Between Group.

He was asked if there is no in-between group, and if it is impossible to find an instructor without a long record as a Communist propagandist in this country.

"I wish you could find one for us," he replied.

Dr. Day said he talked yesterday with the commanding officer of the 2d service command and asked that "The army make a complete survey of the teaching here," as a protection to the university.

Stating that Cornell gave the ASTP courses "purely as a service to the United States army," he said, Dr. Kunitz had traveled extensively in Russia and had a good reputation as a writer.

He also insisted Dr. Kunitz "is not a member of the Communist party," altho it was pointed out that the latter has frequently been called a party member in the past and has been closely associated with many key Communist organizations.

Patriots Buy Nine Jeeps, 41 Ambulances for Army

Gifts of money for army equipment from patriotic groups in Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin totaled $72,118 in 1943, Maj. Gen. H. S. Aurand of the 6th service command announced yesterday. Ambulances were the most popular of the items purchased, he said, funds being earmarked for 41. Other purchases included nine jeeps and one weapons carrier.

VERMONT FOLKS SOUND 'ALARM' TO SAVE HOMES

Charge U.S. Dam Will Flood Valley.

Brattleboro, Vt., Dec. 29 [Special].—Freemen, Inc., an organization of West river valley residents fighting a proposed federal dam at Williamsville, today broadcast to other Vermont communities and "lovers of freedom" an "alarm and an appeal . . . to save the homes and to maintain the sovereignty of Vermont against invasion by federal burocracy."

The Freemen launched their fight last October with a series of meetings in the valley. Few of them are men of means. They have raised only $180 to date among themselves, but have enlisted the aid of Gov. William H. Wills. He has obtained $10,000 from the state emergency board to help in the fight.

The Freemen maintain that if the dam is built it will destroy "wholly or in part" the villages of West Dummerston, Williamsville, Brookline, Newfane, Harmonyville, Townshend, and West Townshend; that "taxable land will be immersed, stretches of highway will disappear, local industries will be wiped out, cemeteries flooded, farms abolished, and hundreds of persons will be driven from their homes."

A Dishonest Name.

Spokesmen for the group say the project is dishonestly named, that its prime purpose is not flood control but power production; that "it is an unnecessary and profligate extravagance" and that West river's watershed can be controled without sacrificing the 200 year old communities in the valley by construction of small dams and retaining basins on West river tributaries.

"The projected drowning of West river valley is a test case of burocracy's strength, a foot thrust in the doorway," said the Freemen's printed challenge. "If it can be made to happen here, similar rapes of Vermont and 47 other states will follow.

"This is the cause Freemen defend. We urge other Vermont communities, we invite all who cherish Vermont and who love freedom to join us in our battle against a nation-wide danger whose shadow now lies darkest over a fair valley and the peaceful folk who dwell there."

Charge Legislative Trick.

The Freemen contend that thru "a legislative trick," an amendment passed during the last hours of the fight over the flood control bill in 1938, "permits the national administration to seize at will the homes and properties of Americans everywhere," and that "the presence in West Dummerston, without state sanction, of a growing host of dam builders is as cynically brutal as an armed invasion."

No actual dam construction has started. Army engineers still are surveying and taking borings, but the Freemen feel they must start their fight before actual construction gets underway.

Lt. Col. E. W. Garbisch, commanding officer of the Providence [R. I.] district United States army engineers, within whose jurisdiction the proposed dam comes, said today that he was aware of the Freemen's movement.

"In recent years," he said, "the Connecticut river valley has suffered from three tremendous floods, with a grand total loss of $144,334,000. To date this is one of the few basins of comparable size in the United States to be without adequate flood protection."

The proposed Williamsville reservoir, he said, would be the key in any Connecticut river valley flood control plan. The dam, it was understood would cost around 30 million dollars.

WEARS UNIFORM ILLEGALLY; GETS 18 MONTH TERM

Eugene E. Brazil, 18 years old, 4457 Oakenwald avenue, was sentenced to 18 months in the national training school by Judge Philip L. Sullivan of federal District court, yesterday on a charge of illegally wearing a navy uniform. When previously arraigned on Nov. 22, he charged that fellow inmates in the county jail, where he had been held, had stolen his uniform. He was told to return to court Dec. 17, pending investigation of his charge. He failed to appear on that date, and Edward J. Bradley Jr., assistant United States attorney, asserted that Brazil told government men that he was "too busy" to go to court. Moreover, Bradley said, Brazil's charge against the jail was not true.

4 POINT PROGRAM CHARTED TO AID UNWED MOTHERS

The number of unwed mothers in the Chicago area has increased 20 per cent this year over 1942. With this disclosure, United Charities of Chicago, under the leadership of Joel D. Hunter, general superintendent, has announced a four point program to be started Jan. 1 to provide skilled, confidential service to unmarried mothers.

Beginning Saturday, any unwed mother-to-be is invited to ask Mrs. Frances Higgins at United Charities headquarters, 330 South Wells street, for confidential aid and advice.

The program is to be based upon recommendations of the Council of Social Agencies and implemented by a $50,000 grant from the Community and War fund.

Veteran of 25 Air Raids Finally Downed by Cupid

Tech. Sergt. Richard C. Fortunak, 23 year old veteran of 25 missions as a Fortress gunner over Europe, has returned to his home at 1260 West 17th street, Gary, Ind., for what he terms the most important mission of all: marrying his childhood sweetheart. She is Miss Frances Kisylia, 20, of 1156 Fillmore avenue, Gary. The wedding is scheduled for Monday morning in St. Anthony's church in Gary.

DIRECTOR TELLS SOCIAL HYGIENE LEAGUE'S WORK

In its first year of affiliation with the Northwestern university medical school, the Illinois Social Hygiene league sponsored 101 lectures on venereal disease control before audiences totaling 6,237 persons, Dr. Louis E. Schmidt, director of the league, announced yesterday. Dr. Schmidt said the league also exhibited 23 educational films, conducted 27 weeks of special training courses for nurses and 45 conferences before civic groups, and distributed 3,509 pamphlets during 1943.

Dr. Bertha E. Shafer, director of the clinic, said the clinic made 38,226 examinations of patients during 1943 and that 28,000 of them contributed 10 to 75 cents a treatment, while the others received treatments free of charge. Seventy-five per cent of those with gonorrhea were cured and discharged, she said.

Mrs. Martha E. Parker, in charge of the department of epidemiology of the clinic, said the most alarming symptom of wartime conditions the clinic has noted is that the number of homosexual patients between 13 and 18 years old has quadrupled during the last six months.

Wife Asks Separation from Radio Announcer

Mrs. Evelyn Mulvihill McKee, 25 years old, yesterday filed suit in Circuit court against Robert L. McKee, 30, a radio announcer, for separate maintenance. Her petition charged that McKee earned $8,000 in 1942 and between $20,000 and $25,000 in 1943, but that he had given her and their daughter, Evelyn Terry, 3, only $100 since he deserted them Nov. 16. They were married in 1939.

'Courage Stout' . . . . . By William MacLeod Raine

(Copyright: 1943: By William MacLeod Raine)

SYNOPSIS: Austin Reynolds, cattleman, is accused of ambushing Stuart Lane. Jess Blackburn tries to incite the rustlers to violence, but Neal MacGowan, who plays a lone hand, averts trouble. Reynolds accuses Neal of being the leader of the cattle thieves. The Sheridan stage has been held up. Neal follows the tracks to the gap, talks to Dunn and Blackburn, whom he suspects of the murder. When Janet Lane is shot, Eleanor and Austin move her to their home. Neal, a United States marshal, searches for Blackburn. He tells Cad Clemson he suspects Blackburn of the murder of Lane and the shooting of Janet. Cad directs him to Blackburn, whom he is forced to shoot and self-defense. Eleanor's interest in Neal grows. After a raid, two rustlers appeal to Janet and Neal for aid. They lend Dagwell a horse and hide Russ Miller, who has been wounded. Dagwell is captured and hanged. Miller is located, and Neal claims him as his prisoner because of the stage holdup. Austin disapproves of the engagement of Eleanor and Neal. Russ Miller breaks jail. Neal is suspected of arranging his escape. His motives are misconstrued when he sides with Dunn and goes on his bond after Dunn's forced duel with Brock. Because he fails to offer an immediate explanation, Eleanor is angry and rejects his tardy apology. They part in anger. Neal warns Austin a posse to the gap to round up the rustlers will end disastrously for the cattlemen. Austin is chosen leader. They plan to surprise the rustlers when it is dark. Impatient, Cross and Hack go ahead, arousing the rustlers. The cattlemen are forced to retreat. Hack and Morgan, their guides, are shot. They are trapped. Because Janet and Neal saved his life, Russ Miller brings them news of the trapped posse. Neal, with two helpers, goes to the rescue, after sending word to Dr. Seneca to follow with a posse. Janet notifies Eleanor, who persuades Dr. Seneca he needs to take along a nurse. Escape is cut off for the cattlemen. Reynolds does some scout work.

INSTALMENT XL.

REYNOLDS REPORTS.

Taking what cover he could, Austin Reynolds crept out from the rocks and turned sharply to the right along the hill shoulder. His advance was slow, since he scanned every clump of sage before starting for each new base. That a cordon of sentries had been placed to guard the exit he had no doubt.

From where he lay he could see the two campfires of the outlaws. That probably meant a considerable force. Most of the men would be resting at one or the other of these. The remainder were no doubt scattered along the hill to prevent a surprise attack or to check an attempt on the part of the defenders to escape during the night.

Reynolds followed a small draw, creeping forward on his hands and knees. To him there came the sound of a voice, from the lip of the little basin to his left. One sentry was hailing another. The men converged toward him. They stopped not 10 feet below the clump of brush behind which he crouched.

The men took up a subject that had already apparently been under debate. The hidden listener recognized the first speaker's voice. The man was Allan Dunn.

"I'm not gonna stand for it, Buck—wiping out this whole bunch. Cad isn't czar of the Gap. He can't tell me what to do. We've done got Hack and Brock and Morgan, all of them bad men who are better dead, all enemies of ours from where they laid the chunk."

"That's so," agreed the other man. "Seems kinda rough to me to wipe 'em all out. But some of those left are just as bad as the ones we got. Take Cross now. And Reynolds. He put me in the pen when he was sheriff."

"Suits me. You can have Cross. That's fair. He hanged Dagwell. We'll see how he likes it himself. And I won't make any fight for Reynolds, either. He rode us hard when he was on top, but no more. I've talked with some of the other boys. They feel that way, too."

"How do you figure on gettin' the ones you want and not the rest?" Buck asked.

"Starve 'em out. They'll ask for terms."

"Maybe so. Time our relief showed up. My belly is flat as a pair of chaps hangin' on the wall. I'm ready for grub."

The pickets drifted apart, each turning back along the way he had come. Reynolds had picked up more information than he had expected to get. He retraced his steps, still traveling with the greatest care. When he reached the boulder quarry the tension relaxed. He passed from it to the aspens and rejoined his companions.

Cross was the first man who saw him. "Thought you might have made up yore mind to keep on going," the owner of the Bar A B said with sour impudence.

There never had been any love lost between the two men. Reynolds looked steadily at him and passed without answering.

He told them how he had worked down the draw and encountered the rustler sentries, the men so near to him that with a fishing rod he could have touched them.

"Learn anything worth while from them?" Oldfield asked.

"One of them was Allan Dunn. He called the other Buck. I don't know him. Cad Clemson wants us all wiped out. Dunn says he won't stand for that. Evidently some of the others are with him. When it comes to a showdown I don't think they will let Cad have his way."

"Good," Manson cried. "All we got to do is fix up some agreement with them."

"I think that could be arranged," Reynolds agreed quietly. "But there is a catch to it. Dunn and this fellow Buck both said that two of us would have to be rubbed out."

"Which two?" Cross demanded.

Reynolds let his gaze rest on the Bar A B man. "You for one, because of what you did to Dave Dagwell."

Cross ripped out an angry oath. "I knew that's what you were going to say—and I don't believe a word of it. You're trying to frame me. But you can't sell me out. I'll pump lead into yore belly first."

Delavan's close set eyes fastened on Cross. "Reynolds hasn't offered to sell you out yet far as I've heard. But I'll say this, since you're asking for it. We don't owe you a bit of loyalty. You got us in this jam. Why shouldn't we give you up to them?"

"Not so fast, boys," Oldfield interrupted. "We're all in this together. It doesn't matter who was to blame. We're not going to turn anybody over to these bandits. And now, first off, let Austin finish his story."

"Who is the other fellow they claimed they would have to bump off?" Manson asked.

On Reynolds' face there was a thin grim smile. "I'm the other one," he said.

"I reckon you believe him now, Jack," Manson snapped, his black beady eyes on Cross, a gleam of malice in them.

"What's the difference? Maybe he wants to be sold down the river, but I don't. And I'm not going to be either."

"Neither of you are," Oldfield told him bluntly. "We'll play this hand out together, like we started to do. We're not going to turn yellow just because we bumped into a little hard luck."

Delavan justified himself. "I didn't mean I wanted to turn Cross over to these fellows, but I'm tired of hearing him shoot off his mouth after the play he made."

"Point of fact," Oldfield explained, "it's good news that Austin brought back." He elaborated the statement. "There's a split among the outlaws. Cad isn't going to have this all his own way. Dunn is a tough game rooster, bullheaded as a government mule. He'll take a lot of these scamps with him."

Reynolds knew that Oldfield had put his finger on a truth. If these outlaws made a clean sweep of them it would have to be in the heat of battle. For the men who lived in Rustlers' Gap—or most of them at least—were not essentially different from the cattlemen who were such sticklers for the established order. A good many of the ranchmen, too, had known raw and violent moments, yet they lived by a code that was fundamentaly decent, and this same code, even tho warped to strange and evil shapes, dominated the lives of many of those who followed fugitive trials outside the law.

FUNERAL TODAY FOR H. T. FROST, A CITY PLANNER

Designer of Philippines' New Capital City.

The funeral of Harry T. Frost, an architect who specialized in city planning, will be held in St. Chrysostom's Episcopal church today at an hour yet to be selected. He died unexpectedly of a heart attack Tuesday night in his apartment in the Whitehall, 105 East Delaware place. He was 57 years old.

One of Mr. Frost's last major commissions was the designing of Quezon City, which was to have been the new capital of the Philippines. He went to the Philippines in 1940, laid out plans for the city, and helped direct its actual construction. His wife, Charlotte, accompanied him.

Caught at Sea by War.

They left the islands just before the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor. They were still on the high seas, however, and only reached home after a perilous, roundabout voyage. At that time the new capital city had progressed to a point near completion.

Mr. Frost's associates gave him a large share of the credit for the development of a Chicago plan. He was chief of staff of the zoning commission, whose survey of the city in 1921-'22 resulted in an improved zoning ordinance. Later he was appointed secretary and technical adviser of the zoning board of appeals.

Advised Other Cities.

He also was employed at various times to advise on city planning by Denver, Colo.; Palm Beach, Fla., and Pasadena, Cal.

Mr. Frost was born in Hanley, England, and came to Chicago 30 years ago. He was a member of the firm of Bennett, Parsons & Frost, 80 East Jackson boulevard. He was also a member of the American Institute of Architects. At his death he was writing a book called "O, How They Grew!" dealing with the development of cities. He leaves his widow.

TRAIN HITS MILK TRUCK; DRIVER, 64, LEAPS OFF

A milk truck and a train made a great white way out of the Pennsylvania railroad crossing at 103d street and Vincennes avenue yesterday. The truck driver, John Bierman, 64 years old, 10131 Parnell avenue, a Bowman company employe, drove on the tracks while the gates on his side were up, but as he reached the opposite side, the other gates were down and a freight train was thundering down upon him. Bierman, in spite of his age, jumped to safety from his truck.

A few minutes before a south bound North Shore train was due, John C. Slown, 50, of 1533 Washington street, Wilmette, became confused and turned off the Gross Point road in Skokie and up the tracks. The train demolished the automobile. Slown was taken to St. Francis hospital, Evanston. Diagnosis? One scratched nose.

Miss Anna Weiner, 59, of 2754 Winnemac avenue, was fatally injured when she was struck by an automobile at Foster and California avenues. Police said she was running across the street to catch a bus. Miss Weiner, who worked in a factory, died later in Swedish Covenant hospital. The driver of the car was Frank Hackl, 22, of 5827 North Campbell avenue, a tool and die maker.

FOUR OF GANG SENT TO JAIL, 2 ON PROBATION

Four teen aged hoodlums were sentenced to jail yesterday, and with two others placed on probation for three years by Judge Harold G. Ward in Criminal court on charges ranging from larceny to robbery.

Those sentenced: Vernon Strossner, 16 years old, 2306 Cullerton street, six months; George Holk, 17, of 2300 Cermak road, six months; Anthony Walenberg, 16, of 2314 21st street, 30 days, and Raymond Nestor, 17, of 2341 21st place, 30 days. Those put on probation only were Nestor's brother, Richard, 16, and Anthony Donushi, 14, of 2043 Coulter street.

The six were rounded up three weeks ago by Rogers Park police. Their offenses included one holdup and several store breakings, police said. One other defendant, Theodore Strzysykowski, 17, of 2215 South Western avenue, is ill in County hospital, and will face Judge Ward on Jan. 11.

COAST GUARD FACES CHARGES AFTER COLLISION

Chicago Lawn police last night said they planned to charge Andrew Stanulis, 20 years old, a coast guardsman of 6651 South Talman avenue, with larceny of an automobile as soon as he is released from naval custody at Wesley Memorial hospital.

Stanulis was taken to the hospital early yesterday badly lacerated and with his nose almost severed after a stolen truck and a surface lines bus collided at Pulaski road and West 69th street. Eight bus riders also were injured, including Robert Worthey, 38, of 6341 Ingleside avenue, who is in Jackson Park hospital with a possible skull fracture.

Stanulis was found beside the truck but denied he had been in it, Lt. Bart Moran said. Complaints have been signed against him, however, Moran added. The Boysen Baking company, 1001 Chicago avenue, owners of the truck, said it had been stolen in the neighborhood of the crash.

OBITUARIES

Herbert Obergfell.

Herbert Obergfell, 59 years old, 617 Clinton place, River Forest, an inventor who has patented more than 80 items of telephone equipment, was found yesterday slumped over the wheel of his automobile at Harlem and Central avenues in River Forest. Police said he apparently had died of a heart attack. Mr. Obergfell, chief engineer for the Associated Electric laboratories, 1033 Van Ruren street, was inventor of one type of dial telephone. Surviving are his widow, Beatrice, and two children.

John Blomquist.

The funeral of John Blomquist, a pensioned employe of THE TRIBUNE, will be held at 2 p. m. today in the chapel at 3918 Irving Park road. Mr. Blomquist, who died Monday in his home at 5343 Grace street, retired in 1931 after 20 years of employment in the Tribune building department. He was 79 years old. Mr. Blomquist leaves his widow, Betty; a daughter, Ebba, and a son, Carl.

Raymond F. Stanton.

The funeral of Raymond F. Stanton, superintendent of the 47th ward, who died Tuesday night, will be held at 10 a. m. tomorrow in St. Mary of the Lake church. He was 55 years old, and lived at 6225 North Campbell avenue. He formerly was 39th ward supreintendent. He leaves his widow, Florence; four daughters, and three sons.

CAB DRIVER HELD ON RAPE CHARGE OF A PASSENGER

James V. Zurzolo, 24 years old, 10508 South Whipple street, a taxicab driver, was held to the grand jury in bonds of $4,000 by Judge Joseph H. McGarry in Felony court yesterday on a charge of rape.

The complainant is a pretty blonde, 28 years old, employed as a radio technician. She testified that she had been to a Christmas eve party on Dec. 24 in a tavern at 83d street and Racine avenue, and that at her request a police squad escorted her to 79th and Elizabeth street, where she engaged Zurzolo's cab to take her home. On the way, she said, she was attacked by the cab driver.

Zurzolo denied this. He said he picked up a male fare on the way to her home, and that the man, a stranger to the girl, is the guilty party.

Cyrena Nelson's Engagement to William Bonner Revealed

BY JUDITH CASS.

OVER the Christmas week-end the Francis A. Bonners' home in Hubbard Woods was the scene of a family reunion and of an engagement announcement. Maj. and Mrs. Jesse Ward Nelson who lived in Winnetka until Maj. Nelson was assigned to the military government school in Charlottesville, Va., and their children returned to the north shore to spend Christmas, and at a tea Sunday in the Bonner home the Nelsons announced the engagement of their daughter, Cyrena, to the Bonners' son, William.

Miss Nelson is a senior at Scripps college in California. Her fiancé, a graduate of Harvard university, is taking post-graduate work in teaching at Northwestern university, where he will complete his studies in June. Also here for the festivities, in addition to Miss Cyrena Nelson, were her sister, Jessie Ann, who came from New York City, and their brother, Charles, who is at the University of Illinois.

Yesterday in Great Neck, Long Island, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Warriner announced the engagement of their daughter, Anita Claire, to 1st Lt. Knowlton Lyman Ames III., son of Mrs. Paul McGinnis of Pasadena, Cal., and of Knowlton L. Ames of Chicago and Nassau, Bahamas. Lt. Ames, a 1942 graduate of Stanford university, is serving as public relations officer at Camp Stoneman, Cal. He and his fiancée, who was one of the organizers of the Great Neck soldiers' canteen, met two years ago on Long Island. They plan to be married next summer.

Other Engagements.

In Charleston, S. C., Mr. and Mrs. William F. Ostendorff are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Doris, to Lt. Vernon Rennord Olsen of the naval reserve, son of Mrs. O. C. S. Olsen of North Kenmore avenue and the late Mr. Olsen. Lt. Olsen and his fiancée, who is an ensign in the WAVES, met in Charleston, where they both are stationed with the navy. Miss Ostendorff attended college in the south. Her fiancé was graduated from the Northwestern Military and Naval academy in Lake Geneva, Wis., and from Northwestern university.

At a tea last Sunday in their home in Wilmette, Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Adams announced the engagement of their daughter, Valerie Jean, to Lt. John Alexander McLaren of the royal Canadian army medical corps, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. McLaren of Vancouver, B. C. Lt. McLaren was here for a week-

Dash and Color in New Print Frocks

Print Dresses Favorites in Fashion's Race

BY REA SEEGER

One piece dresses and clever two piece costumes with a suit streamline are running neck and neck in the race for fashion popularity. Printed materials also get the fashion spotlight, featured in both dresses and dress-suits.

New prints are flattering—colorful and fascinating examples of what a fresh, crisp, neat little design splashed cheerfully over light and dark colored backgrounds can do for a winter wardrobe. The colors are springlike and realistic, as are the florals which are copied from real blooms and foliage. Some are delightfully French in combinations of colors. Others feature a soft blurred outline of the printed design, reminiscent of the famous pompadour taffeta silks. The crepes are soft and clinging — outstanding examples of what enterprising textilists have accomplished with rayon and rayon mixtures, the latter with trick fibreset treatments to assure straight seams and non-sagging silhouettes.

Many of the newest models, stressing the two piece effect of jacket and skirt worn as a one piece dress, achieve this costume idea with the two pieces, while others, cut in a single unit, fake the division line around the hip with soft folds, curved tucks, or shallow ruffle to resemble a peplum. The real jackets have interesting dressmaker details like soft bows, double ruchings, cascade frills, and jabots, and many are deliberately collarless. Sleeves are short, well above the elbow, or of three-quarter length, and skirts are prim and straight.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

New Year's Resolutions.

I vow, each year, I shall do better,
Pay more heed to every letter,
Turn it out—so nice and neat,
And deem it, then, no special feat.
Correspondence up to date
And every file in shape, first rate,
I say, each year, "This is the one
When all my work will be well done."
And so it is a week or two,
And then, I'm just the same—aren't you? SALLY.

White Collar Quote.

"The hardest thing to teach any young research worker is to erase what is wrong. Don't be afraid to change your mind. Fail intelligently and you have a chance of success." CHARLES F. KETTERING.

Recurrence.

As a medical secretary I meet daily any number of patients who have had a "reoccurrence"—college graduates, salesgirls, financial wizards and soda jerkers—they've all had a "reoccurrence." How about telling them that the word is "recurrence"? M.

What the Wife Never Understands.

Things the wife never understands about the secretary:
Why she flatters the boss.
How she keeps her figure.
How she dresses so well.
Why she always gives the boss to understand she can cook.
Why she gets a raise with taxes so high and profits so low.
Why she isn't married. H. D.

15,156 Gorgeous Bosses.

This chain was started in Chicago in the hope of bringing happiness to all tired secretaries.

Unlike most chain letters, this one does not cost any money. Simply send a copy of this letter to five secretaries, then bundle up your boss and send him to the gal whose name appears at the top of the list.

When your name works up to the top, you will in turn receive 15,156 gorgeous bosses. Have faith! Don't break the chain! One gal broke the chain and got her boss back!

A SECRETARY.

On the Memo Pad.

The Minute Man banner, the treasury department award to a company in which at least 90 per cent of the employes allot 10 per cent of their pay for war bonds, has been won by two-thirds of the Indian agencies, including the Chicago headquarters. . . . There are 201 WIPS [Women in Production Service] at the du Pont plant now wearing the silver bars of captains. . . . Did you know that a few years ago it took 25 tons of violets to make an ounce of natural oil—now produced synthetically—and that there was no lily-of-the-valley perfume until it was made synthetically? . . . The first woman lawyer granted a license to practice in Palestine, Freda S. Eineman, is now a member of the New York bar. She was born in Australia but studied law in Jerusalem. . . . Lichine's 'Fair at Sorochinsk' Costly Failure

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

Perhaps the choreographic stars are out of joint this season, but scarcely a ballet novelty has come along worth salvaging for another winter. Not even the stylized brilliance of Anton Dolin's "Red Coat," the resounding vitality of Andre Eglevsky's dancing, or the way Rex Cooper rivals him in the hopak can disguise the unhappy fact that David Lichine's "Fair at Sorochinsk" is an expensive failure destined for the storehouse. Danced by Ballet Theater at the Civic Opera house last night in colorful mountings by Nicolas Remisoff, to Antal Dorati's adaptation of Moussorgsky music, it was much ado about not very much.

Mr. Lichine's is not a creative talent. He has a good memory and relies on it heavily, sometimes with success. But his arrangement of tales by Gogol and others begins haphazardly with a foolish witch, blooms briefly in the fair scene of lively dancing, and dies dismally in a witch's Sabbath that is a feeble recollection of Massine's magnificent effects in "Symphonie Fantastique."

The happiest way to see "Fair at Sorochinsk" is to forget about the story and enjoy the dancing. Dolin's first, because he turns in a characterization far removed from the usual conception of the cloven hoof, a tonsured devil with blue caverns for eyes, cat stripes for a tail, and gnarled fingers for hidden claws. Dancing high on the points of his boots, he has a febrile glitter as diabolical as his "Bluebeard" is debonair.

Eglevsky, his rival, goes thru the inane postures of his role like some dancing dynamo geared to fantastic feats of power. He looks enormous on a stage filled with small dancers, yet his elevation has the silky ease of something effortless done lightly for pleasure.

There is other male dancing, too, a great deal of it by Mr. Cooper, and by a trio composed of Jerome Robbins, Harold Lang, and John Kriza, who fling themselves into gypsy dances as if the very life of the ballet depended on them—which in truth it often does.

The piece is thick with character roles, the witch's cat from "Peter and the Wolf," the Semenoff sexton from the alchemist in "Bluebeard," and half a dozen more just as easily placed in pigeonholes. They are capably done but mean nothing in a story confused in texture and often vulgarly told.

The performance opened with a repetition of "Swan Lake," danced in Lee Simonson's lovely setting, with Rosella Hightower new as the Swan Queen and with Petroff and Kriza her cavaliers. The American girl did the taxing role beautifully for a newcomer. She has the satiny look for it, the innate sense of elegance, the hint of vivacity and the brilliance of turns which are her strong point.

British Relief Society to Return $2,500,000 of Its Fund Allotment

New York, Dec. 29 [Special].—Because the British War Relief society expects to use only about half of its allotment of $5,700,000 from the national war fund for the budget year ending Sept. 30, 1944, the agency has announced that it would return—barring "unforseen emergencies"—about $2,500,000 for use by other foreign and domestic beneficiaries of the American public's generosity.

The announcement was made at a press conference by Clark H. Minor, president of the society, and Sir Robert Appleby, senior vice president. The officials said that in the absence of such unexpected catastrophies as another air blitz or extensive damage by some secret weapon, organized British relief would sharply reduce its call on the national war fund.

The two officials explained that the society had effected great operating economies and had received large sums in unsolicited contributions, but its savings had been achieved mainly by reducing remittances and the shipment of supplies to Britain in conformity with steadily diminishing needs overseas.

Women in War Work

By Kate Massee

The post-holiday recruitment drive for the United States cadet nurse corps is being launched this week with the assistance of the Rotary clubs of Illinois, working with the Civilian War Service council, which has pledged its aid to the nursing profession in war time.

Mrs. Corena McCallum, executive secretary of the council, has announced that the Rotary clubs' war service committee, headed by Stanley Clague, president of Chicago Rotary, has sent to clubs thruout the state "recruitment packets" containing cadet nurse corps literature, information, and instructions for local committees about community campaigns.

The goal of the cadet nurse corps for Illinois is 4,740 new recruits by July 1, with 45 per cent of the quota still to be met. New recruits will be enrolled in late winter and spring training classes in coöperating hospitals.

Under the Bolton law, women entering nursing training under the auspices of the cadet corps are subsidized and pledge their services, upon graduation, to the nation, in either essential civilian or military nursing, for the war's duration.

They wear distinctive uniforms and insignia and receive all-expense scholarships and monthly allowances. Scholarships cover the cost of tuition, books, fees, board, room, nursing school uniforms for indoor wear [in addition to street uniforms], and other allowable expenses.

The monthly spending allowance is allocated as follows: $15 a month for precadets [first nine months of training]; $20 a month for junior cadets [next 15 to 21 months of accelerated course], and at least $30 a months for senior cadets [until graduation]. Students enrolled in the corps 90 days prior to the end of the war may remain in the program until graduation.

There are more than 30 hospitals in Chicago coöperating in the cadet corps plan, training in which leads not only to valuable service to the nation in war time, but also to a profession which, statistics indicate, will be extended in peace time.

Present indications point to expanded hospital facilities after the war. Nurses also will be needed to care for wounded and disabled service men. It is expected that the field of public nursing will be broadened greatly, with industrial health services maintained on a scale larger than before the war. Signs also point to health supervision in schools as a standard practice.

Young Chicago women interested in enrolling in the cadet nurse corps may obtain complete information regarding their eligibility by communicating with Miss June Ramsey, State Nursing Council for War Service, 8 South Michigan avenue, room 1014, Central 9708.

A Rip Roarin' Film Western Is Just Dandy

"THE KANSAN."

A United Artists picture, directed by George Archainbaud, featuring Richard Dix, Jane Wyatt, and Albert Dekker, and presented at the Garrick.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

This movie could really be reviewed in two words—gallantry and guts. . . . But I want to spout a bit about it, since I like old time "westerns," have a warm spot in my heart for Richard Dix and Albert Dekker—playing, respectively, hero and villain—and got a real kick out of meeting again, during the action, such sterling veterans as Victor Jory, Robert Armstrong, and Eugene Pallette. Then—little Jane Wyatt as the heroine is mighty sweet and deserves to have just that said about her. . . .

When I eyed the press sheet I turned wary. "Man of Iron" it shouted of Mr. Dix. "Steel muscles couldn't conquer him! . . . Hot lead couldn't frighten him! . . . Glittering gold couldn't buy him! . . . With her [illustration of Dix, his arms enveloping Jane, his eyes on the far open spaces] in his arms . . . he took the West in his stride . . .". Now, gosh, Richard's good—but is he THAT good?—the thought would intrude. . . .

Well, Darlings, he's just exactly that good. . . . He plays a fighting marshal who cleans up the wicked frontier town of Broken Lance, Kas., and proves that, tho he loves peace above all things—he ain't afeard, doggone it, and come occasion can be both a Machiavelli and a two-gun menace. . . .

Albert Dekker is the scamp of the scenario—a New York banker who is hiding out from financial scandal and making trouble the while. . . . Mr. Jory plays his brother—a lovable chap and very foxy. You never quite know on which side he's fighting. . . . Miss Wyatt is the slim, lady-like, sweetly smiling, steely-nerved owner of the town hotel. . . .

The fast action has that flamboyant, ten, twent', thirt' sweep that made the old "westerns" so endearing and humor tickling. . . . The film is an adaptation of Frank Gruber's novel, "Peace Marshal."

See you tomorrow.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 29.—"The Ziegfeld Follies" will go dramatic as well as musical. This time Metro's going to give you an all-star cast, with Fred Astaire, Judy Garland, Jimmy Durante, and Lucille Ball. Little Margaret O'Brien will do a stunt with Charles Laughton. That's become a mutual admiration society. If Mrs. O'Brien isn't careful, Chuck will kidnap Margaret—he's that crazy about her. Spencer Tracy will be in it, Hedy Lamarr, José Iturbi, and four top bands. Metro aims to top anything it's ever done. . . . What goes? Mae West wants to do camp shows—nobody will book her. That seems incredible. Same thing happened to Gypsy Rose Lee, but by golly, Gypsy booked herself and is doing out of the way camps while motoring from the east coast. I've had many letters about Mae, asking why she wouldn't do camp shows. Now I find she wants to and can't. . . . Since Louella Parsons persuaded Darryl Zanuck to pay $75,000 for her book, "The Gay Illiterate," I hear they're aiming to cast either Mae West or Marjorie Main in her part.

Fred Astaire. Judy Garland. Jimmy Durante.

From Plays to Dogs.

Austin Strong, author of "Seventh Heaven," is following in the footsteps of his mother, Isobel Field, who brought out a best seller—"This Life I've Loved"—at the age of 80. Austin's turned to short stories and has two tales about seeing-eye dogs coming out. . . . Warners is getting "Destination Tokyo" under the wire Dec. 31 for an academy award nod. I hear it's one of Cary Grant's best. . . . When Donald Duck [Clarence Nash] was on his P. A. tour, he met his namesake, the son of Sgt. and Mrs. Eugene Duck, of Wichita Falls, Tex. Mrs. Duck sat thru several shows with little Donald waiting for a chance to meet Clarence.

Again and Again.

Judith Allen, ex-movie star, will soon shed her third husband, Rudolph Field. Her two others were Gus Sonnenberg and Jackie Doyle. . . . Wonder why anybody would want the life of Peggy Hopkins Joyce as a starring vehicle for Alice Faye. Isn't she known principally for her many marriages and divorces? I have a neighbor who, at 35, has had seven husbands. In '43, she got two Reno divorces. Of course, the fact that she inherited $15,000,000 didn't hurt any, but I see no reason why that would be good screen material. . . . No wonder Eddie Cantor acts disgruntled. He and Frank Sinatra will have to fight it out on Wednesday nights. They'll be opposite each other on the airwaves.

Hope It Happens.

The R. K. O. pension plan has all our other studios in a dither. The whole thing has to be cleared by the treasury department before the studio can go on. I've been saying for years I didn't see why studios didn't divvy up their huge profits with their employes who, for years, have been faithful and helped create those dividends. Many war plants do it. But I guess it's complicated when stockholders have to be consulted. At least, that's what I've been told. . . . When Vic Mature phoned Anne Shirley he was in an eastern hospital, she got terribly excited. But he didn't add he was there because of two wisdom teeth.

Good Will Plus.

Jinx Falkenburg has accepted an invitation to participate in the International Mixed Doubles tennis tournament to be held in four American cities in the spring. Jinx will be teamed with Saenz Braukild, Central American player. They'll play in Washington; Santiago, Chile; Bogota, Colombia, and Managua, Nicaragua. . . . Lou Costello thought Santa Claus was being mighty nice when a large bundle of books arrived a few days before Christmas, but discovered they belonged to him all the time. Lou's daughters, hearing of the paper shortage, had carted them off to Merrymount school, and their teacher, suspecting papa didn't know anything about it, bundled them right straight back home. . . . A stranger came up to me the other day in the Biltmore and said, "Could you tell me if they're going to have that flower parade this year?" What she meant was the Tournament of Roses—and the answer is "No." . . . Tex Ritter dedicated "Goin' to Lasso a Rainbow" to the new Rose bowl queen, and is she pretty!

Sally Explains Families' Need of Furnishings

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Perhaps our readers can fill some of the needs of the D. family. The family has been self supporting until recently, when the father became seriously ill. Physicians say it will be at least a year before he can work again. All savings have gone for hospital and doctor bills and to start building a home, which is not yet completed.

It is now imperative for the family to receive relief, but at present that includes only a grocery and coal order. The house is still uncompleted inside, and the family is very much in need of blankets and bedding of any kind. Floor covering also would be helpful in making the home more comfortable and less drafty. The four boys, 3, 6, 9, and 12 years old, need clothing and shoes, sizes 12, 2, 3½, and 4. The mother also needs a coat, size 38 or 40, and shoes, size 9B. The address is on the extreme southwest side and beyond the city limits. It probably would be most convenient to send contributions by mail. This department will be glad to provide further information upon request.

The K. family, on the south side, needs living room, bedroom, and kitchen furniture, and linens and bedding. The family consists of an elderly woman, receiving old age assistance, who is making a home for her orphaned grandchildren, a girl, 10, and boys, 9 and 8. Because it is difficult for them to obtain suitable living quarters on their small income, they have been accepted for quarters in a housing project, but because they lack furniture they will be unable to move unless our readers can help them. The assisting agency will arrange transportation, but offers from the south side can be handled most conveniently and with the least expense.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	Pass	1 spade	Pass
3 spades	Pass	4 spades

North's three spade bid was questionable, despite his excellent hand. The lack of four supporting trumps should have dictated the rebid of two no trump rather than any number of spade raises.

West opened the club queen. The king won, and now declarer made an unfortunate guess for the spade jack, finessing to his own ten-spot. West won and returned the club jack. Declarer won and led a low heart to the queen. East took the trick and led a low diamond, which declarer won with the ten. The spade eight was now led and overtaken with the king. East blithely won with the ace and returned a club, his thought being that this would have to be ruffed in dummy and that declarer would not then be able to reënter his own hand to draw trumps. This was not the case, however. After ruffing the club in dummy, declarer used the heart jack for entry, drew East's trumps and spread the hand.

East's acceptance of his trump ace on the second round was little short of criminal. By this time he knew that declarer had started with only four trumps. If East passed the second trump lead declarer would be helpless. A third trump lead would be taken by the ace, and then a club return would force South to use his last trump on a ruff [or concede the club trick]. If declarer, instead of leading a third round of trumps, attempted to run heart and diamond tricks, East would ruff with his low trump, thus collecting the setting trick.

Little cookies, cakes, or sandwiches are all you need to accompany the punch, eggnog, or wine for a New Year's open house. Eggnog is so rich in itself that it needs no accompaniment at all. If other foods are served with eggnog they should be sharp in flavor and simple in composition.

Sandwiches to Serve with New Year's Punch.

1. Watercress. If you can find crisp, fresh watercress, sandwich it between buttered or margarined rounds of enriched white bread. These sandwiches must be made at almost the last minute, as watercress wilts readily. The sandwiches are delectable. Use scissors for cutting the cress.

2. Fish paste. Spread plain or smoked fish paste [lobster, oyster, salmon, shrimp, anchovy, etc.] on small crackers or canape bases. Garnish each with a bit of pimiento. These are open face sandwiches.

3. Avocado. Mash or sieve fully ripe avocado pulp, season with lemon juice, onion juice, salt, chili powder. Sandwich between small shapes cut from whole wheat bread. Or spread on potato chips.

4. Cucumber. Cut rounds of bread the size of sliced cucumbers. Sandwich a thicker than usual slice of crisp salted cucumber between two rounds.

5. Cheese and bacon. Fry bacon crisp. Crumble. Spread over highly seasoned cheese spread on toast, canape base, or fresh bread.

Appetizers to Serve with Cocktails or Wine.

1. Short lengths of crisp celery filled with a mixture of blue cheese and cream or cottage cheese, highly seasoned with onion, worcestershire sauce.

2. Relish tray. Stuffed and ripe olives, carrot and turnip sticks, cauliflower sections, celery hearts, radishes.

3. Liver sausage and pickle. Spear cubes of liver sausage and dill pickle on cocktail picks.

4. Shrimp. Use smoked shrimps plain and serve on cocktail picks. Marinate fresh cleaned shrimps in sharp French dressing or cocktail sauce.

5. Coat stuffed olives with sharply flavored cheese spread and roll in finely chopped nuts. Impale on picks.

6. Put halves of pecans together with cheese mixed with onion juice and mayonnaise.

Recordings for Children Are Listed Today

[Copyright: 1943: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

It is unthinkable that, in talking about the interesting things children can do in their leisure time, listening to music, or creating it, should be omitted. We've talked about that in this column before and will again. But at the moment, and for today, I merely want to list for you five phonograph recordings for the children and you to listen to. I must give credit to Progressive Education, November, 1943, for the list with comments compiled by Lorraine St. Amand:

THE NUTCRACKER SUITE by Tschaikowsky—[Victor 36266-8 $2.50]. "The Dance of the Sugar Plum Fairy," "The Chinese Dance," or perhaps "The Dance of the Flutes" will set their feet a-tapping. They are dances that will appeal strongly to a child's sense of rhythm.

TOY SYMPHONY by Haydn—[Victor 20215 75 cents]. The bright whimsy and spirit of this ensemble are recorded particularly well by Weingartner's symphonic orchestra. An imperative robin and the somewhat wistful bob white "step up" a minuet in an amusing fashion. The cuckoo adds his note of derision. But it is not only humorous; it is charming as well.

THE BUMBLE BEE PRINCE—The Tale of Tzar Saltan—by Rimsky-Korsakov—[Victor BC-14 $1.40]. If "The Bumble Bee Prince" is your children's introduction to opera, they may grow into adults who will sit in the tip-top of the metropolitan with a give-me-opera gleam in their eyes. For "The Tale of the Tzar Saltan" is lively, both sad and gay, and its magic is evident not alone in the fairy-tale events, but in the aria of the Swan Princess.

WEE GILLIS by Munro Leaf—[Victor BC 16 $1.05]. "Wee Gillis" is a book record which is not spoiled, as so many are, by sound effects interrupting rather than accompanying the tale. "Wee Gillis" is told simply; the voice of the narrator is unobtrusive, and the bagpipes are perfect.

BALLADS AND FOLK SONGS sung by Richard Dyer-Bennett—[Keynote $2.89]. Richard Dyer-Bennett, one of the last of the minstrel race, accompanies himself on a lute. Some of the ballads will be familiar. "The Swagman"; others, not so well known, are just as colorful.

$5 PRIZE RECIPE

Mustard Mayonnaise.

[About one and one-quarter cups.]
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon white pepper
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
2 teaspoons horseradish
1 egg yolk
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 cup salad oil

Blend seasonings, egg yolk and half the vinegar. Add oil, ½ teaspoonful at a time, beating constantly with rotary beater. After about ¼ cup oil has been added, gradually increase amounts of oil added until all is added. Beat vigorously while adding. Add remaining vinegar. Store in refrigerator in tightly covered jar. Cyrena Nelson Is Betrothed to William Bonner end visit with the Adamses and was present at the party. Miss Adams is a senior in the school of music at Northwestern university. Her fiancé was graduated from the University of British Columbia and from the faculty of medicine of McGill university in Montreal.

At a tea Sunday in their home in Highland Park, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Barker Fleager announced the engagement of their daughter, Ruth Elise, to Gaston Robert Poitou, son of Mrs. Esther Carbonell de Poitou and the late Gaston Robert Poitou of Havana, Cuba. Miss Fleager was graduated from DePauw university and also attended the Sorbonne in Paris. Her fiancé is attached to the Cuban consulate here and also is on the staff of the Berlitz School of Languages. The wedding plans will be decided after Mr. Poitou enters the United States army next month.

Wedding News.

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Hart of Hinsdale announce the marriage Christmas day in the Grace Episcopal church, Hinsdale, of their daughter, Tertia, to Flight Sgt. John F. Dunham, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Dunham of Norwich, Norfolk, England. Mrs. Gordon Blake was here from Canada to serve as matron of honor, and the best man was R. A. F. Sgt. J. G. M. Dobriskey of Malmsbury, Wilpshire, England. Later friends and neighbors of the Harts gathered in their home to drink a toast to Sgt. Dunham and his bride.

Unable to be here for the ceremony were the bride's two brothers. Aviation Cadet Malcolm Hart Jr. and his wife are at his army air forces training post in Balinger, Tex., while 1st Lt. and Mrs. Johnston Myers Hart are stationed at Goodfellow field, San Angelo, Tex. Sgt. Dunham and his bride have gone to Manitoba, Canada, where he is instructing with the R. A. F.

By long distance telephone from Washington, D. C., the Warren Buckleys of Evanston learned of the marriage there Tuesday of their daughter, Nancy, and Lt. [j. g.] Howard Meade Pack. Lt. Pack's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Pack, came from New York for the wedding, but none of the Buckley family was able to be present. The bride, a June graduate of Mount Holyoke college, now is an ensign in the WAVES. Both she and Lt. Pack, who received his degree from Columbia university, are stationed in Washington, and they will continue to live there for the time being.

Announcement is made of the marriage yesterday of Miss Margaret Gertrude and Nathan Fleishman, which took place at 3 p. m. in the Lake Shore drive residence of the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Smart. Dr. Louis Binstock read the service. After a month's trip south, Mr. Fleishman and his bride will be at home in St. Louis.

On the Calendar.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Wyatt Moore are entertaining informally this afternoon for their daughter, Mrs. Samuel Gelfan, and Mr. Gelfan, who were married recently in New York, and who are here over the holidays. Tomorrow the Moores will give their annual New Year's eve party, to which their guests bring part of the refreshments.

Miss Joan Allen is giving a luncheon for 24 young women today at the Woman's Athletic club.

The annual Christmas luncheon of the Lake Forest academy alumni association will be held at 12:30 p. m. today at the Bismarck hotel. Students, their fathers, and alumni are invited to hear McPherson Holt, president of the board of trustees, Samuel L. McSorley III., president of the student council, and E. Francis Bowditch, headmaster, speak. James G. Ehrlicker heads the association. Some of the older alumni are William G. Wise, '84; Calvin M. Trowbridge, '86; Fred C. Ritchey, '93; Matthew Mills, '93, and Clifford Williams, '98.

Becomes Bride Tomorrow

Miss Gladys Martin, who will be married tomorrow to Donald Michael Forte, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Forte of Oak Park. Miss Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Martin of Corbin, Ky., attended the University of Kentucky. Her fiance studied at De Paul university.

Thru the Looking Glass

All you women who've had colds and flu and are now burdened with a complexion sallowness that is insult added to injury can do a few lightening-up tricks with make-up. We've seen some remarkable experiments in this respect.

Of course, you should try to get your skin back in shape by creaming it furiously every night. Better yet, have some beauty treatments that emphasize oiling and a little gentle stimulation as well as deep cleansing. Somehow a cold, plus the necessity for bundling up and the natural tendency to stay in rooms that are almost breathlessly warm all the time you're having the sneezes, tends to make the skin dry and dingy as parchment. The beauty treatments, either at home or abroad in the shops where you can make an appointment, are the best picker-uppers for the complexion.

But you can fool your public a trifle with the right make-up. Use a base that's a little lighter in shade than the one you usually wear. Don't even be afraid of a little smidge of pink in it. Over this use a light powder, maybe one even a shade lighter than the base. Then, over these, use a darker powder. Not a muddy shade, with too much brown or yellow, but a darkish cream that's close to your natural skin tint. The lighter shades beneath will give at least the suggestion of radiance and clarity that you want.

Don't make the mistake of using a lot of rouge when you think you look a little peaked. Use no more than usual, be sure it isn't in a shade that stands out like the proverbial light, and blend it in so that there are no sharp lines of demarcation. Bring your rouge well up on the cheek bones; by some curious bit of make-up magic this gives the eyes the illusion of luster they lack when you're not quite up to par.

Emily T., Oak Park—I give my fireplace hearth a treatment of paraffin and turpentine every little while—for a soft sheen and to make it dust repellent. I make a paste of melted paraffin and turpentine, half and half, and after I have scrubbed and dried the hearth, I brush on this mixture while it is still warm. A stiff brush removes any excess and a soft cloth will make it shine, but not too brightly.

Mrs. Fred S., Chicago—Here's my insurance against "freezing" garage doors when melted snow trickles down between door and frame and then freezes hard again. I keep an old paint brush handy, dip it in old crankcase oil, and use it to keep door edges and frame oiled.

Wife Should Give Husband an Ultimatum

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1943: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

She married when she was 15, and now has two sons, 17 and 19.

"All these years," she reports, "I've been busy with home and children. My husband never liked any women friends I had, so he discouraged my seeing them. As a provider, he just let me have enough money for day to day purchases, until circumstances forced him to take a position out west. I budgeted the money he sent and was able to live on it, feed and clothe the boys until the older one went into service, and saved a couple of hundred dollars.

"My husband came back recently and when he learned of the savings, demanded them and refused to look for work until every penny was gone, as he said he needed a rest. Now he is working again and gives me so little money for the house I cannot get by. I am thinking seriously of taking a job and leaving him to forage for himself, for his attitude toward us all has been miserable since his return. What is your advice?"

Why not try for the job without breaking up the home? You need something to bolster your independence. A job might do it. Why should you take that kind of treatment from a man who gives you no decent concern?

We aren't sure about you and the job, either. You'll probably return with a first week's pay and hand it over to the man or suggest he spend it on himself. Pretty soon, then, he'll decide he needn't go to work with you on the providing end.

Early Christian Leaders' Ideas for Peace Told

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Catholic philosophers of the country were told yesterday that none of the great Greek philosophers ever had envisioned conditions for world peace, that it remained for St. Augustine, and later St. Bonaventure and St. Thomas Aquinas, to examine the structure of such a world society.

The statements were presented in the annual address before the American Catholic Philosophical association by Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch in the Hotel Sherman

The archbishop, however, pointed to the visions of ancient Hebrew prophets who foresaw such a world. He added that "The Republic" of the Greek philosopher, Plato, was completely lacking in three basic elements necessary for world peace, explaining that "The Republic" undertook to set up an ideal structure for a state.

The three elements lacking were cited as Plato's acceptance of the violation of human rights by countenancing slavery, the authoritarian nature of the state, and the sanction of "aggressive conquest." St. Augustine, Archbishop Stritch said, was the first great Christian thinker to influence Europe and "to envision peace."

"St. Augustine, St. Bonaventure, and St. Thomas saw that world peace is possible," the archbishop asserted, "but they refer to Christian peace in its deep spiritual value rather than to its political aspects. But synthesize their thinking and you can see peace within themselves and among nations.

"With them, peace was to be based on justice and charity, but more on charity than justice. Justice removes obstacles to peace, but peace comes as a proper effect of charity itself."

Archbishop Stritch joined with the Rev. Gerald Smith, S. J., of Marquette university, Milwaukee, in paying tribute to the late Rev. John F. McCormick, S. J., of Loyola university, a founder of the association. The meeting, closing today, is devoting its attention to the subject of philosophy and post-war reconstruction.

Weddings

Mrs. Florence Bourke Ellis and John W. Mattern were married quietly at 2 p. m. Christmas day in her Delaware place apartment. The date and place of the wedding were changed to Christmas day in Chicago when Mrs. Ellis' father, Daniel J. Bourke, and her sister, Miss Blanche Bourke, found they could come from Windsor, Ont. The bride's elder daughter, Patricia, attended her, and Arnold Carlson served as best man. Mr. Mattern and his bride will stay at the Drake until they can find a larger apartment.

The marriage of Miss Shirley Sabath, daughter of Gustav Sabath, to Pvt. Louis Lason, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lason, will take place at 8 o'clock tonight in the Washington Boulevard temple. The bride will be graduated next month from the Chicago Teachers college.

The marriage of Miss Elyse Janice Slattery to O. Wayland Trumbull, which took place Dec. 14 in New York City, is of interest here because Mr. Trumbull formerly was associated in business in Chicago. The bride, daughter of Henry Thomas Slattery and the late Mrs. Slattery of Boston, Mass., was graduated from Mount St. Ursula academy and Fordham university's graduate school and studied at the Sorbonne in Paris and elsewhere abroad. After a short wedding trip she and Mr. Trumbull will be at home in New York.

ILLINOIS UPSETS GREAT LAKES, 64 TO 51

GIL DODDS IS VOTED A. A. U.'S SULLIVAN CUP

Bill Smith Takes 2d; Platak 3d.

New York, Dec. 29 (AP).—Gilbert Dodds, the divinity student from Boston, today was named winner of the James E. Sullivan memorial trophy, the award annually given by the amateur athletic union to the athlete judged to have done the most to advance the cause of sportsmanship during the year.

In winning the trophy that has gone to nine other trackmen since it first was awarded to golfer Bobby Jones in 1930, the national 1,500-meter champion had things pretty much his own way in the final balloting of 600 sports leaders of the nation. He polled 860 votes as compared with 469 for Bill Smith, the Hawaiian swimming ace and Ohio State university star, now stationed at Great Lakes Naval Training station.

Platak Takes Third.

Joseph Platak of Chicago, who has dominated handball competition for many years, was third with 425 votes. He was followed by Bill Hulse, America's fastest miler from the New York A. C., with 393 votes and Ann Curtis, outstanding woman swimmer of 1943 from San Francisco, with 263.

Other athletes considered in the final poll, after the field had been narrowed to eight, were: Ken Sailors, basketball player from the University of Wyoming; Mary Winslow, Nashville, Tenn. business college basketball star, and William Watson, former Michigan athlete who won the national decathlon championship in the colors of the Detroit Police A. A.

First Time Name Submitted.

Dodds' selection was unique in that he won top honors the first time his name was submitted. Until two years ago, the divinity student, who races for the Boston A. A., virtually was unkown. He won the national indoor mile title and the outdoor 1,500-meter crown in 1942 and repeated this year in the 1,500 meters.

He rose to his greatest heights, however, while yielding to Gunder Hagg during the Swedish runner's tour of this country last summer. Gil met Hagg at any distance in a series of races that raised $135,000 for the army air forces aid society.

Presentation of the trophy probably will be made around Feb. 26, when the National A. A. U. indoor meet will be held in Madison Square garden.

FITZJAMES SIGNS TO BOX REEVES IN MARIGOLD

James Fitzjames, Canton, O., light heavyweight, and Jimmy Reeves of Cleveland last night were matched to meet in an eight round bout in Marigold Gardens Monday. Promoter Jack Begun closed the match as a substitute for one between Roy Lewis, Muncie, Ind., lightweight, and Freddy Dawson. Lewis asked a two weeks' postponement because of insufficient time to get in proper condition.

Marine Sgt. Barney Ross was in the city yesterday to give a talk in a defense plant on West North avenue. He will return to New York today.

NAVY PIER FIVE LOSES, 49 TO 44, TO BUNKER HILL

The Bunker Hill Navy basketball team defeated Navy Pier, 49 to 44, at Navy Pier last night. The Indiana team held a 19 to 17 half time lead. Lineups:

Rose Bowl Teams' Plans Hit by Rain

Pasadena, Cal., Dec. 29 (AP).—Overhanging clouds and occasional sprinkles brought gloom today to Southern California's football camp, while its Rose bowl opponent, the University of Washington, altho used to heavy going, professed a desire for clearing weather.

"Well, Washington is 3 to 1 in the betting and a wet field should make them 4 to 1," opined Coach Jeff Cravath of the Trojans. "They're used to a wet ball up there in Seattle. My lads don't seem to be able to hold onto a dry one, much less one that's slippery."

Southern California suffered one of its two defeats to service teams by loose ball handling and won three others in spite of frequent fumbles.

Huskies Want Dry Weather.

"We want dry weather," declared Ralph [Pest] Welch, boss of the Huskies. "Our offense is built around Al Akins and Sam Robinson and we most assuredly can't cash in on our kind of football on a wet field."

Welch was perturbed because Don Deeks, 255 pound right tackle, and Gordon Berlin, 205 pound center, were suffering from colds, but he expected them to be ready for the kickoff Saturday at 2 p. m. [4 p. m. Chicago time].

The Huskies' line, averaging 210 pounds, will outweigh Southern California's by a wide margin, and will have an advantage of several pounds in the back field.

Ticket Sales Booming.

Ticket sales have been booming and unless it is raining New Year's day the contest probably will be a sellout at 84,000.

Washington and the Trojans are planning on getting in hard licks again tomorrow, rain or shine, but Friday probably will be given over to secret drills with a final runiover of plays and game strategy.

The Trojans finished their season unbeaten in college competition but were downed by March field and the San Diego Naval Training station. Washington, winner of all its four games, whipped March field decisively.

NEW MEXICO WILL FIGHT

Albuquerque, N. M., Dec. 29 (AP).—Coach Willis Barnes says his New Mexico football players "are scared right now, but get them in the Sun bowl and they'll really fight."

He is counting heavily on that spark—and a dry field—to give his star backs a chance against Southwestern's favored Pirates from Georgetown, Tex., in the New Year's day game in El Paso, Tex.

"They know they are going to win," said Barnes as he tapered off his navy trainees with an hour's bucking a sled across a snowy gridiron, "but they don't know how, and frankly, I don't know either for those Texans have plenty."

TEXAS A. AND M. ARRIVES

Miami, Fla., Dec. 29 (AP).—The Texas A. and M. 34 man football squad, disappointed in its hopes of getting a practice workout today, arrived hours late tonight to complete the players' roster for the Orange bowl football game with Louisiana State.

The L. S. U. Tigers had a final hard workout today, and Coach Bernie Moore commented confidently, "We're doing all right; we're quite all right."

COACH KERR IS SILENT

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 29 (AP).—Colgate's veteran football coach, Andy Kerr, who annually directs the Eastern All-Stars for the East-West charity game, said today he did not intend to reveal what type of attacking formation would be used here New Year's day.

There has been speculation whether Kerr, a confirmed double wing exponent, and his associate, George Hauser, Minnesota, would spring the T formation against the westerners. Kerr referred all inquiries on the subject to the day of the game.

NORFOLK GETS EVEN, DEFEATS BUCKEYES, 64-36

Norfolk, Va., Dec. 29 (AP).—The Norfolk naval training station basketball team avenged its loss to Ohio State last night by beating the Buckeyes tonight, 64 to 36. In the first half, the Sailors piled up 33 points to State's 17. Lineups:

Kleins Take 3d in Pin Tourney with 1,208 Total

The team of Marge and Cliff Klein moved into third place in the standings of the husband-wife tournament at Cascade Bowling Center last night with a 1,208 total. Marge had 562 and Cliff, who will leave for the army service, wound up with 646. In the only other change in the leaders, Jeanette and James Clark took possession of ninth place with 1,191. The tournament will conclude Sunday night.

Tulsa Eleven Shows Power in Sugar Bowl Rehearsal

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

(Picture on next page.)

Bay St. Louis, Miss., Dec. 29.—The Tulsa university football squad, preparing for its Sugar bowl engagement with Georgia Tech in New Orleans New Year's afternoon, held open house here today for a score of coaches and newspaper men. In the evening, Brother Peter, president of St. Stanislaus college, on whose field Tulsa trains, was host at his annual dinner.

The football practice was the ostensible reason for the trip from New Orleans, but the St. Stanislaus party—Brother Peter's cuisine is unexcelled—was the grand climax.

Tulsa Expects to Win.

Tulsa was represented by Dr. C. I. Pontius, the university president, and members of his football staff. Dr. Pontius is mighty proud of his school's team and he told Georgia Tech men and the other coaches and writers his boys expected to win.

Coach Henry Frnka was more diffident and his remarks were as evasive as those of a politician before a grand jury. Behind the smother of words about highest respect for Coach Bill Alexander and Georgia Tech was the apparent determination that Tulsa would win and that Frnka believes he has the players who can do it.

There was an enthusiastic atmosphere at today's exercises which was missing in last year's camp. A year ago the Tulsa players hoped they might defeat Tennessee and, indeed, Glenn Dobbs and his mates gave a most creditable performance before they were battered into submission, 14 to 7. This new squad—only six remain of the group which lost to Tennessee—apparently has the reserve strength necessary for the battle with the Southeastern champions.

This We're Is Good, Too.

Tulsa's attack centers around Clyde Le Force, whose passing and running is compared by the Oklahomans to the play of Tech's Eddie Prokop to the detriment of the latter's reputation. Le Force, in today's limited workout, demonstrated his accuracy and his speed, as did his substitute, Maurice Wade, former Missouri player who played for the Tigers in the Sugar bowl two years ago.

Le Force completed 43 passes in 90 games in Tulsa's seven games. He carried the ball 56 times for an average of 5.2 yards, and his punting average was a bit more than 36 yards for 25 kicks. Only in this latter department is his record below that of Dobbs, but there have been few kickers, as THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE's All-Star game showed last August, who can punt as well as Dobbs.

Scores Five Touchdowns.

Le Force scored five touchdowns, threw eight scoring passes, and place kicked 29 points after touchdowns in 36 attempts. Wade's passing record is 19 completions in 35 attempts and he gained 162 yards by rushing in 33 ball carrying trips.

Camp Wilson, Tulsa's full back, and Ed Shedlosky, wing back, complete the list of regular ball carriers. They have averaged 6 and 7 yards, respectively, by rushing this season.

Coach Frnka has a collection of guards and tackles which matches Tech in weight and which his assistants say will outplay the Yellow Jacket line. Glen Burgeis, 205 pound left tackle, is one of the men who played against Tennessee. At the other tackle is C. B. Stanley, 207 pounds. Ellis Jones and Carl Buda are the starting guards while Felto Prewitt, 200 pound center, was a 60 minute man backing up the line in the Oklahoma and Southwestern [Tex.] games.

Todd Named Manager of Elmira in Eastern League

Elmira, N. Y., Dec. 29 (AP).—Al Todd, former National league catcher, today was named manager of the Elmira Pioneers of the Eastern league for the 1944 season, succeeding Ray K. Brubaker. Todd, who formerly caught for Pittsburgh, Boston, and the Philadelphia Nationals, was a player-coach for the Chicago Cubs last season.

ST. PHILIP AND WEBER MEET IN FINAL TONIGHT

Gaels Top Loyola, 37-19; Mount Carmel Loses.

BY FRANK NORRIS.

St. Philip vs. Weber!

That's the pattern for the championship game tonight in the fifth annual Fenwick High school preseason junior basketball tournament in Fenwick gymnasium in Oak Park. The title game will be played at 9 o'clock and will be preceded by a battle for third place between Mount Carmel and Loyola academy.

Tonight's contest involves two undefeated teams. Weber, coached by Frank McGrath, has rolled to 15 straight victories and St. Philip, piloted by Clem Naughton, has registered 10 in a row.

Both Win Easily.

Weber advanced to the title contest by eliminating the defending tourney champion, Mount Carmel, 37 to 22, last night. St. Philip entered the final round by defeating Loyola academy, 37 to 19.

The Weber-Mount Carmel contest started as a rout. The Red Horde built up an 11 to 4 lead in the first quarter and stopped the Caravan without a point in the second while amassing a 15 to 4 half time margin. But Mount Carmel, seeking to continue its cycle of Catholic league achievements, which includes the junior and senior league titles, the St. George senior tournament championship and a co-share in the football crown with St. George, rallied to count 9 points in the third period. Then Weber applied pressure to pull into a commanding lead midway in the final quarter.

Even O'Donnell Isn't Enough.

Weber's 37 points last night sent its season total to 777, an average of almost 52 points per game. Joe Depka, the city's leading scorer, took individual honors again last night with 13 points, bringing his season total to 221.

St. Philip's Gaels using their fast breaking game efficiently, kept the Ramblers off balance, despite the presence of Dan O'Donnell, who has been a standout thruout the tourney. With Bob Behnke, Capt. Gene Catrambone, Tom Byrne, and Jim Bryers hitting with hook shots and numerous set-ups, St. Philip went into a 15 to 8 lead at half time.

Behnke paced the attack with 10 points with Catrombe getting 7, Byrne 8, and Bryers 7. O'Donnell, however, was the scoring leader with five baskets and two free throws.

Weber Gets Revenge.

Weber's victory over Mount Carmel earned the Red Horde satisfaction for its double overtime defeat by the Caravan for the Catholic league junior championship. The score of that game was 36 to 32. Lineups:

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LOS ANGELES, CAL., Dec. 29.—The Pacific Coast conference, which until the season of 1943, shared top national ranking with the Big Ten, is going all out for football next year. . . . To quote the conference president, John W. Olmstead, "The members will, to the utmost of their ability, create a solid foundation for sports competition." . . . Rules were clarified to remove any technical complications in connection with competition of military trainees on the campuses, but the clincher was the announcement that all orders limiting practice from spring to Aug. 1 are lifted; that colleges may practice as much football as they wish. . . . Joe McCarthy consumes a package and a half of eating tobacco during the course of an ordinary ball game and two packages when the going is tough. . . . Marion Flanagan of the Texas Aggies, who meet Louisiana State in the Orange bowl, won two statistical titles last fall. . . . He led the country in returns of punts with 475 yards in 49 trials, and in ground gained on passes with 403 yards for 23 receptions. . . . Coach Bob Higgins of Penn State calls his 1941 eleven, which lost two games, the best of his 14 year tenure. . . . Jim Hannan, the only letter man on the Wayne university football squad, has entered the army. . . . The Hollywood Park race track hopes to reopen in the spring. . . . If it does, Santa Anita may run a meeting there. . . . Even the top sports performers sometimes are guilty of errors. . . . Andy Varipapa, for example, lost a strike the other night for stepping over the foul line. . . . Which is something like Ted Williams being deprived of a home run for failure to touch second base. . . . Ned Day, king of the nation's pin topplers, picks Lowell Jackson of St. Louis as the best prospect among his rivals.

Marchy Schwartz.

Andy Varipapa.

A San Francisco sports page pictures a group of hardy souls, known as the Dolphins, who, in accordance with an annual custom 47 years old, assemble in bathing trunks in midwinter and dash into the "icy Pacific" and out again. . . . What makes the story interesting is the admission by Californians that anything connected with the state could be termed "icy." . . . Marchy Schwartz, Stanford's football coach, has been given a year's leave of absence to accept a public relations berth with a Wichita oil company. . . . Elmer Brandell of Chicago writes: "Before the rules committee meets, why can't something be done about restoring the kickoff, the most thrilling play in the book. . . . I'd suggest that a team which kicks off out of bounds, as most of them are doing these days, should be forced to kick over with a 10 yard penalty."

Laugh, Clown, Laugh!

I've thought many times how I'd hate to be
That man who gives out with a loud
tee-hee
At a radio comic's every crack;
He laughs and laughs 'til the mikes laugh back.
I'm sure you know the fellow I mean—
On every show he's heard, not seen;
One pass from the star and away he goes
And a near conniption of laughter throws.

Now they must rehearse for quite a spell—
I know how radio works, and, well.
How can he make us that lusty roar
When he's heard all the gags so often before?
I wouldn't mind being the headline feller
Who gets all the buildup. What could be sweller?
But, gee, how I'd hate to be on the spot
Where I had to laugh, did I want to or not.

GAMES TONIGHT.

De Paul at Long Island.

Champaign, Ill., Dec. 29 [Special].—Illinois handed the Great Lakes basketball team its first defeat of the season, 64 to 51, tonight before 4,284 spectators.

The Illini snapped the Sailors' seven game winning streak and reversed a previous 52 to 44 decision with Great Lakes which represents Illinois 'only defeat in six games so far.

Foley in Army; Kirk Out.

The Illinois scoring was fairly evenly distributed among the starters, with Junior Kirk, sophomore guard from Mount Vernon, scoring 17 points. Stan Patrick had 12 points, Howard Judson, 11, and Dick Foley and Don Delaney 10 apiece. Kirk notified Coach Doug Mills just before the game that he had been rejected for army duty for physical reasons in Chicago today. Foley, on the other hand, was playing his last game for the duration of the war. Inducted recently, Foley was completing the customary 21-day furlough.

The high scorer of the game was Herman Schaefer, Great Lakes forward who connected for four of his first five shots at the basket, and wound up with 20 points.

Sailors Lead at Start.

Great Lakes led in the early stages, mainly because of the shooting of Schaefer, but, with five minutes left in the first half, the Illini went in front, 21 to 19, on Patrick's one-hand hook shot from the side. They were ahead, 26 to 21, at the half.

In the second period, Great Lakes twice crept to within three points of the Illini at 26 to 23 and 34 to 31 but most of the time they could not match the shooting of freshman Judson, who poured in four field goals, or Sophomore Kirk, who scored 12 points in the last 12 minutes.

With ten minutes to play, the Illini had a nine-point lead,—44 to 35,—and they continued to add to it.

The game marked the end of the pre-conference schedule for Illinois, which will open the Big Ten campaign at Wisconsin Monday.

EAST PEORIA, SALEM WIN AT MOUNT VERNON

Carmi, Belleville Victims in Opening Round.

Mount Vernon, Ill., Dec. 29 [Special.]—After trailing for more than half the game, Salem rallied to defeat Carmi, 41 to 32, in the opening game of the Mount Vernon holiday basketball tournament.

East Peoria, led by Wayne Hauser, a guard who scored 16 points, showed great power in the second game by defeating Belleville, 43 to 28, after the latter team took a 11 to 10 lead in the first quarter.

Morton High school of Cicero showed speed and power in defeating University High of Normal, 42 to 30, in the first game of the afternoon session.

Pinckneyville Beats Urbana.

Pinckneyville, undefeated this season, kept its record clean by beating Urbana, 43 to 39, this afternoon. Pinckneyville barely outlasted a fourth quarter Urbana rally in which the latter tallied 14 points. Gene Stotlar, Pinckneyville forward, scored a basket in the last half minute to clinch the game after Bill Corray, Urbana forward, had set a new tournament scoring record with 19 points.

Mattoon Whips Murphysboro.

Pinckneyville led, 14 to 10, at the first quarter; 27 to 15 at the half, and 38 to 25 at the end of the third period.

Mattoon eliminated Murphysboro in the final afternoon game, 37 to 33. The game was not close after the first quarter, which ended with Mattoon ahead, 10 to 9.

KANKAKEE WINS, 46-42

De Kalb, Ill., Dec. 29 [Special].—Kankakee lived up to its No. 1 seeding in the opening round of the annual De Kalb Holiday basketball tournament here today by defeating Kirkland in the first game, 46 to 42.

In the other morning contest Somonauk showed none of the class that made it the state's small school standout of the year last season, and lost to St. Charles, 37 to 22.

Another bracket of quarter-final opponents was decided in the opening afternoon games as Riverside beat Geneva, 38 to 24, and Shabbona whipped Amboy, 37 to 14.

In the final game of the afternoon session, Joliet overcame a 19 to 11 half time deficit to defeat Rochelle, 39 to 27, in the best contest of the day.

Dick Dresser's 23 points, high in the tournament, were not sufficient for Harlem High of Rockford and Belvidere, neighboring rival, made off with a 50 to 38 victory in the opening game of the night program.

The tournament hosts won their fifth straight game of the year tonight by dealing Waterman a 39 to 17 defeat.

WILDCAT LINEUP THAT BEAT IRISH TO FACE SAILORS

Coach Dutch Lonborg announced yesterday that Northwestern's lineup for tomorrow night's basketball game with Great Lakes in Evanston High school gymnasium will be the same that started against Notre Dame two weeks ago.

Jerry Carle, guard, who suffered a sprained ankle in the Notre Dame game, will be ready to play against the Bluejackets, Lonborg said.

The New Year's eve game is one of two events scheduled between Northwestern and Great Lakes tomorrow. In the afternoon the swimming teams of the two institutions will open their respective seasons at Patten gymnasium.

Lt. Walter Colbath, former Northwestern diving champion, is swimming officer at Great Lakes and will lead the Bluejackets against his alma mater.

Northwestern's basketball team has not seen action since its 48 to 32 victory over the Irish. The Wildcat attack will be built around Capt. Otto Graham who scored 16 points against Notre Dame in his first start of the season. Graham shared scoring honors with Bernie Schadler, sophomore guard, who leads the team in scoring with 30 points.

Huge Field to Seek Silver Skates Prizes

The largest and most capable group of out of town skaters ever to compete in a Chicago meet is coming for the 27th annual Silver Skates Derbies, sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., and scheduled for Garfield park Jan. 15 and 16. Pete Miller, president of the Amateur Skating Union of the United States, has been notified by coaches in various parts of the country that they are grooming skaters who have a good chance of taking home the trophies.

Gilbert Van Willigan, head of the Wisconsin group, predicts skaters from his state will repeat the performances of Del Lamb, former Olympic star from Milwaukee, and Veronica Roseman of West Allis, who distanced the fields in both major events last winter. Ted Young of St. Louis, who has been bringing teams to the Derbies for years, will be back with a full roster, as will George Chadima, president of the Iowa State association.

Cleveland Has Title Plans.

Another coach with championship ideas is Al Hamilton of Cleveland, who will have representation in every age class.

As four of the eight 1942 titles went to skaters from outside of Chicago, the local coaches are none too happy at the thought of a larger invasion.

The outlook in the senior division is uncertain, but the local clubs boast skaters of championship caliber in all of the younger age groups. A true picture of the situation will be known this week-end, as two meets are scheduled for Saturday and Sunday.

City Meet Saturday.

Saturday the city championships will be decided in a 20 event program, and on Sunday Peirce playground will conduct its annual Derbies. Both events will be held in Garfield park, and at least 300 skaters will take part in each series of races. With the entry lists closing on Jan. 10, skaters are urged to make certain that their names are sent in on time.

AGENCIES RULE SHIP LINES IN MINUTE DETAIL

115 Distinct Bodies Make Regulations.

Federal control of American steamship lines—down to the most minute detail of operation—is exercised by nine departments of government and no fewer than 106 commissions, boards, bureaus, and other agencies.

The exact degree of control and the specific authority assumed by each of the agencies was shown yesterday in a chart distributed by the American-Hawaiian Steamship company from its headquarters in New York City.

Chicago shipping interests who received the chart counted a number of New Deal agencies created since the beginning of the war in addition to the long-established commissions exercising control.

Bosses Every Phase.

The government superintends every phase of steamship operation from the time the shipbuilding materials are ordered until the last cargo is delivered. The chart, issued without comment other than to acquaint shippers with the detailed facts of control, clears heretofore misunderstood areas of jurisdiction assumed by the agencies.

The nine departments of state, treasury, post office, war, justice, navy, agriculture, commerce, and labor, issue orders and regulations thru 55 divisions, boards, or bureaus that have a hand in shipping.

The office for emergency management, one of the agencies created by the present Washington administration, administers most of the new regulations superimposed upon those in effect before the advent of the New Deal, and operates thru 15 other agencies. These include the war production board, office of price administration and others with which other types of business are familiar, as well as agencies with which the general public has little contact.

Congress Has Hand in Pie.

Sixteen committees of the senate and house prescribe rules and regulations under which the steamship lines operate. One is the committee on post offices and post roads, altho the relationship between roads and shipping is not clear. Ten independent offices such as the maritime and commerce commissions write other rules. Operating directly under President Roosevelt are three other agencies.

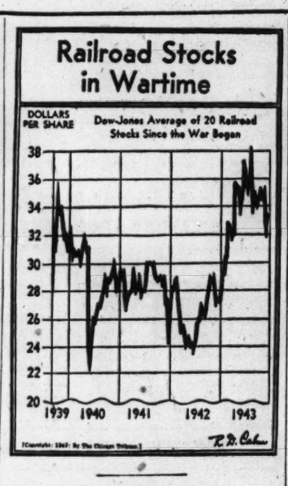
The seven international commissions, conventions, and joint boards exercising further control include those with such descriptive names as the international load line convention, the international bill of lading convention, and the international convention on safety of life at sea. Only one entirely private regulatory agency is listed—the American bureau of shipping, organized first in 1862.

Following are some of the activities of the regulatory bodies listed in the American-Hawaiian Steamship company report: Collection of duties, law enforcement in foreign ports, collection of 12 specific excise taxes, hydrographic surveys at home and abroad, supervising the movement of troops and war supplies, preventing the shipment of quarantined articles, determination of ocean routes, payment of construction and operating subsidies to equalize foreign costs, supervision of rates and pooling of traffic.

9 COMMITTEES FORMED TO AID PEACE OUTPUT

New York, Dec. 29 (AP).—The committee for economic development announced today the formation of nine national committees to advise business men on how to expand peace time production to a record 142 billion dollars a year and to raise employment to 55 million persons.

Marion B. Folsom, treasurer of Eastman Kodak company and chairman of the field development division of CED, said the committees comprise experts in engineering, marketing, new materials, sales, personnel, sales executives, manufacturing, trade groups, and advertising of post-war goods.



Rails' Shares Sell Higher in Weak Market

New York, Dec. 29 (AP).—Prices of carrier shares advanced a little today with the calling off of the rail strike, but most other groups sold lower.

Steel securities lost ground, and a few selected issues declined a point or more. Apprehension over the outcome of the wage increase drive in the steel industry and the question of duration of army control of the railroads retarded buying.

Some specialties were bought at higher prices, Phoenix Hosiery preferred rising 11½ points anticipating retirement of the issue. Philip Morris and United States Rubber preferred advanced a point or more.

Of the 937 issues traded, 400 declined, 286 advanced, and 251 were unchanged. The Associated Press 60-stock composite at the close was down 0.1 of a point at 49. The rail average showed a gain of 0.3 of a point. Dealings totaled 997,150 shares against 921,720 yesterday. It was one of the most active sessions of the month.

BONDS ACTIVE AND UP.

New York, Dec. 29 (AP).—Bond prices stiffened today after announcement that threats of a railroad strike had been removed. Early losses in the carrier department were turned into small gains at the close and while there were laggards in all groups, a majority of the more active issues ended on the plus side. Sales were $10,546,100 against $9,117,000 yesterday.

CHICAGO STOCKS LOWER.

Price changes were mainly lower in broader and more active trading on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. Of the volume leaders, Chicago corporation and Studebaker were unchanged, and Radio Corporation of America, Miller & Hart, and Cities Service were down slightly. Commonwealth Edison rose ⅜. E. L. Bruce on a half point gain reached a new 1943 peak.

20 PLANTS SHUT DOWN AS STRIKE CHOKES OFF GAS

Birmingham, Ala., Dec. 29 (AP).—Nearly a score of industrial plants, employing more than 13,000 persons, were shut down today as a result of a walkout at Sloss-Sheffield Steel and Iron company's blast furnaces and coke ovens. The additional plants were closed by a shortage of gas supplied to the Birmingham Gas company from the Sloss-Sheffield coke ovens.

Charles B. Gamble, president of Birmingham Gas, appealed to householders to use no more gas than necessary in heating and cooking, since remaining sources of supply are barely ample for household needs.

The Sloss-Sheffield walkout began yesterday when 79 employes struck in protest against a war labor board decision fixing Oct. 20, 1943, as the date from which retroactive pay began on an overtime basis for hours worked in excess of 40. The UMW had asked that overtime pay be made retroactive to Oct. 20, 1942.

Dayton Lawyer Succeeds Burke as SEC Member

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 29 (AP).—Robert Kendall McConnaughey, Dayton, O., lawyer, was sworn in as a securities and exchange commission member today, succeeding Edmund Burke, who resigned. McConnaughey has been in government service since 1934 with the department of agriculture.

FIRST QUARTER CAR NEEDS SET 4.8 PCT. HIGHER

Shippers Promise Efficient Use.

Approximately 1,117,299 railroad freight cars will be required in the first quarter of 1944 to handle products in the area served by the midwest shippers advisory board, an increase of 4.8 per cent over the 1,056,896 actually loaded in the first quarter of 1943, the board predicted yesterday.

F. A. Schleifer, who is retiring after four years as general chairman of the board, said the estimate takes into account the order of the office of defense transportation which requires maximum loading of cars. Estimates on certain products such as acids, automobiles, chemicals, and explosives have been deleted for military reasons, altho the statistics are included in the overall report.

Farm Machinery to Gain.

The largest increase is expected in shipments of agricultural implements, reflecting the war production board directive permitting increased manufacture of these items. The increase is expected to be 130 per cent over 1943.

The second largest increase is expected to be recorded in fertilizers. The 50 per cent gain is attributed to an attempt to get fertilizers to market earlier because of increased agricultural activity. Normally a large part of the shipment would take place in the second quarter instead of the first.

"The shippers have pledged wholehearted support to Transportation Director Joseph B. Eastman in his appeal for a 10 per cent overall increase in the car efficiency drive," Schleifer said.

A comparison of actual loadings in the first quarter of 1943 with estimated loadings in the first quarter of 1944 and the percentage of increase or decrease follows:

QUEBEC'S PAPER PLANT WORKERS ASK WAGE HIKE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

QUEBEC, Que., Dec. 29.—A 10 cent an hour increase in wages has been requested of Quebec employers by mill hands and other workers in 19 newsprint plants thruout the district, it was learned today. The present hourly wage is 45 cents, but the workers wish it brought up to the Ontario level of 55 cents an hour.

Some of the companies were reported to have granted the increase when they learned delegates of the National Federation of Pulp and Paper Workers had asked the regional labor council for higher rates of pay. The council is expected to make a decision shortly.

Pay Adjusted for 20,837 in Chicago Area

Wage concessions for 20,837 Chicago area workers, running from 2½ cents an hour pay increases to approval of time and one-half for work on holidays and Sundays, were permitted under rulings announced yesterday by Robert K. Burns, chairman of the regional war labor board. Other decisions denied increases for 486 workers.

In an agreement between Montgomery Ward & Co. and the United Mail Order, Warehouse, and Retail Employes union [CIO], approved by the board, 12,000 employes will receive time and one-half for all Sunday and holiday work, when regularly scheduled hours do not include those days. The order is retroactive to Jan. 1, 1943.

Cleaners Win Raise.

Thirty-three cleaning and laundry businesses and associations got increases of 50 cents to $1.84 per week for 1,051 employes. This decision, Burns said, covers about half the cleaning industry in Chicago. The union is the International Association of Cleaning and Dye House Workers, AFL. The increase amounts to about 5 per cent of current wages, and is retroactive to April 1, 1943. Other rulings included:

General Electric X-Ray corporation and A. F. of L. machinists, 1,013 employes, 60 cents an hour starting wage and shift premiums.

Glove Union, Inc., Milwaukee, and A. F. of L. auto workers, 2,340 workers, 5 cents an hour increase, retroactive to Jan. 1, 1943.

Republic Drill & Tool company, no union, incentive plan for 950 employes.

Raise Unorganized Group.

Continental Can company, no union; merit increases for 229.

Aetna Ball Bearing company and employes association, incentive plan approved for 266 workers.

Franklin association and Bookbinders' union, 950 employes, increase of 10 cents an hour, time and a half and double time for overtime, and increased differential for night shift.

Triangle Restaurant company, no union, 659 employes, partial approval of new range of increases.

Miles Laboratories, Elkhart, Ind., and United Mine workers [CIO] 2½ to 5 cents an hour increase for 538 employes.

WPB ENDS RULE ON EARLY ARMS PARTS ORDERS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29 (AP).—The WPB today revoked its rule requiring early placement of orders for key parts and equipment items in the arms program.

The regulation provided that purchase orders must be placed before Jan. 1 on items on which delivery was required during the first six months of 1944, and before March 1, for items needed in the second half of the year.

The requirements were eliminated because some of the essential arms programs are "of such a nature that it is difficult to predict requirements sufficiently far in advance," the WPB said.

WPB announced also that the Copper Recovery corporation is winding up its affairs and that the copper purchase program is being brought to an end.

The improved aluminum supply was reflected in another WPB action, the relaxing of inventory restrictions on aluminum forgings, pressings, and extrusions.

People and Events

William P. Littell, vice president and Chicago manager of Ruthrauff & Ryan, national advertising agency, has been elected a member of the board of directors, the company announced yesterday. Littell joined the firm in Chicago in 1922 as a writer and later was made head of the agency's copy and plan department. He will retain his present position.

William P. Littell.

J. R. Pershall, who last week was appointed director of advertising for the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, has been granted a leave of absence to assume a temporary assignment in Washington, D. C., at the request of the war department. William E. Pierce will be in charge of the company's advertising activities until Pershall's return.

The Mid-West Shippers' Advisory board and the Traffic Club of Chicago will observe railroad presidents' day next Thursday in the Palmer House. Scheduled to speak at a luncheon are Col. Ralph Budd, president of the Burlington railroad; L. W. Baldwin, chief executive officer of the Missouri Pacific; W. M. Jeffers, president of the Union Pacific; J. L. Beven, president of the Illinois Central, and H. A. Scandrett, trustee of the Milwaukee road.

Roy M. Henry, Chicago regional director of Butler Brothers, has announced his resignation after 23 years' service with the company. H. L. Goodbar will be acting regional director.

MANAGEMENT ENGINEER

Good opportunity for man experienced in foundry and machine shop practice to work on a profit-sharing basis and ultimately into a partnership. This is professional work and limited to Chicago and its environs. Should know standard costs and variable budreting. Phone Randolph 0505 for appointment.

WILSON WARNS ON NEED OF BIG WAR SUPPLIES

Civilians' Outlook Held Unfavorable.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29 [Special].—The volume of material necessary to supply invasion bridgeheads to be opened in western Europe will be so vast it will dwarf the quantity of supplies shipped for the invasions of North Africa and Italy, Charles E. Wilson, executive vice chairman of the war production board, said today. His observations were made in a talk on 1944 production requirements before executives of WPB's newly reorganized office of operations.

The year ahead will be the "most difficult of the war" for WPB executives because of pressure for more civilian goods and war materials, Wilson said. The output of civilian goods must be increased, but increases must be secondary to munitions production, he asserted.

Warns Against Optimism.

He warned against undue optimism over an early start of general civilian production. Certain changes in direct war production needs may result in the opportunity to make some civilian goods, but general production of civilian goods remains "far, far down the list," he said.

"I needn't remind you that the volume of munitions we must produce in 1944 is larger than in 1943—or at least equal, if you give credence to cutbacks reported to be coming later," Wilson said.

"It is no military secret that vast quantities of arms will be needed. The amount of material we sent to Africa and Italy is insignificant compared with the amounts that must go over for the new phase of the war that lies ahead."

Concentrate on Bombers.

Wilson said the largest number of four engined bombers ever produced in a single month in this country will be included in the 9,000 aircraft which the nation's airplane factories are expected to turn out this month. He said that even the currently high rate of production must be stepped up "because it just isn't enough for the job that is ahead."

He said he agreed with Gen. Eisenhower that the war with Germany would end in 1944, but emphasized that neither WPB nor the military leaders could safely count on a quick collapse of Germany.

WHEAT PRICES ARE STRONG ON FLOUR DEMAND

Announcement that the government was in the market for 600,000 barrels of flour, equivalent to 2,700,000 bushels of wheat, brought firmness to wheat yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Closing prices were ⅝ to ⅔ cent a bushel higher.

Other grains were weak with oats off about 1¼ cents early, dropping to a new low in more than three weeks as the result of selling induced by belief that the permanent price ceiling to be announced next month would be lower than the current price. The close was ⅝ to ⅞ cent lower. Rye was unsettled and finished ⅛ to ¼ cent lower. Barley was off ⅜ cent.

Mills were fair buyers of May wheat, presumably reflecting flour sales. The May option closed at $1.67¼, the highest May closing price this year.

COLLINS LEAVES EXECUTIVE JOB WITH BOND UNIT

The resignation of Norman B. Collins as executive vice chairman of the Illinois war finance committee, effective today, was announced yesterday by Harold H. Swift, chairman. Collins will give up his administrative responsibility, but will remain a vice chairman of the committee.

He will return to his duties as president of the National Security bank, from which position he took a leave in August, 1941, to organize the state war bond sales. Executive administration of the Illinois war finance committee will be taken over by Renslow P. Sherer, executive manager, and his assistant, E. B. Bartlett.

Predicts Record Meat Output; Many Hogs Unsold in Chicago

Up 12½ Pct. in 1943

An all-time record meat production in the United States was reached during 1943, but is expected to be surpassed in 1944, T. Henry Foster, board chairman of the American Meat institute and president of John Morrell & Co., Ottumwa, Ia., said yesterday. "A slightly increased supply awaits consumers in 1944," he predicted.

This year's meat production rose 12½ per cent above that of 1942, and estimates place 1944 production at 25 billion, 600 million pounds, or 6 per cent above 1943, he said.

"A new record for cash paid to farmers for live stock slaughtered under federal inspection—$4,040,839,000—was set this year, representing an increase of $581,537,000 over last year," Foster added. He summarized the outstanding events of 1943 in live stock and meat as follows:

1. Production of meat in excess of 24 billion pounds, representing an approximate 50 per cent increase above the 10 year pre-war average.

Consumption Remains Large.

2. An average consumption per capita of about 132 pounds, notwithstanding rationing, the tremendous requirements of fighting men, and shipments to allies. This was approximately the same as the pre-war average.

3. The meat packers supplied 64 per cent more federally inspected meats to government agencies this year than they did in 1942.

4. The resourcefulness of the industry in coping with the various federal orders and restrictions.

About one-third of the 1944 production, or about 8 billion 500 million pounds will be required for military and lend-lease needs, Foster said.

Prices Hold Steady

Hog prices were little changed yesterday, altho the clearance in the Chicago stock yards was the poorest since Tuesday of last week. It was estimated that 10,000 farmer-owned hogs remained unsold, with most packers reporting they had a two day supply on hand at the close of trading.

The top and average prices held at $13.75 and $13.35 a hundred pounds, respectively. Packing sows were scarce and sold 5 to 10 cents higher. The top was paid mostly for 220 and 290 pound butchers.

Receipts Are Larger.

Most good 170 to 190 pounders sold at $12.25 to $13, and 310 to 325 pound butchers sold mostly from $13 to $13.25. Sows ranged from $12 to $12.65, only those below 350 pounds selling above $12.40.

Farmers shipped hogs in larger volume than last week. Twenty major markets received 133,000 head during the day, against 940,000 a week earlier. Chicago handled 29,000, including directs to packers, compared with 15,776 last Wednesday. The three day total at Chicago this week was 97,200, compared with 82,862 last week.

Cattle Prices Mixed.

Best grades of steers and yearlings sold at steady to strong prices, but others were weak. Heifers were steady to weak. Strong to 25 cents higher prices were paid for beef cows, canners, and cutters. Bulls advanced 15 to 25 cents. Calves sold steady.

Lambs ruled steady to strong, with some sales 10 cents higher. The top of $15.10 was paid for several loads.

Seek Proxies to Oust Head of Pipe Lines

Three Missouri-Kansas Pipeline company stockholders yesterday started a proxy soliciting drive for the purpose of ousting William G. Maguire, president of the company and chairman of the Panhandle Eastern Pipeline company, which it controls.

"Mokan [as the holding company is popularly known] can't afford Maguire any more," said a letter to stockholders signed by Howard Butcher III., Philadelphia, Pa.; A. Faison Dixon, New York, vice president and director of Mokan, and J. Walter Taylor, Wilmington, Del., whom the letterhead listed as the members of a stockholders' committee.

Says Maguire Is Overpaid.

"This committee opposes Maguire's continuance in power in view of the additional personal payments which he has received from Mokan and Panhandle Eastern since Jan. 1, 1943, amounting to $198,140 for himself and his company, W. G. Maguire & Co., Inc.," the letter said. "The other 16,000 Mokan stockholders during the same period received a total of $163,745 in dividends."

The committee also proposed a merger of Panhandle into Mokan. The proxy form accompanying the letter would give the committee the right to vote the shares of assenting stockholders during 1944. The annual meeting is ordinarily held in March.

Of the alleged payments to Maguire this year, $37,500 was listed by the committee as salary from Panhandle for nine months at an annual rate of $50,000, $14,583 as Mokan salary for five months at an annual rate of $55,000, and $10,208 for seven months at the rate of $17,500.

Maguire Explains Advance.

The principal other item was $104,498 described as reimbursement to Maguire and his company for moneys expended for Mokan in 1936 and 1937, plus interest, but was not listed as a liability in the company's annual statements. The letter said Dixon had started suit to recover this amount for Mokan.

Maguire, who has an office at 135 South La Salle street, said the $104,498 item represented funds he had advanced to the company during receivership; that the claim had been referred to in his letters to stockholders, and that the company's balance sheet had included a contingency reserve relating to such items.

Gerrard Company, Steel Subsidiary, Is Renamed

The United States Steel corporation announced yesterday the name of its Chicago subsidiary, the Gerrard company, will be changed to Gerrard Steel Strapping company, effective Jan. 1.

CHICAGO'S NEW AUTO RATIONING QUOTA 5 FEWER NEXT MONTH

The January rationing quota of new passenger automobiles for the Chicago metropolitan area is five cars below the December quota of 450, the OPA area office announced yesterday. Cook county's quota is 375 for January, the same as in December.

The nation's quota for January is 15,300 cars, 200 fewer than in December and a 25 per cent decline below November. The quota is the lowest since rationing of automobiles began almost two years ago. Current estimates indicated approximately 60,000 new 1942 cars remain in dealers' hands for rationing.

Only 15,800 new bicycles, the lowest monthly quota yet and half the December total, will be available for rationing in January, the OPA said in Washington.

CREAMERY FIRM REPORTS DIP IN QUARTER PROFIT

Beatrice Creamery company yesterday reported a decline in profit for the three months ended Nov. 30 to $270,665, equal to 42 cents a common share, from $325,061, or 55 cents a share a year earlier. Net sales decreased to $24,683,225 from $28,191,262.

C. H. Haskell, president, said because of government set-aside orders and lower production the company was unable to accumulate the usual inventories of butter or to supply its regular trade adequately, altho butter sales in the November quarter are ordinarily the highest of the year. Egg and cheese sales also decreased. Sales of commodities other than dairy products increased.

For the 12 months ended Nov. 30, the profit was $1,869,307, or $3.51 a share, against $1,664,974, or $3.16 a share, in the preceding year.

H. W. GOSSARD EARNINGS SLIP IN FISCAL YEAR

H. W. Gossard company yesterday reported consolidated net profit of $447,292, equal to $2.06 a share, during the fiscal year ended Nov. 30, compared with $492,071, or $2.27 a share, during the preceding fiscal year. Provision for income taxes, domestic and foreign, amounted to $290,460, against $630,240 during the preceding fiscal year.

"Volume of business was slightly less than for the preceding year," R. C. Stirton, president, said. "However, the volume is exactly the equivalent of our government restricted production. Because of these regulations, we carry over a backlog of orders which will require several months to complete."

Stirton said he expects 1944 business to be about the same as in the 1943 fiscal year.

FOOD DEALERS OPPOSE OPA'S POINT SHUFFLE

Schedule Meetings to Seek Changes.

Retail food dealers in the Chicago area will hold three mass meetings next week to protest losses in point values thru office of price administration manipulations, Charles H. Bromann, executive secretary of Associated Food Dealers, Inc., announced yesterday.

C. H. Bromann.

Petitions seeking changes in OPA regulations permitting speedy recovery of point losses by retailers will be signed at these meetings and forwarded to Walter Straub, OPA rationing coördinator in Washington, Bromann said. Retail food dealers have been discriminated against because they are unable to get point adjustments as readily as restaurants, wholesalers, and processors, he charged.

Tells of Big Point Losses.

"Six million points are estimated to have been lost by Chicago meat dealers alone when on Dec. 12 OPA arbitrarily reduced point values on pork," Bromann said. "These cannot be retrieved locally and only by showing extreme hardship to Washington may they be obtained. By the time national officials act many dealers will be out of business because they cannot replace inventory without points."

The retailer buys his supplies by an OPA trade chart and sells according to a consumers' chart of point values, Bromann explained. A 21 per cent differential for waste and shrinkage and other uncontrolable losses is allowed in the trade chart. Bromann said this is not sufficient because many products are not in normal supply and because the wastage is larger than normal because several products, particularly meat, are trimmed when sold the dealer.

Says Theory Doesn't Work.

"When the merchandise is on hand and the OPA cuts the point value, the dealer loses points," Bromann said. "OPA says we can recover when the point values are increased. But points don't increase until an acute shortage in the product is recognized. Then it is too late to get enough merchandise for normal turnover. How can we get the points when we have nothing to sell?"

The mass meetings next week are scheduled as follows: Carlton hotel in Oak Park, Ill., Monday; the American Legion hall, 63d and Woodlawn avenue, Tuesday, and the North Center hall, Irving Park road and Lincoln avenue, Wednesday.

Bromann said the petitions being circulated demand that OPA take the following actions: Issue a directive permitting the retailer to recover net loss in points; amend regulations to establish definite point recovery percentages and incorporate full authority in local boards to avoid interruption of food distribution; amend rationing orders to provide periodic adjustments for retailers as in other segments of the food industry, and increase the differential between trade and consumer point values to allow for war time conditions.

Steel Making Nears Full Schedule

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 29 (AP).—While the CIO-United Steelworkers' union continued negotiations for renewal of contracts which expire soon after the turn of the year, the last of 170,000 workers who participated in stoppages in nine states were returning to their jobs tonight.

Reheating and repair of blast furnaces and other units taken out of production during the work tie-ups kept several thousands from their jobs after the main body of workers had gone back. Full production was expected in most plants by tomorrow or Friday.

Estimate Revised Upward.

As a result the American Iron & Steel institute revised upward its estimate of production for this week to 86.3 per cent of capacity. The institute previously had estimated the week's output at 81.3 per cent of capacity.

Approximately 170,000 tons of steel were lost as a result of the stoppages, the institute estimated.

All Republic Steel corporation plants in Ohio, New York, and Indiana were operating, but about 3,000 Republic employes at Cleveland awaited completion of repairs scheduled for tomorrow. Youngstown Sheet and Tube company was operating at about 60 per cent of normal, with the last 5,000 workers due to return by Friday.

Vote to Return to Jobs.

A back to work vote taken at a general meeting of Wheeling Steel's 20,000 employes put that company's West Virginia and Ohio plants back in operation.

Two Pennsylvania plants of Crucible Steel company and several Blaw-Knox company plants were among the larger Pittsburgh district mills resuming full operations.

In Newport, Ky., full production was expected by tomorrow at the Andrews Steel company plant, the only one in Kentucky affected by the stoppage.

Looking south down Michigan avenue from Tribune Tower at 11 a. m. yesterday, when a shift in the wind brought a murky atmospheric condition which forced office workers in Chicago's downtown buildings to turn on their lights. In the loop sidewalk signs were brilliantly lighted.
